TAFT WITH ALDRICH FOR A CENTRAL BANK

Present Financial System "A Patched-Up Affair," He Tells Boston Business Men.

HIGH PRAISE FOR SENATOR

Expects Him to Convert the West—President Speaks Against Sectionalism on Eve of Long Tour.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—On the eve of his departure on a 13,000-mile tour of the country, which will take him as far West as Seattle and South to El Paso, Texas, and New Orleans, before his return to Washington, President William H. Taft was the guest of honor to-night of the Boston Chamber of Commerce in Mechanics' Hall, where more than 2,000 representative men of the city, State, and Nation around the banquet board.

The President's chief plea was for the support of the business men of the country in his fight for banking and monetary reform. To Senator Aldrich for his work in this direction he gave high praise. He also came out with a practical indorsement of the plan for a Central Government bank. Referring to the new tariff law, he said he would discuss it fully in the West.

This was President Taft's first public speech since Congress adjourned, and the demand to hear him caused a crowd to gather at the doors of Mechanics' Hall as early as 5 o'clock, for the galleries were to be thrown open to spectators.

The President, who had arrived by automobile from Beverly late in the afternoon, had apartments at the Hotel Touraine, where a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce waited upon him, and at the appointed time, under escort of the National Lancers, the body guard of Gov. Draper, accompanied him to the Mechanics' Building. The dinner hour was 7:30, but a reception to President Taft preceded it.

Boston regarded the event as of double importance, as it also celebrated the merging of Boston's three leading commercial bodies, the Merchants' Association, the Associated Board of Trade, and the Chamber of Commerce into one organization, the largest of its character in the country, its membership numbering 3,000.

The Dinner Guests.

The invited guests at the dinner included Gen. Carlos Garcia Velez, Cuban Minister; Señor Don Epifanio Portela, Argentine Minister; Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, Supreme Court Justice Holmes, Senator W. Murray Crane, Senator Henry E. Burnham of New Hampshire, Gov. Draper, Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Rear Admiral Swift, Lieut. Col. Edward Burr, Justice Lowell, United States Circuit Court; Postmaster Edward C. Mansfield of Boston, William A. Marble, the Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston; Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. William E. Huntington, President of Boston University; President Frederick W. Hamilton of Tufts College, William Nelson Cromwell, and United States District Attorney Asa P. French.

Mayor Hibbard, who was unable to be present, sent a letter welcoming the President to Boston.

Mr. Rothwell, as presiding officer, and Gov. Draper delivered brief addresses preceding President Taft's speech, Gov. Draper saying:

"Whatever any one may feel in regard to the Tariff bill, whether he believes in one theory or another, I am sure that he agrees that the President did patriotic, efficient, and very able service in the last days of that very memorable session of Congress just closed."

President Taft said in part:

"This is the time when, looking forward to the coming again of Congress in December, one must consider the needs of the country so far as they may be relieved by Congressional legislation and attempt to state what that legislation should be.

Pleads for Banking Reforms.

"In the first place, there is the monetary situation. While it is probable that the Vreeland bill passed by the last Congress would aid us in case of another financial crash, it is certain that our banking and monetary system is a patched-up affair which satisfies nobody, and least of all those who are clear-headed and have a knowledge of what a financial system should be.

"The matter has been referred by Congress to a monetary commission, which has been studying with much interest the financial and banking systems of the great Governments of Europe, and has embodied and will soon publish the best accounts of the financial systems of the world.

"It is quite apparent from the statements of Mr. Vreeland, who is now the head of the Committee on Banking and Currency in the House of Representatives, and from the conversations of Mr. Aldrich, who is the Chairman of the Monetary Commission and of the Finance Committee of the Senate, that the trend of the minds of the Monetary Commission is toward some sort of arrangement for a central bank of issue which shall control the reserve and exercise a power to meet and control the casual stringency which from time to time will come in the circulating medium of the country and the world.

To Keep Out Wall Street.

"Mr. Aldrich states that there are two indispensable requirements in any plan to be adopted involving a central bank of issue. The one is that the control of the monetary system shall be kept free from Wall Street influences, and the other that it shall not be manipulated for political purposes. These are two principles to which we can all subscribe. It is quite possible that the report of the commission of a definite conclusion may be delayed beyond the next session of Congress.

"Meantime, the members of the commission intend to institute a campaign of education, in order to arouse public opinion to the necessity of a change in our monetary and banking systems, and it is also stated without authentication that the Russell Sage holdings of the company's stock represented on the Western Union board by J. J. Slocum have also passed into the same hands.

The rights of way possessed by the Western Union Company have large value for the telephone company, and stories of attempts of the telephone company to control of the Western Union have been current from time to time for several years.

MISS STEWART WEDS TO-DAY.

American Girl Will Be the Bride of Prince Miguel of Braganza.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The wedding of Miss Anita Stewart and Prince Miguel of Braganza will take place to-morrow at noon at St. Lawrence's Catholic Church in Dingwall, Scotland, where the bridegroom will motor from Tulloch Castle. The church was viewed to-day by troops of visitors, who greatly admired the decorations. Trailing lengths of smilax hung from the roof, and the Braganza colors, ruby and blue, set off brilliantly the palms and white lilies that covered the whole interior except the altar.

There was a rehearsal of the wedding ceremony, which passed off without a hitch. The bridegroom, in the wedding ceremony, will be styled Prince Miguel of Braganza. He will attend a wedding mass with the Duke and Duchess of Braganza and the Austrian guests at 8:30 in the morning. The service will be choral, and the hymns formally chosen for the wedding ceremony will be sung at this service instead of at the later one, where there will be no music except that of the Seaforth Highlanders Band of forty men, who will be stationed outside the church.

It has been arranged that the Prince shall reach the church for the noon ceremony shortly in advance of the bride, and as he enters the church the band of Seaforth Highlanders will play the Austrian national anthem. As Miss Stewart enters "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be given. After the ceremony, which will last only twenty minutes, the Prince and his bride, who will be known by the titles Duque and Duquesa de Vizen, will return to Tulloch Castle for the wedding breakfast, during which the Seaforth Highlanders Band and Scottish pipers will play at intervals.

The Prince will be in Maltese uniform, a brilliant scarlet Court dress heavily decorated with gold. The bride's costume will consist of an underdress of embroidered mousseline de sole with a Court train of embroidered satin. Her only ornament will be the bridegroom's gift of a feather cluster of diamonds and pearls, a Braganza heirloom.

BUYS PAN-AMERICAN ROAD.

Our Ambassador to Mexico Gets Link in Route to Isthmus.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14.—David E. Thompson, United States Ambassador to Mexico, secured to-day control of the Pan-American Railway, a line extending from San Geronimo, on the Tehauntepec National Railway, to Mariscal, on the Mexican-Guatemalan frontier.

Ambassador Thompson did not make public the purchase price, but said that he would have the controlling interest in the property, having secured by purchase $9,600,000 worth of the stock.

The line, which is 244 miles in length, was formerly owned by Los Angeles and St. Louis capitalists, D. P. Doak being President and J. M. Neeland Vice President.

Ambassador Thompson is a practical railroad man. He declares that the little line is of great strategic value, in that it is the only feasible route for entrance into Central America. The road will be greatly improved, and Mr. Thompson will personally look after the property.

It is said in railway circles here that the road will some day be a part of the greater Pan-American line, which is to afford an all-rail connection between the Canal Zone and the United States.

It was reported and denied several weeks ago that the Pan-American Railway had been purchased by Mr. Thompson. At that time it was said that he was acting in conjunction with the Harriman interests, by which the line from the Canal Zone to the United States has been planned.

ARMOUR A RAILROAD POWER.

Chicago Thinks He Will Rival the Great Men of the East.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Chicago thinks it has a rival of Eastern financiers in T. Ogden Armour. The Tribune will say to-morrow:

"Mr. Armour, long a packing house power, more recently the controller of a nation wide system of refrigerator lines, with its attendant grip on railroad destinies, now has become a financial potentate, with such diverse and teeming interests that they indicate an ambition still unfolding."

"By his recent step in consolidating the Continental National Bank and the American Trust and Savings Bank Mr. Armour has intrenched himself in a fashion to demand recognition from the entire world of money. Observers are of the opinion that he intends to make the Continental Bank stand in relation to Armour interests as the National City Bank of New York stands to Standard Oil.

"For a sign of his purpose, he has made his bank one of the greatest in the country, first in point of capitalization of any bank in Chicago, and a close second in point of surplus and deposits to the First National Bank of this city, its nearest rival.

"For the first time in the history of this country the Middle West has produced and still claims as a resident a man who has achieved a place among the small coterie of really powerful financiers."

GOULD SOLD WESTERN UNION?

Report Revived of Company's Absorption by American Telephone Co.

The old stories of efforts on the part of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to obtain control of the Western Union Telegraph Company have been persistently revived in Wall Street since the return of George J. Gould from Europe.

Although no official information is obtainable from the executives of either company, it is rumored that the holdings of George J. Gould have actually been obtained by the company, which controls the Postal Telegraph system, and it is also stated without authentication that the Russell Sage holdings of the company's stock represented on the Western Union board by J. J. Slocum have also passed into the same hands.

OFFICER TO BE TRIED FOR GIVING ADVICE

Naval Constructor Who Told Captain Tug Was Overloaded to be Court-Martialed.

WARNING UNHEEDED; 4 LOST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Navy Department will try to hold Naval Constructor J. G. Tawresey responsible for the disaster to the tug Nezinscot, which foundered between Portsmouth and Boston on Aug. 11, when Acting Assistant Surgeon C. E. Trotter, attached to the Portsmouth Naval Hospital, and three other men lost their lives. The tug capsized because she was overloaded. Constructor Tawresey's alleged responsibility lies in the fact that he happened to see her before she left the Portsmouth yard and suggested to her Captain that she was too heavily loaded. Now the department seeks to hold that, having such a suspicion, the full performance of duty on the part of Constructor Tawresey required that he should insist upon a listing test before permitting the tug to sail, and that when he did not insist he became responsible for the subsequent disaster.

Five enlisted men are to be tried at the same time on charges of neglect of duty in connection with the loss of life. But so far no court has been appointed to try anybody for overloading the vessel. The enlisted men to be tried are Frank H. Bitter, chief boatswain's mate, who was second in command on the tug and had charge of the boat after the Nezinscot capsized, the master having been lost; George H. Pratt, chief machinist's mate; William Fitzgerald, seaman, and V. F. Tillotson and C. F. Underwood, firemen. The charge against these men is one of the most unusual in the naval service, that of deserting comrades in danger of their lives and of failing to attempt a rescue.

Acting Secretary Winthrop has appointed a court-martial to meet at Portsmouth next Monday to begin the trial of the cases. It is headed by Rear Admiral N. E. Niles, Governor of the Naval Home at Philadelphia. Lieut. William P. Cronan, now at the Newport conference, is to be Judge Advocate.

Constructor Tawresey is one of the best men in the construction corps, and has a fine record. It was merely by chance that he was brought into the Nezinscot affair at all. He went down to the wharf where she was loading, on business not at all connected with her, and while there happened to notice the Nezinscot. It struck him, from his casual observation, that she was being overloaded, and he suggested that to her master. The Captain did not agree with Constructor Tawresey, however, and the constructor went along about his business without giving further attention to the tug.

After the disaster a board of inquiry met at Portsmouth and reported that no blame attached to any one for the accident. Since then word has come to the department regarding Constructor Tawresey's suggestion of overloading.

The tug was carrying anchors and spare parts to the battleship fleet, which was about to go to the southern drill grounds, and the department has become convinced that she was overloaded, and that that was the cause of the disaster.

When the department heard about Tawresey's connection with the matter he was asked about it, and at once replied, confirming the report of his suggestion. In the view of the department this is a serious situation for him. It is held that although he had no business with the Nezinscot when he went to the wharf, as soon as he suspected she was overloaded it became his duty to insist upon having a listing test before permitting her to sail, and that in failing to do so he was negligent of his duty.

The charges against the enlisted men are based upon the statements of one of the survivors of the Nezinscot, who accuses them of what amounts to cowardice. His charge has special reference to the loss of Surgeon Trotter. It is charged that Dr. Trotter left his place on a life raft which he had procured and went to the assistance of one of the accused men, who was struggling in the sea. He got the sailor to the raft and the man took the place Dr. Trotter had relinquished. But when Dr. Trotter sought to get on the raft again he found he made one too many and the raft would not sustain them all. The result was that before he could get any other means of support he became exhausted and sank. During this struggle it is charged the other four enlisted men made stronger efforts to save themselves than they did to help any of the officers who were in danger.

Altogether this will be one of the most remarkable navy courts-martial ever held.

CANADA RESENTS OUR TARIFF.

American Senate Violated the People's Trust, Says Manufacturers' Head.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 14.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association began here to-day. President R. Hobson, in referring to the American tariff characterized the action of the American Senate as a violation of the trust reposed in it by the people of the United States, and barren of all desire to create closer trade relations with Canada.

Its action, he said, puts the farmer on the same level as the manufacturer, both of whom must look to the nome market. Canada's sales to the United States represent about $92,000,000 per year, United States sales to Canada reprent $189,000,000. He called upon the Canadian Government to take the American Government at its word and bring into effect the provisions of the Surtax act of 1909.

Regarding transportation, he declared Canada should deepen the St. Lawrence and Welland Canals.

CHARLES F. M'KIM, ARCHITECT, DEAD

President of American Institute of Architects—Founder of McKim, Mead & White.

FAMOUS FOR HIS DESIGNS

Suffered from a Nervous Breakdown Following Stanford White's Murder—Long in a Sanitarium.

Charles Follen McKim, founder of the firm of architects of McKim, Mead & White, and President of the American Institute of Architects, died yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clocy at his cottage in St. James, L. I. Ever since the death of his partner, Stanford White, he had been in ill-health, and at the beginning of last year it became known that he was in a private sanitarium not far from New York, the exact location of which was known only to his family and his partners.

He was suffering from a heart affection and a nervous breakdown brought on by the shock of Stanford White's murder, and though he was for a time under the charge of Dr. Charles Hitchcock of 57 West Thirty-sixth Street, it became impossible for him to continue his work. He was ordered rest and country quiet and was obliged to go away. His death yesterday was unexpected, although he had never fully recovered. Heart trouble set in to hasten his end. His daughter was with him at the end.

Mr. McKim was born in Chester County, Penn., Aug. 24, 1847, and was the son of James Mills McKim, the well-known abolitionist. For a year Mr. McKim studied at the Harvard Scientific School, and then went to Paris, where he entered the Ecole des Beaux Arts as a pupil of Daumet. He was there for three years, from 1867 to 1870, and then returning to New York after two years spent in travel and study on the Continent of Europe, started in business as an architect. William R. Mead joined him in 1877, and Stanford White in 1879, and the firm became nationally famous under the style McKim, Mead & White.

Its work has been as remarkable for its variety as for its excellence. It created a veritable renaissance in American architecture and brought into prominence the Italian type of design.

Among the works undertaken by the firm were cottages at Newport, Lenox, and other Summer resorts, the Boston Public Library, the New York Life Insurance Company's buildings in Omaha and and Kansas City, St. Paul's Church, Stockbridge, Mass.; St. Peter's Church, Morristown, N. J., the Algonquin Clubhouse, Boston, and the Freundschaft Clubhouse, New York.

Mr. McKim's name was especially associated with the Boston Public Library, the Columbia University Library, the Century and other clubhouses in the city, J. Pierpont Morgan's library, and the War College at Washington. The Pennsylvania Railroad Station, in Seventh Avenue, now rapidly approaching completion, was also designed by him.

The firm was also responsible for the restoration of the White House at Washington, and has erected many well-known monuments in this and other cities. Recently it was awarded the design for the construction of the immense Municipal Office Building on Tryon Row, which will be one of the landmarks of New York.

Mr. McKim had been honored by foreigners as well as by his own countrymen. He received a gold medal at the Paris Exposition of 1900, and three years later King Edward of England awarded him another gold medal for his share in the promotion of architecture. In this he was keenly interested quite outside the interests of his own business, and he was the founder of the American Academy at Rome.

Among the societies to which Mr. McKim belonged were the American Institute of Architects, the Architectural League, the Society of Mural Painters, (honorary,) and the National Academy of Design. He was also a member of the Municipal Art Society, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Fine Arts Society, and the Pennsylvania Society.

He was a member of the University Club and the Metropolitan Club, the homes of both of which his firm designed; the Lambs, the Brook, the Garden City Golf, and the Somerset and St. Botolph Clubs of Boston, and the Metropolitan of Washington.

Mr McKim is survived by his daughter, Miss Margaret S. McKim.

M. W. HAZELTINE DEAD.

New York Sun's Veteran Reviewer Expires in Atlantic City.

Mayo W. Hazeltine, for many years book reviewer for The Sun, for which he also wrote the majority of the editorials on foreign affairs, died suddenly yesterday in his Summer home in Atlantic City, N. J. He was 68 years old and was born in Boston. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

Mr. Hazeltine was graduated from Harvard, studied in Oxford, England, after which he made a tour of the Continent, and later returned here to take up law, eventually being admitted to the bar. He never was in active practice, but devoted himself to foreign affairs of a diplomatic nature and soon became to be regarded as an authority. He joined the staff of The Sun in 1878.

Mr. Hazeltine had maintained a town home in the Burlington, 10 West Thirtieth Street. Among his books were Chats About Books, British and American Education, and The American Woman in Europe. He contributed to The North American Review, to the Harper publications, and wrote editorials for Colliers.

He was a member of the Metropolitan Club here and the club of the same name in Washington.

FRENCH FINANCIER AT U. S. STEEL PLANT

AMAZED BY GREAT WORKS

M. Bonzon, Director of Credit Lyonnais, Believed to be Convinced of Value Underlying Securities.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—The attempt to list United States Steel Corporation stock on the Paris Bourse has not been abandoned, and the movement is expected to be entirely successful in the near future. French capitalists are interested in the matter, and through their intervention all doubt in France as to the value behind the stocks and bonds of the corporation, it is expected, will be dispelled.

Alfred Bonzon, Managing Director of the Crédit Lyonnais, the great French banking institution, arrived in Pittsburg to-day, in company with W. B. Perley of J. Pierpont Morgan's office, and was met by the officials of the Carnegie Steel Company. In company with A. C. Dinkey, President of the Carnegie Company; W. M. McCausland, Treasurer of the same concern; W. B. Balsinger, assistant to Mr. Dinkey, and A. C. Knox of the Mellon banking interests, M. Bonzon was escorted through miles and miles of mills. He was shown what the stocks and bonds of the Steel Corporation were founded upon.

M. Bonzon said that he had come to the United States on a visit to his son, R. Bonzon, a New York banker, but admitted that his trip to Pittsburg had a specific object. Mr. Morgan is said to have arranged this investigation into the mills. When M. Bonzon reports his findings to his bank it is expected that United States Steel will soon be listed on the Bourse.

The party arrived from New York this morning and was met at the station by President Dinkey and a number of others. They went to the offices of the Carnegie Steel Company, and from there were taken to the Homestead and Duquesne plants of the steel corporation. From there it is only a step to the great rail mills and furnaces at Braddock, where the visitors were shown the wonders of the immense plants. Later on they were entertained at the Country Club, and left for New York at 9 o'clock.

"It is wonderful; like a fairy tale," exclaimed M. Bonzon, showing plainly that he had not expected to see works of such magnitude.

When pressed with interrogations as to whether the stock will be listed in Paris immediately, he said that he would not answer if he could.

The visit of the French financier was accompanied by the statement that the question of listing the common stock of the Steel Corporation on the Paris Bourse was nearing solution. It was said by steel men that M. Bonzon had come to Pittsburg for the express purpose of seeing just what underlies the securities of the Steel Corporation.

When asked if he had come to Pittsburg to acquire information concerning the business of the corporation that he might assist in popularizing its shares in France, he declined to reply. He did not deny, however, that he had come for the purpose of going through the mills, observing their equipment, looking over blast furnaces, and noting the percentage of operation. His knowledge of the steel industry is such as to convince all who heard him talk that this visit was not his first to a plant of this nature. He showed interest in all that was going on about him and asked many questions concerning cost of labor.

TYSON QUITS AUTO SPEEDING.

Victim of Many Accidents Now Uses a Low-Power Car.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 14.—John H. Tyson, the young motorist, whose ill-luck is almost proverbial, has given up racing cars and he says he means it. Tyson, lame and sore from the accident in which he figured ten days ago, when his racing car turned over at Riverside, appeared in Stamford yesterday driving a small machine. There was scarcely room for two in the car, and although it was on the model of the big racer that he smashed in his latest accident, its horse power was only ten.

As he limped into a local hotel, Tyson explained that he would ride only in the little car hereafter. He said that he had had enough of racing cars and accidents and intended to establish a reputation as a careful driver.

The sight of Tyson in a little low-power car attracted a good deal of attention, and there was a crowd about the hotel when the young man climbed painfully into the car and set out for his home.

ONE TRIAL MARRIAGE FAILS.

At the End of Six Months Camden Husband Puts His Wife Out.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 14.—After an experience of six months the trial marriage of Mrs. Roxanna Williams and her husband, James Williams, has proved a failure. They were married six months ago by the Rev. Frank Johnson, and Mrs. Williams says that she was content and was willing to continue living with her husband.

Williams, on the contrary, was not happy, and yesterday he put his wife out of the house, telling her that the venture had not been successful.

At the time of their marriage they signed a contract to the effect that they were to give their wedded life a six months' trial. The husband has this paper, and says he will use it in defending the suit which his wife contemplates bringing to compel him to support her.

Mrs. Williams alleges that all went well between her and her husband until he met another woman, whom he now wants to marry.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Miss Katherine Elkins, with her mother and brother, who have been stopping at the Hotel Durhin, left there this morning in a touring car. It was impossible to learn their destination. A rumor that they are on their way to London is denied. The general impression is that they are bound for Switzerland.

William Hitt, who has been in close attendance on Miss Elkins since she has been in Paris, remains at the Hotel Mercedes, where he went from the Hotel Durhin soon after his arrival here.

VESUVIUS AGAIN ACTIVE.

Guides Report Rumblings Followed by Slight Seismic Shocks.

TOLTEC CITY UNEARTHED.

Pyramid and Other Remains of Great Antiquity Found in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14.—An important archaeological discovery was announced here to-day by Prof. Ramon Mena, who headed a Government expedition to Otumba, in the State of Mexico, which has uncovered a buried city of great antiquity.

A pyramid similar to that uncovered at San Juan de Teotihacan has been exposed. The pyramid is 60 feet high and measures 200 feet square at the base.

The remains indicate that the city was built and occupied in the time of the Toltecs.

LIFTS WAGON FROM HER BABY.

Shock of Finding Child Under the Wheel Gives Mother Strength.

Finding her child pinned down by the wheel of a grocer's delivery wagon in Newton, N. J., yesterday, Mrs. Charles Welsh of Thompson Street lifted the wagon unaided and the little girl crawled from under it. The child was her five-year-old daughter Charlotte.

The wagon was standing in front of the house while the baby played on the sidewalk. Just as the horse took a step forward the child got in front of the wheel. The little girl was badly bruised.

SUTTON CASE TO GO ON.

Mother of Dead Lieutenant Says Next Step Has Been Planned.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—While Mrs. Rosa B. Sutton, mother of Lieut. James N. Sutton, whose body was exhumed and examined at Arlington yesterday, remains reticent as to the next step she intends to take in her attempt to prove that her son did not commit suicide, it is indicated that she and her attorneys have formulated their plans. Mrs. Sutton said:

"No matter what is the report of the surgeons who examined the body, we have determined on what our next action will be." What this step would be she refused to reveal.

The small piece of foreign matter which was found in Sutton's head yesterday is in the hands of the Sutton attorneys. Dr. Vaughan, who performed the autopsy, said the object looked like a small piece of lead.

MONUMENT TO HARRIMAN.

Conductor Starts a Movement to Have Railroad Men Build It.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 14.—John Crane of St. Joseph, a veteran conductor on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, has started a fund to erect a monument to E. H. Harriman by subscriptions among the railroad employes of this country. John Crane is a brother of the late S. E. Crane, for many years Superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy lines in Missouri.

The plan is to form a Harriman monument association and solicit subscriptions of 25 cents each. The association will name a commission to select the monument and choose a place for its erection. Preliminary plans were outlined at a meeting of railroad men last night, and another meeting to form a permanent organization will be held Sunday.

LIVES WITH BULLET IN BRAIN.

Washington Man Who Tried Suicide Quits Hospital as Cured.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—With a .22-calibre bullet imbedded in his brain, fired there with suicidal intent more than two weeks ago, Frank Blaine left the Casualty Hospital in this city yesterday discharged as cured. He said he suffered no discomfort other than pains in the head and neck, and he talked rationally at all times.

The surgeons at the hospital, who have been observing Blaine very closely, said they detected no ill-effects from the bullet in his brain, and it is their belief that he will not suffer from it in future years.

An X-ray photograph of the young man's head showed the bullet imbedded in the centre of his brain.

PEARY MAY BE OUT OF HUDSON PARADE

If Bridgman Opposes Exhibiting the Roosevelt with Cook's Ship, He Agrees.

COMING AS SHE STANDS

Will Bring Crew, Dogs and All, to New York—Peary to Controvert Cook Later.

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador, via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 14.—When asked to-day whether his arctic ship, the Roosevelt, would take part in the Hudson-Fulton parade, Commander Peary said he did not know.

If Mr. Bridgman had said the steamer would not take part in the celebration if the schooner John R. Bradley, Cook's vessel, was admitted, that would probably be the official opinion of the Peary Arctic Club, and would express Peary's own view. If the Roosevelt did take part in the parade, Commander Peary said, he would probably command her, but he was in doubt as to who would be his guests.

The Roosevelt will proceed to New York just as she is now, crew, dogs, and all complete. She will leave here on Thursday or Friday for Sydney, with Commander Peary aboard, going direct to that port without stop. There the steamer will fill her bunkers with coal for a straight run to New York.

Has Dogs That Were at Pole.

On board the Roosevelt are eleven dogs, three of which were actually at the north pole with Commander Peary. One of these, called Apudingwah, was also with him in his farthest dash three years ago.

Passage to Sydney on The Associated Press tug Douglas H. Thomas was offered to Commander Peary, but he declined with the explanation that the Roosevelt was absolutely seaworthy and would not require any assistance, nor would he leave her, he added, until he had personally docked her at Sydney.

Asked if he would accept an invitation to the banquet in his honor at Sydney, he replied that he probably would. From Sydney Commander Peary will go to the United States by rail. He would not say what would become of the Roosevelt. At New York, however, the crew would be paid off. The ship belongs to the Peary Arctic Club.

The explorer suggested that it would be a good idea for the United States to take over the Roosevelt as a cutter in the Bering Sea or to keep some channel open, as she would be a splendid ice breaker. Italy, he pointed out, now holds possession of the Stella Polare, the Duke of the Abruzzi's ship, and the Norwegian Government holds the Fram.

With regard to his steamer Commander Peary said:

"The Roosevelt is in first-class condition and is practically uninjured. The hull, engines, and machinery are as good as when she left New York in July, 1908."

The main boat, however, had been accidently broken.

Peary Answers Questions.

Commander Peary answered a number of questions this afternoon.

"Was Dr. Cook at the pole?" was the first query, to which the Commander replied:

"Cook was not at the pole on April 21, 1908, or at any other time. I make this statement advisedly, and at the proper time will back it up with proof."

"Were you surprised, Commander Peary, on returning to Labrador, to learn that Dr. Cook had reported reaching the pole, or had anything happened before you returned to cause you to anticipate this event?" was next asked.

"I heard in New York that Dr. Cook was going to bring the pole back," replied the Commander.

"Is it true that you opened letters or documents having reference to this point?"

"No," he responded emphatically.

"Did Harry Whitney make any important statements to you about another polar expedition?"

"He made no statement," said Commander Peary. "He is on the relief schooner Jeanie now, and is probably shooting bear on the western coast."

"What life is there to be found at the north pole; are there birds, fishes, or any animals there?"

"When I was there it was not the season for birds. I do not know if there are fish in the polar seas at that spot. There are no animals at the pole."

Commander Peary declined to discuss the charges that he took supplies at Etah belonging to Dr. Cook, but he declared that Capt. Moses Bartlett could not throw any light on this point, because he had not been in Greenland since Peary went there last. Rudolph Francke had begged piteously to be taken out of Greenland, as he was ill.

Speaking about the unexplored area in the polar regions, Commander Peary said that there were 1,000,000 square miles of unknown territory between the pole and Bering Straits previous to his expedition. He had not yet figured out by how much that quantity was reduced.

Asked with regard to the purple snow fields at the pole and the hummocks and crevasses near the pole, Commander Peary said:

"That is a range of information that I do not care to impart now."

Many Soundings Taken.

Speaking of the depth of water he said that he had run out 1,500 fathoms of line without reaching bottom within five miles of the pole.

"We took soundings from Cape Columbia to the pole," he continued, "which gives a cross-section of that part of the floes of the arctic ocean. The soundings were from ten to twenty miles apart.

"What was the thickness of the ice and the temperature of the atmosphere?" he was asked.

"I had no means of measuring the ice, which was heavy. I do not care to tell the temperature."

Bearing on the Cook controversy, Commander Peary was asked:

"Are the Eskimos who were with Dr. Cook in his dash to the pole on your ship?"

"No, but I talked with them."

"Have you heard that any Eskimos were ever at the pole before yours?"

"No, never. No inducement that could be offered them would tempt them out on that sea of ice until I went there. They knew by experience the liability of the ice breaking up and carrying people away to death."

"Why did you not have a white witness at the pole?"

"Because after a lifetime of effort I dearly wanted the honor for myself."

A number of dispatches addressed to Commander Peary at Chateau Bay, Red Bay, and Blanc Sablon, dated Sept. 7 and 9, were received here only to-day for delivery.

Spent No Government Money.

Commander Peary said that he had already made an official report of his work to Washington, and therefore had not yet decided whether he would go immediately to the National capital on returning to the United States. The survey work of past expeditions was embodied in the Government maps, and the same course probably would be followed in this case. Not a dollar of Government money had been invested in his polar exploration.

Up to the present time his total expenditure in this work, he said, aggregates, roughly speaking, $500,000. The first and smaller portion of this was his own and his wife's fortunes and the contributions of personal friends. The proceeds of his lectures and books also went in, said Commander Peary. Of the total outlay about $350,000 had been supplied by members of the Peary Arctic Club and other connections. He had always lived on his salary, and until 1900 was in debt for money advanced for his arctic investigations.

Commander Peary has received an invitation to address the National Geographic Society at Washington and to attend the Canadian camp dinner in New York in November. Bangor, Me., wishes to offer a welcome to the explorer between trains, and Portland is also anxious to entertain him. To these invitations Commander Peary has replied that it will be impossible for him to make any engagements now, that the Peary Arctic Club and New York City are to have first claim on his attention.

Prepared to Controvert Cook.

Mr. Peary declared that he would not further discuss Dr. Cook's claim to the discovery of the north pole until the main point, whether Dr. Cook had actually reached the pole or not, had been decided by others. He then dictated the following statement for publication:

"I am the only white man who has ever reached the north pole, and I am prepared to prove it at the proper time. I have already stated publicly that Cook has not been to the pole. This I reaffirm, and I will stand by it, but I decline to discuss the details of the matter. These will come out later.

"I have said that Dr. Cook's statement that he had reached the pole should not be taken seriously, and that I 'have him nailed' by concrete proofs to support my statement. In six months you probably will get the whole story.

"It would not be policy for me to enter upon a full debate with the subject as it now stands. To do so I would be giving out much information of which other uses could be made. I intend to wait until Dr. Cook has issued his full authorized statements. Up to the present time there have been only newspaper accounts of Dr. Cook's alleged polar trip, and these may or may not be accurate.

Will Await Cook's Report.

"When Dr. Cook has time to issue a complete authorized version of his journey will be the proper opportunity for me to make public the information which I have. After that the jury—in other words the people and the scientific bodies of the world—will pass judgment on the matter, and there will then be nothing left of Dr. Cook's case but his own assertions that he has reached the north pole. In the meanwhile it is my determination not to deal with debates for the reasons already stated."

Commander Peary was asked if new land could have been discovered in latitude 84 longitude 86. He shrugged his shoulders and said it was quite possible that an unknown continent existed further West. He referred to the land discovered by himself on previous trips that had not yet been explored.

Asked what would be the international effect of planting the Stars and Strips at the north pole, Commander Peary said he had notified the Secretary of State that he had taken possession of the pole in the name of the United States, and that it remained for the Secretary to decide what that meant. He said he had left records on the ice at the pole.

Peary Through with Exploring.

Commander Peary is done with active exploring. He will continue to take an interest in arctic and antarctic exploration, but from his home, and he declared that he would withdraw from field work.

The Associated Press tug Douglas H. Thomas, after a stormy passage up the west coast of Newfoundland and through the Strait of Belle Isle from Sydney, Cape Breton, arrived at this lonely whaling and mission settlement at noon yesterday. A squall of rain was blowing over the harbor as the Thomas steamed in, but with glasses it was possible to make out the mast and hull of the arctic steamer Roosevelt moored in the inner bay. The Thomas broke out the "North Pole" flag, the same emblem that was flying from the mizzenmast of the Roosevelt, and signaled "The Associated Press congratulates you."

The Roosevelt signaled the thanks of Commander Peary for this message, whereupon the Thomas gave three loud blasts on her whistle. In response there came from the Roosevelt a chorus of barking and yelping from the Eskimo dogs on board, that echoed back from the surrounding hills.

The Thomas drew near to the Roosevelt. The arctic steamer looked little the worse for her second trip to the polar regions. Along the rail were gathered the members of her famous crew, among them the redoubtable Capt. Robert Bartlett, who was at once recognized.

Capt. Bartlett invited the Thomas to lay alongside and the correspondent to come on board without delay. The correspondent clambered over the weather-beaten bulwarks and proceeded direct to the cabin to meet Commander Peary. The Commander's greeting was most cordial.

"This is a new record in newspaper enterprise," he said, "and I appreciate the compliment."

Commander Peary spoke feelingly of the death of Prof. Marvin. A cross bearing his name, his college, and the date of his death was erected at Cape Sheridan, just above the Roosevelt's Winter position, and is visible for miles. This is seventy-three miles from the point north of Cape Columbia where he was drowned.

Health of the Party Good.

The health of the party in general was good, according to the statement of Dr. John Goodsell, the surgeon of the expedition. Two Eskimo children were born and are still living. There was an absence of scurvy, due chiefly to the experience of the Commander in the selection of food and supplies necessary for the health and care of the party. In addition there was an abundance of fresh meat, which the expedition was able to secure through Commander Peary's knowledge of the country. Bartlett, Marvin, McMillan, and Borup suffered from frost-bitten feet more severely than the others. Frost bites in the arctic are treated with borated musk ox fat and are well protected from the cold.

Two of the Eskimos were disabled at Cape Columbia, one suffering from frozen feet and the other from a severe inflammation, partly due to the same cause. Dr. Goodsell gave them surgical attention and left them in their igloos until the detachment returned from the northern trip. He supplied them with ample provisions. They received the return party with manifestations of great delight.

One of the disabled Eskimos was hauled on the sledges to the ship at Cape Sheridan, a distance of ninety miles. On this trip Dr. Goodsell slipped and strained the tendons of his foot, and on his arrival at the Roosevelt found an Eskimo child with a fractured shoulder. He had no trouble in keeping busy. There were some cases of snow blindness also.

Commander Peary was ill for one day about six weeks prior to Feb. 15, which was the day that Capt. Bartlett left the Roosevelt with his division for Cape Columbia, the advance guard of the dash to the pole. The surgeon was a little concerned about Commander Peary's illness on account of the approaching tramp, but it proved to be nothing serious, and all the men were in the pink of condition when the start was made.

Prof. McMillan was confined to his bed for a month on the trip through Smith Sound, immediately after leaving Etah. He suffered from a moderate fever of rheumatic type, which is doubtless peculiar to local conditions. Dr. Goodsell also suffered for some time from the same complaint.

CALLS COOK IMPRACTICAL.

Former Associate Also Wants Scientific Proof of His Claim.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—Shipwrecked in the arctic with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, associated with the explorer for months, and Vice President and charter member of the Arctic Club, George W. Gardner of Cleveland, who is here attending the yacht races, when told to-day that his opinion on the Peary-Cook controversy was valuable consented to talk a little. It was the Miranda wreck in which he was involved.

"Dr. Cook is an impractical man," said Mr. Gardner, and offered an illustration.

"The Miranda was in awful condition when Dr. Cook said to me: 'I think we can save the boat. We will just keel her over and put in new plates over the damaged ones.'

"'That's impractical and impossible,' I said. 'In the first place this boat will not stand any keeling over, because you have no hoisting crane, and in the second place the plates are lacking.'

"He thought a moment and said: 'That's right.'"

Mr. Gardner says that these impractical outbursts on Cook's part were frequent, yet he was fearless to the point of jeopardizing the expedition.

"Let's see," said Mr. Gardner. "Eighteen ninety-four subtracted from 1909 leaves just fifteen years. I haven't seen Cook since, and in that time he may have made wonderful progress in the study of arctic conditions. Dr. Cook impressed me as being an apt man, quick to observe, and quick to pass judgment. However, he was entirely too impractical for me.

"I will say that I have had occasion to judge Dr. Cook's veracity, and only a scientific investigation will convince me one way or the other. On the other hand, Commander Peary's veracity is unquestioned."

SEEKS TO CHARTER WARSHIP.

Correspondent So Persistent That French Cruiser Will Leave Sydney.

Special to The New York Times.

SYDNEY, N. S., Sept. 14.—It was expected that the French cruiser Isly, which arrived here several days ago, would remain over to take part in the ceremonies attending Commander Peary's arrival, but this afternoon Capt. Durand announced his intention of going to sea.

Behind the announcement is a curious story. The reporter of a New York newspaper had approached Capt. Durand with a proposition to charter his vessel. The French officer was more than astonished at the proposal, which, of course, he could not consider.

The next development, according to the story which is being told in Sydney this afternoon, was a telegram to the French Ambassador in Washington asking that he cable to the French Minister of Marine that directions be sent to the Captain of the Isly to convey the representative of the paper concerned to Battle Harbor. No instructions had been received up to a late hour this afternoon.

Meanwhile the town is busily decorating itself in preparation for the coming celebration. The date is dependent on Peary's arrival, and no one here knows just when that will be. Although no news has come from Peary to-day, it is considered practically certain that he has not yet left Battle Harbor, and it is known that the Roosevelt will require fully three days to make the 450-mile run after she gets under way.

Herbert L. Bridgman, Secretary of the Peary Arctic Club, has announced his intention of leaving for New York to-night. To THE TIMES correspondent he said that business unrelated to the Peary expedition had necessitated his return, and that it was doubtful if he would be here when the Roosevelt comes in.

Mrs. Peary and her children are still here. They have received no message from Commander Peary since Sunday.

PLANS FOR COOK BANQUET.

Taft and Hughes to be Invited by Arctic Club of America.

A plaster model of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, standing four feet high, in the costume of an arctic explorer, will be one of the features of the banquet to be given by the Arctic Club of America to the Brooklyn man at the Waldorf-Astoria the night of Sept. 23.

Arrangements for the banquet were perfected last night at a meeting of the club's Executive Committee at the Waldorf, Dr. Roswell Stebbins presiding. The club will invite President Taft, Gov. Hughes, Mayor McClellan, and a score of other men of prominence. The commanders of all the ships that will attend the Hudson-Fulton Celebration will be included.

Tickets will be sold at $5, and the boxes at from $10 to $30. The Bushwick Club of Brooklyn has asked to have 200 tickets reserved for its members. It also wants 400 tickets for the trip of the Grand Republic, which will steam down the bay to meet the explorer.

At the banquet the club will present to Dr. Cook a gold medal, with a representation of himself upon the obverse side and upon the reverse the inscription "Presented to Dr. Frederick A. Cook by the Arctic Club of America."

The club expects that Dr. Cook will reach the city next Tuesday morning. The Grand Republic, it is expected, will take 1,200 persons down the bay to give him a greeting.

Strike Delays Amundsen Expedition.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 14.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, has decided to postpone his projected expedition to the arctic region until June 1, 1910, on account of delay in his preparations caused by the general strike in Sweden.

Hamlin Andrus Not Drowned.

Congressman John E. Andrus of Yonkers received word from Alaska last night that his son, Hamlin Andrus, was not drowned when his boat capsized in the Nazina River. Mr. Andrus was the only one of the party saved.

HUNDRED ISSUES A FUSION APPEAL

Sends Out a Formal Call for a Conference to Settle on a Slate.

BUTLER AND FINLEY DECLINE

Committee Comes Out for City-Built Subways, and Wants Franchises Amply Safeguarded.

The Committee on Candidates of the One Hundred sent out invitations last night to several anti-Tammany organizations to attend a conference for the discussion of candidates and issues to be held in the Fifth Avenue Building at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The invitation says:

Dear Sir—The present administration of the City of New York has resulted in intolerable conditions, against which the citizens rebel. It is absolutely necessary to wrest municipal government from machine domination and to defeat Tammany as the most vicious exponent of this system. The opportunity now presents itself to destroy this system by nominating and electing an independent ticket pledged to give and capable of giving a progressive, independent, honest and efficient administration of its affairs solely in the interests of the people.

To accomplish this, selfish and partisan considerations should be set aside, and only those men nominated who will fill the conditions above stated.

If your organization desires to co-operate to this end you are cordially invited to send representatives to a conference to meet Friday, Sept. 17, at 4 P. M., at Room 1,146, Fifth Avenue Building, Twenty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, New York City.

A prompt repy is requested.

Yours truly,

E. H. OUTERBRIDGE, Chairman.
JOSEPH M. PRICE, Secretary.

These are the organizations invited to the fusion conference: The Republican County Committees of New York, Kings, Queens, and Richmond; the Independence League County Committees of these counties, the Citizens' Union, the Cleveland Democracy, and the Taxpayers' Conference Committee. The latter was appointed by the Greater New York Taxpayers' Conference for the purpose of creating sentiment among the tax and rent payers of the city for the nomination by all parties of clean and able candidates, who will give the city a non-political, businesslike administration.

The invitations were sent out after a meeting of the Committee on Candidates of the Hundred late last night. Earlier in the day the full Committee of One Hundred had met and set its approval on the work so far done by the Committee on Candidates. It was learned that at this meeting the names of several candidates were brought up and that several friends of Justice Gaynor urged the committee to give the Brooklyn jurist its support.

Referred to Committee.

This and all other matters having reference to candidates and issues were referred to the Committee on Candidates. In view of the impression that Justice Gaynor is still an aspirant for the Tammany nomination, it is not likely that the Committee on Candidates will go back on its earlier action, when it decided to drop Justice Gaynor's name from its list of desirable candidates for the Mayoralty nomination.

When interviewed while the meeting of the Committee on Candidates was in session last night, Eugene H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Committee of One Hundred, declined to discuss the names of any candidates, or disclose the names of candidates for the Mayoralty and other offices whose names have come up for discussion in the Committee on Candidates. Mr. Outbridge said, however, that the committee was discussing not only candidates for city offices, but names for the borough and county tickets as well.

Robert W. De Forest, who was Tenement House Commissioner under Mayor Low and is father of the present tenement house law, according to the best information obtainable yesterday, would be acceptable as a candidate for Mayor to many members of the Committee on Candidates. He is known as an independent Democrat.

Butler and Finley Out.

The names of two men who have been prominently mentioned for the Mayoralty nomination on the fusion ticket yesterday informed the Committee of One Hundred, through C. C. Burlingham, one of the members, that they could not possibly think of accepting a nomination for any office. They are President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University and President John H. Finley of the City College. President Butler wired his declination from Bar Harbor.

Clarence J. Shearn, Mr. Hearst's personal attorney and close political adviser, gave out a statement in which he declared that under no circumstances would he become a candidate for District Attorney on the fusion or any other ticket. This action surprised many of Mr. Shearn's personal friends, who had been given to understand that he was just spoiling to get into the fight to try conclusions with District Attorney Jerome. Mr. Shearn said:

"To correct an erroneous impression that seems to prevail in some quarters, judging by published reports, I wish to state that I am not and shall not be a candidate for the office of District Attorney. For the sake of being very definite, I will add that it would be impossible for me to accept if nominated."

This will leave the fusionists a place on the ticket which they had regarded as good as filled until Mr. Shearn's statement was made public. Charles S. Whitman and former United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson are being talked of for the place. The Democratic Union has a candidate in Col. Robert Townsend, a former Assistant District Attorney.

At the meeting of the full Committee of One Hundred yesterday afternoon a statement defining the attitude of the committee on the rapid transit question was adopted and made public. The committee characterizes the city's transit needs as a vital issue in the coming campaign, and advocates a "profressive and constructive" rapid transit policy for the city. The statement follows in part:

"Future franchises must be leasehold privileges, with the city as landlord. To control absolutely all future developments and insure freedom, the city must have the right, at any time, upon fair and reasonable compensation, to re-take franchises. It must not be blocked or tied in contracts to be made. It must, of course, secure to the investor a fair return, if it is to take back a franchise in the interest of a larger programme.

The Subway Question.

"Probably most of our future subways will be built with city money. The city can borrow more cheaply than the private contractor, and the low rate of interest will reduce the expense of operation. A subway built by private capital, however, to be owned by the city, is a city work.

"Operation by the city will never be necessary so long as lessees are ready and able to furnish efficient service. But the city's right and power to operate must be so clear and unmistakable as to leave it free to deal with operators on a basis of equality.

"The Constitutional amendment now passed by two Legislatures recommended in special messages by Gov. Hughes and indorsed by the Mayor's commission of well-known bankers, is drawn adequately to safeguard the city's credit. If approved by the voters at the next election, power can, by appropriate legislation, be given to the city whereby money for self-sustaining subways will be made available.

"The passage of this amendment does not necessarily mean an extension of the city's debt. This situation may never arise. It does mean that the city will not be helpless if private enterprise demands unreasonable terms. We should, indeed, save enough in money now wasted to build some of the subways immediately needed."

ROW IN THE HEARST LEAGUE.

Brooklyn Ranks Split Over Gaynor—Call to Hearst to Run.

In direct opposition to the expressed wishes of William Randolph Hearst, the County Committee of the Independence League in Brooklyn has adopted a resolution calling for the nomination of Mr. Hearst for Mayor. This unlooked-for move seems to have stirred up a merry row in the organization in Kings County, and some unpleasant sentiments are being exchanged by the members.

There appears to be a strong faction in the league which favors the candidacy of Justice Gaynor, and it is believed that these members will support him no matter what course the organization may follow. Yesterday there was much talk of the league in Brooklyn becoming disrupted over the County Committee's resolution to put a straight ticket in the field, with Mr. Hearst at the head of it, if he permits his name to be placed there. By this action the committee has decided against fusion, although many of the active members favor an alliance with other bodies.

It became known yesterday that there was a stormy meeting of the committee on Monday night. The resolution for a straight ticket was put through after the liveliest kind of a debate. A number of the opposing members, apparently in disgust walked out when the vote was announced. Robert Stewart, one of the local leaders, charged some of those present with casting off all allegiance to Mr. Hearst and with trying to disrupt the league. It is expected that Mr. Hearst will put the stamp of disapproval on the action of the committee and that its plans will be changed.

BRYAN DENOUNCES BOLTERS.

Favors Forcing Members of Congress to Support the Party Platforms.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 14.—Denouncing as an embezzler of power the man who would violate a party pledge ratified by the voters of his party, William J. Bryan outlined to-day his views on the tariff before a large audience in Bush Temple.

"Cannonism" Mr. Bryan described as despotism. While not denying a candidate the right to repudiate a part of his platform, such repudiation, he asserted, should come before the election.

Mr. Bryan's subject was "Democracy and the Tariff." He emphasized the necessity of Senators and Congressmen being bound by party platforms.

"If all of the Democrats in the Senate and House had voted against every proposed increase in the tariff, and for every proposed decrease, we might have made our fight next year upon the party's record without making a specific declaration on items of schedules," said Mr. Bryan.

"If we expect to secure control of Congress we must convince the public that we will, if intrusted with power, favor material reductions. Unless our candidates for Congress can agree before the election they are not likely to agree after the election."

Mr. Bryan concluded his address with an extended argument in favor of free raw material.

He said he was going to try to convert the Texas Democracy to that doctrine, even if he had to return to Texas and stump the State.

After Mr. Bryan's speech, friends of Senator Bailey talked with him over the long-distance telephone at Gainesville, and Bailey agreed to come to Dallas next Saturday night and reply to Bryan's speech.

CONNERS WINS IN BUFFALO.

Mayor Adam Will Lose the Renomination—Against Direct Primaries.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14.—A heavy vote was cast at the primaries here to-day. The indications are that William J. Conners, Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, has won out in every district where any opposition was offered to his machine and that he will be in absolute control of the city and Assembly conventions.

The results also indicate that Mayor J. N. Adam, who is now on his way home from Europe, will not be renominated for Mayor by the Democrats. The most prominent candidate is Alderman Louis P. Fuhrmann, now Acting Mayor.

The Direct Nominations League, which put up a fight against Assemblyman Clarence MacGregor in the Eighth Assembly District, was badly beaten, MacGregor electing delegates with a convention vote of 90 per cent. of the total.

TAMMANY LEADERS REPORT ON GAYNOR

All for Him Now, but One Says Significantly They May Switch Before Convention.

MURPHY IS NON-COMMITTAL

Said to Like Justice Dowling as a Candidate—Urged to Name Hagan for Sheriff.

For the first time since the municipal campaign grew warm, Leader Charles F. Murphy put in a full and very busy day at Tammany Hall yesterday. Nearly every district leader in Manhattan and the Bronx called at the Wigwam and had a talk with Mr. Murphy. It was said that yesterday was the day fixed for reports from the districts on the extent of the Gaynor sentiment.

There was a lot of Gaynor talk among the leaders who came to see Mr. Murphy. Nobody had a kind word to say for any other candidate, though some whose names have been mentioned are nearer to the Tammany heart than the Brooklyn jurist.

Mr. Murphy himself did not have much to say. He admitted during a half-hour interview, however, that he had "seen in the papers" these things:

That Gayor was a candidate.

That there was a lot of Gaynor talk.

That Gaynor stands a pretty good chance of winning.

That Justice Dowling is being mentioned as a candidate for Mayor.

That Thomas M. Mulry will not accept a nomination for Controller or any other office this Fall.

About the only thing Mr. Murphy undertook to affirm on his own responsibility was that Mr. Mulry, who would not run, was a very able man.

While there is a lot of talk about Gaynor, it is not by any means certain that the Justice will be nominated by Tammany. Mr. Murphy is said to be very fond of Justice Dowling, and some of the Tammany leader's friends declare that he has not made up his mind yet.

How the Tammany leaders feel about Gaynor was aptly illustrated by an incident at the Wigwam. One prominent Tammany district leader had just told a reporter that he was for Gaynor, in the presence of another leader, who seconded the sentiment of the first.

"But we may switch, you know," said the first as the reporter was walking away.

"Sure we may," said the second. "Just watch and see how quick I can turn a corner."

The Municipal Democracy issued a proclamation yesterday "to the public" summoning "the voters to rally in their thousands at Cooper Union next Monday night for the purpose of placing in nomination for Mayor the champion of the people's rights, the Hon. William J. Gaynor."

A large committee called on Tammany Leader Murphy yesterday to urge the nomination of James J. Hagan, Tammany leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District, for Sheriff.

Mr. Murphy reserved decision.

There was a report yesterday that ex-Police Commissioner McAdoo had been slated as Tammany's candidate for District Attorney. This would mean that for some reason Mr. Jerome had been sidetracked. If Mr. Murphy should turn to Justice Dowling as his candidate for the Mayoralty, it is regarded as almost certain, however, that Mr. Jerome would be indorsed by Tammany Hall. Mr. Murphy would not discuss the McAdoo rumor.

Result of Yonkers Primaries.

As a result of the primaries in Yonkers yesterday Dr. N. A. Warren was renominated for Mayor by the Republicans, Gideon Peck for City Treasurer, Daniel Cashin for Council President, and Joseph Miller for Controller. The Democrats nominated ex-Controller James T. Lennon for Mayor, ex-Mayor John H. Coyne for Controller, ex-Coroner Albert Van Houten for Treasurer, and John Ashton for Council President.

JEROME HEADQUARTERS OPEN.

To Have Five Large Rooms—Julius Franke to be Treasurer.

District Attorney Jerome opened headquarters last night in the Bryant Park Arcade Building at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue. He will have a suite of five large and finely equipped rooms for his campaign work.

Mr. Jerome and his campaign manager, John A. Henneberry, looked in on this scene of their future activity last evening. To-day the work of getting up petitions for the District Attorney's nomination as an independent candidate will be in full swing. A corps of stenographers and notaries will be on hand to acknowledge the signatures of persons who wish to come in and sign.

Mr. Jerome needs 2,000 names, and his campaign manager said last night that no effort would be made to get more. He also said that contributions began to flow in from the moment it was announced that Mr. Jerome would enter the field for re-election. Julius Franke of Maynicke & Franke, architects at 298 Fifth Avenue, will be Treasurer and custodian of the Jerome campaign fund until a committee is formed to take charge of his campaign. Mr. Franke was a member of the Grand Juries which investigated the Metropolitan Street Railway financing, the Ice Trust, and Insurance cases.

Indorse Metz for Any Office.

The Business Men's Non-Partisan Committee, an organization formed on June 26 to take a hand in politics, held a meeting last night at the Waldorf-Astoria, and adopted a resolution proposed by Arthur Somers of Brooklyn, indorsing Controller Herman A. Metz as fitted to fill any office in the gift of the people, and declaring that he should be continued as Controller. Albert Plaut presided.

Barnes Keeps Albany Leadership.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—At the primary elections to-day there was no opposition to the Republican organization of which William Barnes, Jr., is leader. A letter was sent to each enrolled Republican voter inviting him to participate. But one contest was recorded within the Democratic organization.

Praise for Senator Aldrich.

"If, with his clear-cut ideas and simple but effective style of speaking, he makes apparent to the Western people what I believe to be his earnest desire to aid the people and to crown his political career by the preparation and passage of a bill which shall give us a sound and safe monetary and banking system it would be a long step toward removing the political obstacles to a proper solution of the question.

"I do not need to argue with this audience that a change in our monetary and banking system is necessary. You are too good business men not to know it, and I sincerely hope that the whole force of your association will be exerted to insist upon the adoption of a satisfactory system before the end of this Administration.

"It is a subject that the general public has very little conception of, and when they suffer from the radical defects of the system they are utterly unable to tell how and why. We all need education on the subject. We must all unite to mend our roof before the storm and rain shall show us again its leaky and utterly inadequate character.

Effect of the Tariff Bill.

"I am not going to discuss the merits and demerits of the new tariff bill with you. Suffice it to say that the passage of the bill has removed a disturbing element in business. Nor shall I dwell at length on the necessity for amendments to the inter-State commerce law, to the anti-trust law, and the organization of the departments in Washington with a view to promoting greater efficiency and expedition in the settlement of controversies arising under them.

"During Mr. Roosevelt's Administration we were all struck with the necessity for reform in business methods, for more scrupulous attention to the conduct of business in accordance with law, and for the necessity of simplifying the law in such a way as to make it clear to corporate managers what they can do and what they can't do.

"We are, I believe, unless all signs fail, on the eve of another great business expansion, an era of prosperity. Indeed, it is already here in many branches of business. The hum of prosperity and the ecstasy of great profits are likely to dull our interest in these reforms, and to lead us back again to the old abuses, unless we insist upon legislation which shall clinch and enforce those standards by positive law.

No Danger to Legitimate Business.

"Nothing revolutionary, nothing disturbing to legitimate business is needed; but we must set the marks clear in the statute by which the lines can be drawn and the proper legitimate paths be laid down upon which all business shall proceed, and must have it understood by means of prompt prosecution and punishment that the law is for all, and is to be enforced even against the most powerful.

"Then, too, the needs in respect to the conservation of our National resources, the amendment to the public land system, the execution of the pure food law, and all the rest of the important matters that should demand attention make the legislative and executive labor of the next three years heavy enough, if our purposes are carried out, to exhaust the energy of the most enthusiastic and hopeful.

Criticises Gov. Johnson.

"Still, the world is making progress—our country is making progress. Occasionally one hears a note like that of Gov. Johnson denouncing the East and calling upon the West to organize in a sectional way against the East, because the East is deriving more benefit from the Governmental policy than the West and at the expense of the West. It is difficult for one to treat such an appeal seriously. In this country we are all in the same business boat, and the prosperity of one section adds to the prosperity of the other, and business disaster in one section is only the forerunner of business depression and disaster in another.

"I feel, therefore, as if I could speak with confidence in respect to the whole Nation, and as President of the United States may well lift up my voice to protest against any effort, by whomsoever made, to arouse section against section, and Americans against Americans.

"And, now, as I take my departure for the West I feel that I carry from you to every inhabitant of the United States whom I shall meet your congratulations on the prospective prosperity in the whole country, and an earnest wish that the National Government shall be conducted in such a way as to insure peace with all the nations of the world and tranquillity and prosperity at home, growing out of the conduct of business on lines of commercial integrity and within the law which forbids the organization and maintenance of monopolies and the systematic suppression of competition.

"Things are not perfect; but we have made progress. We have a right to be optimistic and believe that further progress is likely; that conditions are improving, and that we may continue to maintain for all citizens of the country that equality of opportunity which it is the highest object of a well-conducted Government to preserve."

President Taft and his party will leave Boston to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock for Chicago, where he is to be the guest of honor on Thursday night at the dinner of the American Bankers' Association. He will go by way of Albany and Buffalo, and will reach Chicago at 11:30 on Thursday morning.

THE LAST DAY AT BEVERLY.

President Taft Busy Up to the Time He Left for Boston.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 14.—President Taft arose early on this his last morning in Beverly, and summoning both Secretary Carpenter and Assistant Secretary Foster to his cottage plunged into a mass of correspondence which had accumulated over night.

Things went with a rush both at the cottage and at the executive offices, and when the President left for Boston in an auto at 3 o'clock this afternoon the office force of clerks, stenographers, and messengers was all ready to follow on the 3:27 train. The office furnitures, files, &c., brought to Beverly from Washington will be stored here for use again next Summer. President Taft hopes to spend at least three months here in 1910.

Up to to-day the President had taken no action in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, although it had been intimated last week that a statement of some sort might be expected before he left Beverly. It is now said that the President will wait until the trip out of Boston begins to-morrow morning before deciding what he may have to say.

Assistant Secretary Hischler, who is to accompany Mr. Taft on his long tour, arrived from Washington this morning.

President Taft was accompanied to Boston by Mrs. Taft, his daughter Helen, and Prof. and Mrs. Louis More. Mrs. Taft and the other members of the family returned to Beverly later in the evening.

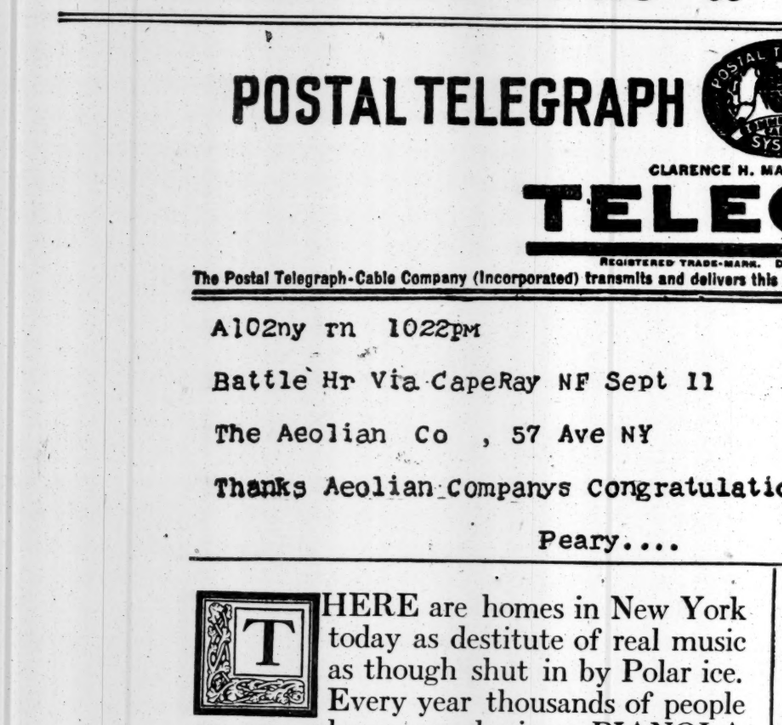
Thanks Aeolian Companys Congratulations Pianola Was A Great Comfort.

Peary....

THERE are homes in New York today as destitute of real music as though shut in by Polar ice. Every year thousands of people are amazed upon purchasing a PIANOLA or PIANOLA Piano to find out how much they have been missing in not having previously owned one of these instruments.

The reasons which prompted Peary to select the PIANOLA in preference to any other Piano-player are just as forcible in the case of every individual purchaser.

The great prestige of the PIANOLA is founded upon its superiority from a constructional as well as a musical standpoint. The PIANOLA represents a higher order of workmanship, a better grade of materials, a more careful adjustment of parts than any other player. These constructional advantages are clearly illustrated by the high degree of satisfaction this instrument has given on various voyages of exploration, and on the American battle fleet's trip around the world.



CAUTION. Do not make the mistake of supposing that "PIANOLA" is a general name for all Piano-players. It applies exclusively to the instrument made by the Aeolian Co.

MORGAN, JR., ELECTED CITY BANK DIRECTOR

Selection Revives Reports Morgan House Will Obtain a Place on Union Pacific Board.

BASELESS, IT IS DECLARED

Judge Lovett Made Chairman of the Southern Pacific and Schiff and Rockefeller Chosen Directors.

With the election of J. P. Morgan, Jr., to the Directorate of the National City Bank yesterday the banking house of Morgan & Co. obtained two representatives on the bank's board, George W. Perkins having succeded Mr. Morgan, Sr., when the latter retired from this and a number of other Directorates some time ago.

Mr. Harriman's death left a vacancy in the board, but Mr. Morgan's election was not necessarily for the purpose of filling this, it is understood, since the bank had only twenty-three Directors out of its full board of twenty-five members.

In Wall Street there was a disposition to attach considerable significance to Mr. Morgan's entrance into the bank's board. This was in keeping with the insistent reports following Mr. Harriman's death last week that the Morgan house would obtain representation on the Union Pacific board, and even that J. P. Morgan, Jr., would succeed to Mr. Harriman's place as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the road.

The election of Judge Lovett as Chairman of the Union Pacific Executive Committee and of William Rockefeller and Jacob H. Schiff as Directors of the road stilled such rumors for the moment, but Mr. Morgan's election to the City Bank board yesterday started a new one to the effect that at the annual meeting of the Union Pacific next month he would also enter that road's Directorate and that the influence of Morgan & Co. in Union Pacific affairs would thereafter be considerable.

In well informed quarters such reports were characterized yesterday as baseless. It was said that Mr. Morgan's election to the bank's board was without significance, so far as the railroad situation is concerned, and that what it does reflect is the friendly relation, all along, existing between Morgan & Co. and the bank, as expressed in Mr. Morgan, Sr., connection with it, and later Mr. Perkins's selection as his successor.

The Directors of the Southern Pacific Company at their meeting yesterday morning followed the action of the Union Pacific board on Monday and elected Judge R. S. Lovett Chairman of the Southern Pacific Executive Committee, of which he was already a member, to succeed the late E. H. Harriman. As was the case at the Union Pacific meeting, William Rockefeller and Jacob Schiff were elected to the Board of Directors, which was increased to six. Frank A. Vanderlip, Henry W. De Forest, and Marvin Hughitt were apointed a committee to draft a resolution on the death of Mr. Harriman in appreciation of his services. The resolution prepared by the committee of the Union Pacific Directors appointed at Monday's meeting to express the board's appreciation of Mr. Harriman's services was made public yesterday, after having been sent to Mrs. Harriman at Arden. The committee which prepared the resolutions consisted of Marvin Hughitt, Henry C. Frick, and Charles A. Peabody. It read:

Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company with deep sorrow record the death of Edward Henry Harriman at his country place at Arden, N. Y., at 3:35 o'clock on the afternoon of Sept. 9, 1909, in the sixty-second year of his age. He was more than Chairman of the Executive Committee and President, which offices at the time of his death he held and had long filled. He was the genius of the new Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, and the high state of efficiency to which these properties have been brought, the part that is being performed by them in the development of the country they serve, and the solid basis upon which the securities of said companies now rest are monuments to his genius, marvelous energy, and untiring work in the interest of these companies.

It is impossible to here record any adequate expression of appreciation of Mr. Harriman's work for the American railroad system, for it must form a large and important chapter in the history of our times. But we who were intimately associated with Mr. Harriman appreciate even more the qualities which were less conspicuous to the public. The kindness of his heart, the strength of his friendship, the quickness of his sympathy, and his loyalty to all his associates were traits of his character so marked as to inspire the devotion of all who knew him well, and his happiness in his home circle was an inspiration and a delight. We deeply mourn his loss as a personal friend and as the head of these companies and tender to his family our profound sympathy.

The Board of Directors of Wells, Fargo & Co. met yesterday, but transacted only routine business. Although a vacancy was created on the board by the death of Mr. Harriman, no steps were taken to fill his place.

COSTLY TASTE OF LUXURY.

Workmen Thrown from Auto In Which Owner Gave Them a Lift.

Max Eller of 1,629 Parker Avenue, the Bronx, who recently bought a new automobile, was driving it along Old Clason Point Road toward Westchester Avenue yesterday afternoon, when he met three workmen, trudging along to the trolley cars which run in Westchester Avenue. Eller gave them a lift. He had run only a short distance when he lost control of the machine, and it ran into a telephone pole.

The passengers—Thomas Dolan of 417 East Sixty-third Street, Edward Walsh of 410 East Sixty-third Street, and Charles Muller of 1,160 First Avenue—were thrown out and all were bruised and cut. Eller was not thrown from his seat and was unhurt.

Policeman Mohler came along and called Dr. Kistler from the Fordham Hospital. The surgeon dressed the wounds of the injured men and they went home. Eller was able to repair his machine sufficiently to drive it home.

HILL SEES DANGER OF FOOD SHORTAGE

Tells Bankers' Convention Decline of Agriculture May Force Country to Import Wheat.

MURRAY URGES REFORMS

Asserts Negligent Directors Will Be Brought to Account—Reynolds Outlines Plan for Central Bank.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Warning that the United States may soon cease to be an exporter of foodstuffs was given to the American Bankers' Association to-day by James J. Hill, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Great Northern Railway. At the close of the first day's session of the annual convention of the organization Mr. Hill made an address, in which he said that unless the agricultural populations and its product is increased the question of a source of food supply at home will soon supersede the question of a market abroad.

This possible condition, the speaker said, is due to the increased tendency of the rural population to leave the fields and agricultural pursuits, and to seek city life. In corroboration of this he cited the decrease in the value of farm lands in the Eastern States, and contrasted the conditions in European countries with those of the United States.

The speech of Mr. Hill followed an address by Lawrence O. Murray, Controller of the Currency. The Controller's address emphasized the necessity of co-operation between the Controller and the National Bank Examiners, and warned bank Directors that if there were any who did not manage the affairs of their banks solely with an eye to the best interests of those institutions, they would be brought to an accounting of their acts by the Controller.

Favors Central Bank.

Early in the day, in his annual address, President George M. Reynolds declared in favor of a central bank, with a capitalization of not less than $100,000,000, as a means of avoiding financial disasters similar to the panic of 1907.

The delegates were welcome to Illinois and Chicago by Gov. Deneen and President Talbert of the Chicago Clearing House Association. Response was made by Col. Robert J. Lowry of Atlanta, Ga., former President of the Bankers' Association.

A pause in the regular programme of the day was made to permit Speaker Cannon to address the bankers. Later, the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read, showing the association, in point of membership and financial standing, to be in excellent condition.

After the adjournment of the regular session of the convention, Vice President James S. Sherman surprised President Reynolds, who was just explaining that Mr. Sherman could not attend the gathering, by stepping to the platform and saying, "Here is Mr. Sherman now."

The Vice President, who was scheduled to speak to-morrow, but had canceled the engagement, stopped a few hours in Chicago to-day on his way from Kansas City to his home in Utica. He took luncheon with Speaker Cannon and others, and afterward, unknown to the delegates, was a listener to the address of Mr. Hill.

"Mr. Hill made a strong speech," said Mr. Sherman, "but if I were to talk I would add that, while Eastern farm lands have unquestionably lessened in value, the farm lands of the West, opened up by the railroads of the country, have increased wonderfully in value."

While no definite announcement has been made, it is generally understood that the next President of the Bankers' Association will be Lewis E. Pierson, President of the Irving National Bank of New York, now Vice President of the organization.

Mr. Hill's Address.

Mr. Hill opened his address with a warning against too great confidence in the agricultural resources of the country as at present developed.

"The idea that we feed the world is being corrected, and unless we can increase the agricultural population and its product the question of a source of food supply at home will soon supersede the question of a market for our own products abroad," said Mr. Hill. "We have almost reached a point where, owing to increased population without increased production per acre, our home food supply will be insufficient for our own needs; within ten years, possibly less, we are likely to become a wheat-importing nation; the percentage of the population engaged in agriculture and the wheat product per acre are both falling; at the same time the cost of living is raised everywhere by this relative scarcity of bread, by artificial increase in the price of all manufactured articles, and by a habit of extravagance which has enlarged the view of both rich and poor of what are to be considered the necessaries of life. These plain facts should disturb and arouse not only the economic student, but the men who are most intimately related to the wealth of the Nation and most concerned that it shall not suffer loss or decreases."

Mr. Hill declared that never yet has enhanced cost of living, when due to agricultural decline and inability to supply National needs, failed to end in National disaster. He said the farm is our main reliance, and that every other activity depends on that. He asserted, however, that the majority of people fail to realize practically the declining status of agriculture in the country.

Present Methods Insufficient.

"The consumers of bread throughout the world increase by probably from four to five millions every year. In our own country we shall require from 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels more annually for seed and home consumption. The domestic supply cannot be maintained by present methods. Not only is the cultivation of the soil being neglected, but it is also notoriously ineffective.

"All this has come about notwithstanding economic changes favorable to the occupant of the farm.

"Practically only a few months lie between a universal cessation of production and the destruction of the human race by starvation. The marvelous diversity of modern industry and its products blind us to the bare simplicity of the situation. Those who, like you, are main factors in supplying to industry the means to carry it on, who open up the main and lateral channels through which the fertilizing stream of capital may be turned upon the otherwise barren field of labor, should be always mindful of the first great source and storehouse of national wealth, and the most sensitive whenever it is depleted or endangered."

Speech of Mr. Reynolds.

In advocating the establishment of a central bank, President Reynolds also explained his idea of the manner in which such an institution should be conducted. He opened his talk with a review of financial and industrial conditions of the last year.

"While the past year has not brought as great activity in business, or as satisfactory returns on capital invested, or for labor performed, as we could have hoped," said Mr. Reynolds, "still, blessings have been showered upon us in increasing measure as time has passed; and where a short time ago there was hesitation in business and doubt, we now find activity and confidence. The financial sky which, during the closing days of 1907, became so filled with clouds of doubt and distrust as to affect our confidence and chill our hopes, and which brought such complete paralysis to our business, thus causing a long period of depression and entailing incalculable loss to our people, is rapidly clearing. Hope deferred has given place to hope realized and the fulfillment of our wishes. Activity and progress, guided by courage and conservatism, are again the watchwords of our people.

"I believe you will agree with me that much of the cause for our last panic is properly chargeable to our currency system, since under it the banks of the country were unable to expand their notes rapidly enough or to the extent necessary to meet the requirements of the situation."

Need of Central Bank.

"As the result of a study of the financial systems of the various countries of the world and the knowledge gained from actual experience in business of some of the changes necessary in order that we may secure a system of currency that will meet all the requirements of our rapidly growing business and which will at the same time command the confidence and respect of the entire business world, I am convinced that we should have established in this country a central bank, with power of note issue, to be operated under governmental supervision or control.

"To my mind, our foremost requirements are to have established an institution which could in time of need furnish credit in proportion to the reasonable needs of business and which would by law be given the power, under proper restriction, to issue its notes to be used as a circulating medium.

"A central bank, organized under a charter which would give it these powers and operated under an intelligent management, would go a long way toward solving our financial problems.

"First, it must be a central bank in fact as well as in name, and its powers and functions should be restricted to the needs of business; its plan of organization and operation should be such that it would automatically support the needs of and be the servant and not the master of business.

Amount of Bank's Capital.

"Its capital should be large enough to command respect and confidence—say not less than one hundred million dollars. Whether the capital stock should be subscribed for by the National banks of the country or sold to the public under a guarantee of a small dividend by the Government, with the right of the Government to share in the profits above the amount of that dividend, is only a matter of detail. Personally, I believe the latter plan would be the better, as it would do away very largely with the feeling that such an institution would be run for the especial benefit and profit of the banks of the country. This plan would make it a people's rather than a bankers' bank, and would poplarize it and greatly assist in solving the political problem, which seems to be quite as difficult or even more difficult of solution than is the economic problem.

"While such bank should be the fiscal agent of the Government and have all Government funds deposited with it, the bank should not be given the power to issue the public credit, as that should be done by the Government itself and by the people in an individual capacity. It would not be wise to give the Government supervision or control over a central bank and at the same time allow the bank to be used by those who direct its policy in maintaining the public credit.

"The bank, in addition to Government funds, should receive as deposits the funds of National banks in the three central-reserve cities, acting as reserve depository for banks in those cities, just the average trustee has reserve depositories for the banks in regular reserve cities. This would not affect the relations now existing between the banks in the country, either as to reserves or deposits.

Murray on Directoral Control.

Controller Murray, after reviewing his work in reorganizing the system of bank examinations, spoke on the subject of directoral control of banks. He said:

"The director of a bank who poses before the people as the trusted custodian of their funds, and who is using his Trusteeship for the purpose solely of personal gain, who is recklessly speculating with the people's money by borrowing unwarranted sums upon insufficient security, is the greatest menace to the safety of the banking system to-day. The elimination of this type of director from the control of banking institutions and the fostering of a keener sense of responsibility among a certain class of bank Directors of the duties of their high office is being attempted by me through all the means at my command.

"I now know exactly how every bank in the country is managed, and the few badly managed ones will be examined hereafter four times a year, and in the presence of the Directors. And in the banks where the management is either careless or not up to a fair standard, the Directors will be asked to adopt such rules for the internal management of the bank as will remedy for all time all ground for just criticism, either from the Controller or from anybody else. And I can say to you now that I firmly believe that before the end of this year every single bank will comply with this reasonable request."

Mr. Murray also spoke on co-operation between the National and State Bank Examiners. He said:

"It has been the policy of the Controller's office for several years to make an effort to arrange with the State Superintendents to have the State institutions examined at the same time that examinations are made of the allied National banks, but the effort has been in the main a failure. During the last year instructions have been issued to the National Bank Examiners advising them that the joint examinations must be made if possible, and putting all the inconvenience of it upon them. So that now we have, for the first time, an effective co-operation between the National and State Examiners in all the allied banks. That kind of co-operation is correcting bad conditions where any are found to exist."

Cannon Upholds Vreeland Act.

Speaker Cannon, who addressed the convention at the close of the morning session, declared the law enacted after the panic of 1907 (the Vreeland-Aldrich act) was not perfect, but had had good results. He said that when Congress met it was besieged with currency experts, each doubting the orthodoxy of the other.

"I believe," said Speaker Cannon, "that the only fault of the enacted law is that it lasts only six years. It is not perfect, but it can be made perfect. If that law had been on the statute books there would never have been a suspension of business in 1907, with its issuance of Clearing House certificates."

Continuing, the speaker declared that haste was harmful in legislation, and that the work of the Monetary Commission in revising the currency laws should be slow and careful.

There will be no regular session of the convention to-morrow. The day will be devoted to the work of the trust company section and the Clearing House section of the association.

WE MAY IMPORT MEAT.

Shortage Here Draws Attention Anew to South American Supply.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Fresh information has reached Washington of the interest of American business men in the development of the meat industry in Uruguay and Argentina, with special reference to the supply of the American market. It comes in a special report of Consul Frederic W. Goding at Montevedio, Uruguay.

At the same time the report reaches here that the receipts of beef cattle at the various stock yards of the country are now a full million head short of what they were for the corresponding period last year. The information as to the local shortage is that it is due to the scarcity of beef cattle in the country.

Representatives of the National Cattle Men's Association who are in town say that the ranchmen and farmers simply have not the stock they had last year and cannot come as near supplying the demand as they have done heretofore. The inevitable effect of that situation, of course, will be a sharp increase in the price of beef all along the line unless there are such shipments from Uruguay and Argentina as to prevent.

Consul Goding does not specify who the Americans are who have been looking into the situation down there, but he gives the impression that they are representatives of independent concerns. In that event their business, should any develop, would be in competition with the Beef Trust and would tend to hold prices down.

Mr. Goding says it is possible to lay prime Uruguay and Argentina beef down in New York at 6½ cents a pound, freight charges included. He comments favorably on the quality of Uruguayan beef, and says it has a fine flavor.

PASSENGER SEARCH DUE TO OVERZEAL

So James B. Reynolds Says and Transfers C. C. Wall, Special Agent.

CLARKSON STILL INQUIRING

But the Principal Trouble of the Customs Service Just Now Is Over the Yacht Tax—One Owner Pays.

After a consultation with Collector Loeb yesterday, James B. Reynolds, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, said that steps were being taken to obviate further criticism of the examination and passing of baggage on the piers. C. C. Wall, the special Treasury agent who had charge of the examination at the pier gates during the ultra-zealous period, it was said, had been transferred to other duties, which Collector Loeb described as "general work."

The mystery as to who was responsible for the orders to the watchmen at the gates to search the pockets of passengers as they left the piers, remains unsolved, but it was discovered yesterday that the much discussed Mr. Wall is not under the jurisdiction of the Collector of the Port, but is accountable to John Cummings, head of the special agents of the Treasury Department in this city.

Gen. J. S. Clarkson, Surveyor of the Port, who has been requested by the Collector to make a full and complete report on the alleged indignities suffered by home-coming Americans at the hands of the customs men, was busy yesterday examining witnesses and steamship employes.

The Surveyor remarked that it was difficult to get people to talk when they came to the Custom House.

Treasury Will Stop Annoyance.

Assistant Secretary Reynolds said it was not the fault of the Treasury Department that there had been any ground for complaint from passengers but was due solely to overzeal on the part of the employes. The department would support Collector Loeb in his earnest endeavors to stop smuggling into this country, and that support went "beyond the White House." At the same time every facility and courtesy must be extended by the customs officers to the traveling public.

For the information of trans-Atlantic travelers Collector Loeb has prepared printed folders of the new tariff law for distribution on shipboard setting forth what articles and in what amount may be brought in free by each passenger, and the privileges allowed to American citizens who have resided abroad two years, who may bring in duty free various household and more personal effects than the average traveler. The Collector found that many persons held up for petty smuggling had no knowledge that they were compelled to declare their property, even though entitled to free entry up to $100. He expects that the information will save passengers further trouble in this respect.

Owing to the vigilance of Treasury Agent Edward Kohn, five bales weighing 1,000 pounds of Sumatra leaf wrappers were seized yesterday at Bayonne, N. J., and sent to the customs seizure rooms in Jersey City. The tobacco was concealed in an empty oil tank on a Standard Oil steamship anchored off Bayonne. Two of her crew, George Simonds and Anton Engels, firemen, were arrested and taken before Commissioner Rowe in Jersey City, who held them in $2,000 bail each to appear before the Grand Jury in Trenton. The duty on the tobacco was $1,250 and its full value about $3,000.

One Yacht Owner Pays.

One Yachtsman, Frederick Gallatin, owner of the steam yacht Riviera of the New York Yacht Club fleet, paid the foreign tax yesterday amounting to $2,856. The other forty-three owners of foreign vessels maintained silence as to complying with the order of the Collector, which demanded payment by Sept. 15 with the alternative of being sued in the United States courts. It has been announced by several of the yachtsmen that they will not pay until the court compels them to do so, on the ground that the new tariff act is unconstitutional in that it is retroactive.

It is expected that when most of the yachtsmen return to town they will hold a meeting and take concerted action in testing the case. In the meantime, if the tax is not paid by to-night Collector Loeb will turn the cases over to the United States District Attorney, to take such action as he deems best.

Deputy Collector James J. Johnson has had an interesting and busy time searching for some of the yachts on which to place the tax. One yacht he traced from a yacht club at this port to the menial occupation of a coasting trader, later to a voyage as a banana carrier, and then was told that the yacht had foundered in the Gulf of Mexico. The owner of another yacht reported that he had sold the vessel, but could not remember the purchaser or the present whereabouts of his former boat. Some others are in foreign waters. A few of the yachts taxed by Collector Loeb have never been to this port at all.

Some of the larger yachts are valued at $200,000 to $500,000 and more, so that 35 per cent. of these amounts adds tremendous expense to the costly pleasure of yachting. This lump payment puts the boat under the American registry. This, it is contended by some sea lawyers, will require the replacing of their foreign crews with American sailors and officers. Other attorneys who have studied the new law declare that the whole thing is so puzzling that it may take some time to determine what remedy the yachtsmen have, if any.

Walter R. Eaton of the law division of the Collector's office said yesterday that the clause in the new law relating to tax when in "use" is construed to mean in and out of commission. Counsel for some of the owners are inclined to construe it as applying only to boats actually in commission. There are so many similar points involved that a test case in the courts appears to be the only way to solve them.

George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port, appointed Augustus K. Thomas yesterday Special Examiner to appraise the value of yachts under the new tax. Mr. Thomas has been an Examiner of merchandise in the Appraiser's Warehouse for eighteen years. He will have the help of A. J. McIntosh, a ship broker, who was appointed some days ago to assist in the appraisal of the vessels.

BIG STEEL PLANT IS SOLD.

New Yorker, Thought to Represent Charles M. Schwab, Buys It.

CHESTER, Penn., Sept. 14.—At a receivers' sale to-day the plant of the Tidewater Steel Company in this city was sold to D. H. Coffin of New York, who, it is said, represents a syndicate which will operate the plant.

Mr. Coffin purchased the plant for $305,100, which is $85,000 above the appraisement price. The next highest bidder was Henry T. Brown of Philadelphia, whose bid was $305,050. It is believed the sale will be confirmed by the court.

D. M. Coffin, purchaser of the Tidewater Steel Plant, is supposed here to be Daniel M. Coffin, a broker at 35 Wall Street. He is thought to represent Charles M. Schwab in the Tidewater transaction. Mr. Schwab, with a number of his associates, made an examination of the Tidewater property last week with a view to bidding on it, and it is presumed that the purchase by Coffin was for this group of steel men.

A dispatch from Bethlehem, Penn., last night said that Mr. Schwab, when seen at his home there, denied that he was concerned in the transaction. "I am not interested in any way in the purchase of the Tidewater plant, and, so far as I know, neither are my friends. I do not know D. M. Coffin of New York," he said.

DOTY'S CHOLERA MEASURES.

The Ryndam, from Infected Rotterdam, Had One Suspect Aboard.

The liner Ryndam, which arrived yesterday from Rotterdam, was held up at Quarantine while Health Officer Doty made a personal inspection of the 1,280 passengers on board, to see if there were any signs of cholera on the vessel. Rotterdam at present is an infected port.

Only one passenger was taken from the liner for examination, and the vessel was then allowed to proceed to her pier.

Dr. Doty said that he did not believe the suspect was a case of cholera, but he wished to examine the patient further.

"The examination of the Ryndam," he said, "is exactly the same as that of the Rotterdam, which arrived last week. Until I am officially assured that there is no more cholera in Rotterdam, this inspection will not be relaxed. I do not intend to take the word of any person on board, and every man will have to muster himself on deck and assure me that he is able to pass the inspection."

The Holland-America Line received a cable dispatch from the offices of the company in Rotterdam yesterday stating that the Burgomaster of that city had issued a statement that the disease reported as cholera had been entirely eradicated.

GERMAN LINER HIT A WHALE.

Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse Cut One in Twain—Steamship Lane Full of Them.

The skippers of incoming liners report the Atlantic so full of whales at present that it's hard to dodge them, especially at night, when they go to sleep on the surface, often in the track of vessels. One liner is said to have twisted and turned so rapidly, avoiding colliding with whales off the banks of Newfoundland, that her rivets fell out and she began to take water in her hold.

The latest collision was reported yesterday by Capt. Polack of the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which arrived in port yesterday from Bremen. Listen to his tale.

'Twas in midocean, during the lonely hours of middle watch, known to sailors as the "graveyard," from midnight till 4 A. M., that the carpenter was aroused in his bunk forward by a fearful banging against the bow of the ship. He roused his shipmate, the sailmaker, and both ran out on deck on to the foc'sle head, but they could see nothing, and the banging continued with greater vigor than ever. On looking over the side the two men saw part of a whale, about forty feet, hanging to the ship's bow, just above the water line. It was the flukes swinging to and fro that had made the noise which aroused the men from their slumbers.

The deck officers were called and then Capt. Polack came along and eventually the liner was stopped, while four seamen went over the side to cut the whale adrift.

LINSEED CO. FINDS PANIC'S EFFECTS GONE

Business Now Fully Restored, President McGean Says—Flax Crop Short.

Much Flaxseed Imported from Canada and Argentina—Profits Show Gains Over 1908.

The first annual report issued by the American Linseed Company since that of 1901, which showed a net loss from operations for the year of $1,402,491, was issued yesterday after the annual meeting of the stockholders in Jersey City. The report, which is for the year ended July 31, shows gains for the year, after paying all expenses, of $1,264,185, from which the deduction of interest paid on borrowed money, amounting to $186,109, left a balance of $1,078,076. Depreciation amounting to $98,475 was charged off, leaving net profit of $979,601.

The company's balance sheet shows cash and cash items of $638,968; ledger accounts, $833,484; memberships in the Board of Trade and the Produce Exchange, $5,689; Treasury stock, common, $37,970, and preferred, $26,352; notes receivable, $75,350; investments, $445,320; properties, &c., $31,845,572, and unearned insurance, $23,595. The liabilities are: Preferred stock, $16,750,000; common stock, $16,750,000; bonds payable, $315,650; current account payable, $16,595; surplus, $90,707; total, $33,022,302.

President McGean, in his annual report, says:

The profits, after paying all operating expenses, except interest on borrowed money, were $1,264,185. The interest paid on borrowed money and charges to depreciation amounted to $284,584, leaving net profits of $979,600. This has enabled us to cancel the balance of the deficit account that has existed for many years, and carry to surplus approximately $100,000.

In accordance with its usual practice, the company has maintained the physical condition of its plants in good working order, the expenditures having been charged to operating account.

The business during the early portion of the year was of reduced volume, due to the general business depression which began in 1907, from which some of our customers had not recovered at that time, but gradually resumed normal conditions as business throughout the country improved, and during the last few months of the year was fully restored.

The flax crop, which gave promise early in the year of being an average one, was damaged by unfavorable weather, reducing the yield seriously and resulting in a crop which was not sufficient for the requirements of the country. In consequence flaxseed was imported from Canada and Argentina, the first in many years. The price of seed during the year ranged from $1.20 to $1.80, and the price of oil from 38 cents to 60 cents per gallon. The stocks of seed and oil in this country at the close of the year are undoubtedly the lowest since the year 1901.

The outlook for the coming year is favorable. The acreage of the maturing crop is large; weather conditions have been good, and the expected yield should give a crop considerably in excess of the probable requirements of this country. With business fully restored, the oil consumption should be larger than any previous year.

ENGINE BLOWS UP; TWO HURT.

Explosion on the Country Estate of Colgate Hoyt on Long Island.

The explosion of a gasoline engine yesterday on the country estate of Colgate Hoyt, at Centre Island, near Oyster Bay, L. I., injured two men, one seriously. Cupt. Edward Reese, assisted by John Andrews, Mr. Hoyt's chauffeur, was using the gasoline engine to give power to a pump to which it was attached. In some way the plates of the engine became loose and an explosion followed.

The engine was blown into pieces. Reese was struck on the right arm by one bit of metal and on the hip by another. His flesh was badly torn by the flying pieces and the bone of his arm was broken. Smaller bits cut him about the face and body, penetrating his clothing as if it were paper. He was ferried across the water to Oyster Bay and removed by train to the Nassau Hospital, at Mineola. Andrews declined to go to a hospital, although he, too, was painfully cut. It is expected that Reese will lose his arm.

RAILWAYS CUT RATES FOR FULTON CROWDS

Round Trip Tickets for a Fare and a Half—Traffic Expected to Break All Records.

CENTRAL DOUBLING FORCE

Expects to Handle 1,200 Trains Daily During Celebration—Other Lines Look for Record Traffic.

The railroad companies, whose lines enter New York, are preparing to handle the largest crowds in the fortnight of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, Sept. 25 to Oct. 9, they have ever been called upon to move. At the offices of the big trunk lines it was said yesterday that their rolling stock and operating forces would be taxed to the utmost to transport the crowds to and from the celebration.

Heads of the operating departments, with scores of clerks and stenographers, have been busy for weeks arranging for the assemblage of cars at convenient points for use, whil ethe rush is on, and making out practicable schedules for the handling of special trains, as needed, in addition to the regular trains. All the roads have decided to make a special rate of one and one-half fare for round trips, good from Friday, Sept. 24, to Saturday, Oct. 9.

At the offices of the New York Central it was said yesterday afternoon that record crowds for the same length of time were confidently expected. Reports received from the agents of the various lines and divisions of the road all over the State showed that the crowds for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration promise to be about one-third larger than those that came to the Dewey celebration, which holds the record to the present time.

Central to Double Its Service.

The Central expects to handle 1,200 trains a day in and out of the Grand Central Station for the first eight days of the celebration. At present about 600 trains are handled daily for the normal traffic, and it is estimated that the crowds will be such as to require the road to fully double its service, the result being the heaviest strain ever put upon the operating department of the road, with the demand for passengers cars unprecedented. Extra cars will be brought to convenient points from all parts of the West, to which the road ramifies. Dodgers, posters, and advertising matter of almost every kind have been distributed throughout the country reached by the Central and its branches, with the result that the people even in the rural districts are almost as enthusiastic about the celebration as New York itself, and the towns along the Hudson River which are to take part in it.

Practically the same plans had been worked out by the other roads. At the offices of the Pennsylvania it was stated that a rate of one and one-half fare for round trips had been decided upon, but no estimate had yet been made of the number of special trains to be run. In a general way, however, it was known that preparations were under way for handling the heaviest passenger traffic the Pennsylvania had ever brought into the metropolis. This involved the compilation of an entirely new schedule which would not interfere with the movement of the regular trains and the bringing together of hundreds of extra passenger coaches.

The Erie, the Lackawanna, and the Long Island roads, with all their contributary lines and all other roads which pour their passengers into the city are likewise arranging to handle record crowds. Officers of all the lines argue that as New York is a great attraction anyway, the offers of special rates and a succession of ceremonies expected to eclipse anything of their kind this or any other country has seen, makes it difficult to estimate with anything like accuracy to what extraordinary proportions the crowds may grow.

Decorations at Various Points.

Preparations for receiving and entertaining the crowds are being rushed. Plans were filed yesterday with Building Supt. Murphy for special electrical decorations from designs by Betts & Betts, Incorporated, for the Hotel Netherland, at 783 Fifth Avenue; the Criterion Club, at 683 Fifth Avenue; the Union League Clubhouse, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, and the Hotel Knickerbocker, in Times Square.

The Hotel Netherland device will be a monogram made with a streamer one thousand feet long displaying 100 lamps; the Criterion Clubhouse will have an eagle and a shield with two flags, the design being 9 feet wide and 13 feet high; the Union League decoration will exhibit an eagle and crest and crescent, the eagle being crowned with two flags, 26½ feet wide and 14 feet high, and the crest and eagle being an additional height of 30 feet and 20 feet broad, the design being 44 feet high in its entirety. The Hotel Knickerbocker will display an electric streamer 160 feet long with 160 lamps.

ALDERMEN VOTE FOR VACATIONS

Ask Board of Education to Close Schools on Certain Fulton Days.

Alderman Crowley, at the meeting of the Aldermen yesterday, moved that the Board of Education be requested to give a vacation in the public schools during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. The motion was promptly carried. The Board of Education has already discussed the question of granting holidays during the celebration, and the matter is now entirely in the hands of President Egerton L. Winthrop of the board.

The board's objection to a general holiday even for the week when the celebration will be in the city was based partly on the ground that with the several usual holidays between now and Christmas and the long Christmas holiday the children would be pressed too hard to complete the course of study prescribed if they should have several days' break in their work at the beginning of the session.

President Winthrop, however, probably will not make his final announcement until the board meets on Sept. 22.

CLERMONT'S OFFICIAL TRIAL.

Duplicate of Original Fulton Boat Proves Satisfactory, Even in Speed.

The Clermont, the duplicate of Robert Fulton's famous original steamboat, which will take part in the various naval parades arranged for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, had its official inspection and trial trip yesterday afternoon in Kill von Kull, the channel running between Staten Island and New Jersey, and it proved satisfactory in every way. The slow march of the little boat, with her exposed paddles wildly plashing the water, turned out to be a veritable triumphal procession. Factories along the Bayonne and Staten Island shores, and every manner of water craft which boasted of a whistle tooted enthusiastically as long as she was in sight.

Since her builders' trial trip, ten days ago, the Clermont's hull had been painted and at least one other important matter attended to. It was discovered on the builders' trial trip that the boat developed entirely too much "velosity," as the newspapers of Fulton's day described her speed. She actually made six miles an hour, the unexpected speed almost giving her builders nervous chills. The original boat logged only four miles an hour in her best days, and here was the reproduction, with machinery built on exactly the same lines, fully as heavy, cumbersome and ungainly, spinning off an additional two miles with ease.

The designers were almost at their wits' end to find some means of correcting this excessive speed limit. An examination of the machinery does not disclose to the lay mind just what they actually did, but the boat kept herself down yesterday afternoon to four and a half miles.

The inspection party boarded her at the shipyards, and the course lay along Kill von Kull northward toward St. George, a distance of five or six miles. Followed by the tug Dalzalene, which had almost to drift to keep from running down the boat of honor, the Clermont splashed along merrily until nearly off St. George, when, turning gracefully, she headed back to the shipyards to await the naval parade of Saturday, Sept. 25, when she will be acclaimed by tens of thousands.

TO OPEN CHELSEA PIERS.

Public May See Naval Pageant from Big North River Structures.

In addition to the recreation piers, the public is going to have another vantage point from which to view the naval pageant of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. After a conference with Mayor McClellan, Dock Commissioner Spooner announced yesterday that the large spaces on the second floor, or upper deck, of the new Chelsea piers, at their outer ends, will also be opened to the public.

Mayor McClellan said that he saw no objection to opening the piers, provided proper precautions were taken to prevent overcrowding. Commissioner Spooner will take up this phase of the matter with the Police Department, and, although the number of people to be allowed on each is restricted, it is thought on the eight structures there will be room for many thousands of sightseers.

SPECIAL FULTON ART EXHIBIT.

The Hudson-Fulton exhibition arranged by the Metropolitan Museum of Art was opened at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon for inspection by members of the press, who were conducted through the galleries by Mr. Kent, assistant to the Secretary.

The exhibition, prepared especially for this occasion, consists of a collection of more than 130 of the works of the seventeenth century Dutch masters. Artists declared yesterday that it was the finest exhibition of the kind ever made. Quite a number of the paintings shown have been lent by J. Pierpont Morgan, some of these not having been seen before in this country. Mr. Morgan had them brought from his collections in Europe expressly for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration.

REV. E. H. YOUNG ILL ABROAD.

Pittsburg Pastor, Formerly of Grace Church, New York, Stricken in Naples.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Sept. 14.—The Rev. E. H. Young, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Union Avenue, and formerly connected with Grace Church, New York, is critically ill in Naples, Italy. Mrs. Young sailed from New York this afternoon in response to a cablegram as to his serious condition.

Mr. Young, on his Summer vacation, had been visiting most of the European countries, and had concluded a tour of the Holy Land. While on his way home, a week ago, he was suddenly attacked with a disease, and on reaching Naples his attending physician refused to permit him to travel further. No explanation of the malady with which the minister has been attacked has reached Pittsburg.

News of his illness was received by the Christ Church Vestry, and the members immediately cabled Mr. Young their sympathy, and also told him to take a vacation of another six months, if necessary. On receipt of this cable Mr. Young, in reply, offered to tender his resignation, which the Vestry refused to accept.

The Rev. Mr. Young, previous to coming to this city was associated in the work at Grace Church, New York. For many years he was Chaplain of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and resigned that position only when the work at Christ Church demanded his attention. He was rector of Christ Church for four years.

MORE LONG ISLAND BONDS.

Road Asks Permission to Issue $16,500,000.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—The application of the Long Island Railroad Company for permission to issue $16,500,000 in ten-year 4 per cent. bonds was heard to-day by the Public Service Commission.

It was shown that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the largest stockholder of the Long Island, had since 1905 advanced $14,000,000 for improvements, of which $8,000,000 had been paid by the sale of bonds and $6,000,000 remained unpaid, and is proposed to be taken care of by the debentures to be issued. It is also proposed to extend $10,500,000 for further improvements.

President Peters said it was his opinion that, with the immense expenditures being made, the road would run $150,000 behind this year, but that the indications are for a surplus of over $200,000. He stated that it is the ultimate intention of the road to increase its capital stock and dispose of this stock at par, or exchange it for the debentures which it now seeks to have authorized.

BALLINGER NOT TO QUIT.

Says So, Though His Doctor Had Ordered Him Not to Talk.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—"To keep him from talking," Secretary of the Interior Ballinger was ordered to stay away from his office to-day. The injunction came from his physician and not from Mr. Ballinger's chief, President Taft.

For several days the Secretary has been suffering from throat trouble, and the doctor told him he would have to remain in his room at the Shoreham for a day or so if he expected to be able to leave for the West to join the President the latter part of the week.

In spite of the precautions taken, however, Mr. Ballinger did talk to a reporter over the telephone. The excuse was a renewal of the report that the Secretary was about to tender his resignation because of the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

"I have not resigned, nor have I any intention of resigning," said Mr. Ballinger.

MUSICAL UNION SUES RIDDER AND RIVALS

Charges Restraint of Trade in Furnishing Bands for the Fulton Celebration.

CLIMAX OF OLD QUARREL

Internationals Assert That Contracts of Members Have Been Thrown Out—Strike Threatened.

At a meeting held yesterday by the American International Musicians, Jacob Schomber, President, it was decided to institute suit in the Federal court against Herman Ridder, Chairman of the Committee on Carnival and Parade of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, as well as the Musical Mutual Protective Union, charging them with restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust law.

This is the latest development in the bitter war that has broken out between the rival musical organizations which want the privilege of furnishing band music for the big historical celebration which begins this month. The Musical Union, allied with the American Federation of Labor, has obtained most of the contracts to furnish the requisite band music for the celebration, despite the strenuous opposition of the rival organization.

As a matter of fact, the warfare has extended over four years, when the American Musicians broke away from the parent organization and established an independent union, known first as the Musical Protective Alliance, and then by its present name. For the last two years, according to President Schomber, the officers of the American Musicians have been quietly obtaining evidence on which to bring suit against their rival.

Part of this evidence, it is claimed, was forthcoming at the recent Queensboro Bridge celebration, when the present organizations clashed much the same as at present, but it has been only during the last few weeks, when both unions have been fighting for a share of the parade privileges, that they have obtained sufficient data to enable them to enter suit charging violation of the anti-trust laws. Most of the evidence is in the form of affidavits made by members of the American Musicians who, it is claimed, had recommendations for contracts, which were thrown out when the Mutual Union discovered that the musicians were affiliated with the American Musicians.

President Schomber of the latter society also asserts that there has been a wholesale breaking of contracts. One contract put in evidence at yesterday's meeting showed that John Hohenhonsen of 314 Eighth Avenue, a band leader, had contracted last July with Theodore Henmuger, Chairman of the Carnival Parade, to furnish a band of twenty-five men and one leader. As soon as it was discovered that he was a member of the American International Musicians, says Hohenhonsen, he was told that he could not take part in the parade.

An unusual feature of the suit to be brought against Mr. Ridder and the musical society is the allegation that the Musical Mutual Protective Union has suddenly increased its rates, solely for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, and that where the former price for an ordinary bandman in a parade was $6 it has been increased to $8, and the price of a leader from $12 to $16. This increase, President Schomber said, the members of his union would not be a party to.

Other affidavits have been made by band leaders Conterno and Franciulli, who say that they were notified that their bands would not be permitted in the parade if the men were not members of the Musical Mutual Union. The matter was also taken up with John Mitchell of the National Civic Federation, who refused to interfere on the ground that the dispute was not between employer and employe.

"We have decided that our only redress is to bring suit under the Sherman anti-trust law," said President Schomber yesterday. "The action of the Mutual Union in refusing to allow our organization a share of the parade money is clearly in restraint of trade. After several contracts were made by members of our society to furnish bands they were thrown out because Mr. Ridder had issued an order that all societies must engage musicians only from the Musical Mutual Protective Union, Local 310. This order naturally made my societies not able to engage musicians from the American International Musicians, Local 41, and deprived them from making a living which this country guarantees to free citizens.

"At to-day's meeting it was decided to order Lawyer Otto Kempner of Local 41 to begin suit at once against both Mr. Ridder and the Musical Mutual Union. I understand that Mr. Ridder is an honorary member of the Aschenbroedel Club, which is a connection of the Mutual Union."

"The whole trouble is a labor fight," said Mr. Ridder last night. "We have dealt mainly with the Musical Mutual Protective Union, because it is the larger organization and has the most bands. But we have also dealt with the other union and have engaged bands and musicians from both. I don't care what music we get so long as we get it.

"I have tried hard to have all differences patched up so that there will be no trouble during the parade, and I read the riot act to the organization complained of so as to force it to reach an agreement. I am not worrying about what President Schember is threatening to do. As I said before, I have engaged bands from both societies and everybody ought to be happy."

Late last night the International Union, Local 41, held another meeting and decided to ask the Hudson-Fulton Commission to restrain the officers of the rival union, Local 310, from applying for out-of-town musicians to make up the numerous bands that will be required in the parade. According to L. Ryer, one of the prominent members of Local 41, the officers of Local 310 have served an ultimatum upon Mr. Ridder to the effect that if any musicians belonging to Local 41 were employed Local 310 would strike and refuse to furnish any musicians whatever, thus tieing up most of the city's bands.

It was said last night that the prominent members of the Hudson-Fulton Commission would hold a meeting soon and try to bring some order out of the chaos.

CREDITORS CAN'T RAID GRAVE.

Surrogate Prevents Them from Seizing a Jewish Cemetery Burial Plot.

According to a decision handed down by Surrogate Thomas yesterday the burial plot in the Jewish cemetery at Bayside, L. I., in which Simon Ratkowski, who died on Oct. 25, 1906, is interred, and which was his most valuable asset, cannot be sold to pay the debts of the deceased, among which are the funeral expenses, grocer's, and butcher's bills.

The matter came up through the application made to the court by Moses J. Roth, administrator of Ratkowski's estate, asking for permission to dispose of the realty in question to pay some of the outstanding bills, which amount to about $400, which is said to be the value of the lot. The personal estate of the deceased was said to be valued at $10. Ratkowski is survived by a widow, Mrs. Roney Ratkowski, and the other three heirs-at-law are Annie Billwitz, Flora Friedman, and Moses L. Roth. Counsel for the latter considers the decision a victory for his client and the family, as the plot cannot now be seized by the creditors.

The Surrogate in his decision said that on the papers presented to him in the matter he held "that the whole plot, being a part of a cemetery and actually in use as a place of interment for the dead, is exempt from sale for the purpose of being applied to the payment of the decedent's debts so long as it continues to be used for cemetery purposes."

FAST AEROPLANE IS SMALL.

Santos-Dumont's New Machine Weighs 260 Pounds with Pilot.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The reappearance in the world of aviation of Santos-Dumont with his remarkable performance of yesterday, when he flew in an aeroplane at a speed of about fifty-five miles an hour, has attracted much attention on account of the diminutive size of his machine.

It weights, together with the pilot, only 118 kilograms (259.6 pounds.) It has nine square yards of surface as against twenty-two square yards in the Curtiss aeroplane, twenty-six in the Blériot, and fifty-three in the Wright machine. A two-cylinder motor developed thirty horse power and ran at the rate of 1,800 revolution a minute.

The most striking feature in the appearance of this aeroplane is the short and broad wing, tilted at a high angle. It has no tail, and its general appearance is that of a quail.

SAINT CYR, France, Sept. 14.—Santos-Dumont, who made a flight from Saint Cyr to Buc, a distance of eight kilometers, in five minutes yesterday, made the return trip to-day in twelve minutes.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio, Sept. 14.—L. W. Bonney, a hotel man of this place, made a flight in a monoplane of his own design at 5 o'clock this morning. Its construction is along simpler lines than any other air craft, and it ascended readily at its first trial.

After flying nearly across the Langley meadow, Mr. Bonney descended, and in striking the ground broke the tail of the machine entirely off.

QUEENS WANTS BRIDGE CARS.

Committees of Citizens Appeal to the Board of Estimate.

The special committee of the Board of Estimate which has charge of the franchise arrangements on the Queensboro Bridge met yesterday afternoon at the Controller's office and heard the complaints of some fifty citizens of the borough across the river. Those present represented civic organizations of Long Island City, Elmhurst, Woodside, Flushing, Jamaica, Bayside, and Whitestone.

It was declared that the threat of taking the delay in the provision for traffic facilities across the bridge to the Governor was meant in all sincerity. After a great deal of talk the meeting adjourned, principally on account of the plan of Bridge Commissioner Stevenson to run a municipal line of cars on the bridge until the franchise question can be finally settled by the courts.

CURTISS NOT BOUND TO FLY UP HUDSON

Final Contract for Hudson-Fulton Celebration Not Yet Agreed On, He Says.

TO SAIL FOR HOME TO-DAY

Decides to Forego Inducements Offered for Flights in Germany—Many Orders for His Machines.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Glenn H. Curtiss has decided to return to New York, sailing to-morrow on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. from Cherbourg, in spite of the tempting offers he has received for flights at Frankfort and Berlin, where guarantees of $5,000 and $4,000, respectively, have been offered to him in addition to prizes he might win.

Mr. Curtiss has received other offers from South Italy and Austria, but business interests make it advisable for him to proceed to the United States, where he probably will make flights during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration in New York. His aeroplane, which was held at the frontier awaitng his decision with regard to the Frankfort engagement, will be shipped immediately to America.

With regard to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, Mr. Curtiss explained to-day that, despite statements to the contrary, he has never signed a contract, but only entered into a preliminary agreement with William J. Hammer, Secretary of the Committee on Aeronautics, which bound neither party, the understanding being that a contract should be signed later.

The contract, he said, was sent to Paris by the Hudson-Fulton officials, accompanied by a deposit, but Mr. Curtiss found several clauses unacceptable. He amended the contract and returned it to New York with the deposit. If the committee accepts the contract as amended, he says, he will sign it on his arrival, and do his utmost to fly up the river as proposed.

Mr. Curtiss added that he had received many orders for aeroplanes from all parts of Europe, but that he could not accept many of them, as he could not guarantee early delivery.

He expressed pleasure at Santos Dumont's notable achievement in breaking the speed record, and added that he hoped to equal if not surpass it in the near future with the experience gained at Rheims and Brescia.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14.—Glenn H. Curtiss, the aeroplanist, cabled the aero club of St. Louis from Paris to-day that he would sail for the United States to-morrow. The local aero club has accepted Curtiss's offer for a three days' exhibition here in October.

WILBUR WRIGHT HERE FRIDAY.

He Will Go to Governors Island to Prepare for Aeroplane Flights.

Wilbur Wright will arrive at Governors Island on Friday, to supervise the preparations for the flights he is to make in his aeroplane from the island during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. It was said yesterady that Mr. Wright may make a few preliminary flights, for the purpose of trying out his machine, the first of next week.

The aeroplane shed, under construction on the southeastern end of the island, will be ready to house Mr. Wright's aeroplane on Friday, and the machine will probably reach New York next Saturday. So far no arrangements have been made for the construction of Glenn H. Curtiss's shed on the island. Mr. Curtiss is now in Europe. His machine is expected to reach New York on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm Sept. 28.

Orders for Hudson-Fulton Electrical Decorations Should Be Placed at Once

Owing to the great demand for labor and material for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, electrical decoration orders should be placed at once to be reasonably sure that the work will be completed in time for the opening day.

This will be one of the greatest events in the history of New York City, and the great scope of the work demands prompt attention on part of those who expect to electrically decorate their buildings.

If you have no electrical contractor at convenient call send for a copy of The Edison Monthly.

BLAMES THEOSOPHY FOR DIVORCE SUIT

Major Hanson Says the Trouble Began When He "Wouldn't Bow the Neck."

FAMILY DIVIDED OVER IT

Wife's Petition Alleges Cruelty and Hints That Mrs. Jack Horner Was the Cause.

Whereas, Mrs. Cora L. Hanson, when last month she filed papers asking for a divorce from Major J. Fletcher Hanson, President of the Central Railroad of Georgia, laid most of the blame for the estrangement between herself and her husband to his alleged infatuation for Mrs. "Jack" Horner, he now declares, in his answer, just filed in the Georgia court, that the whole trouble arose because he "would not bow the neck" to the theosophical teaching of Mrs. Katherine A. Tingley, the Purple Mother of Point Loma, Cal.

Major Hanson would not discuss in detail the petition of his wife, and his answer thereto, but at his office, 120 Broadway, he showed a copy of his answer and answered questions relating to it.

Major Hanson is 72 years old, his wife 66. They have been married forty-four years, and Mrs. "Jack" Horner is only 32. Mrs. Hanson filed her suit for divorce in Atlanta on Aug. 18. She alleged cruelty and indicated that this cruelty had been brought about by her aged husband's infatuation for Mrs. Horner, who was Miss Daisy Emerson of Baltimore.

At that time the former Miss Emerson, who is now the wife of James H. McVickar, to whom she has been married less than a year, received reporters at her home, 471 Park Avenue. She said that the charges of Mrs. Hanson were outrageous, and that she had been merely a friend of all the Hanson family for some years.

Referring to Mrs. Horner's connection with the divorce case, Major Hanson says in his petition.

> The defendant further alleges that his association with Mrs. Horner was a mere incident in the campaign that was being waged against him by the theosophists of his family because they could not force him to bow his neck to the yoke of theosophy.
>
> Having failed to lead or drive defendant into theosophy, or to persuade or force him to contribute financial assistance, it was determined to attack him in the manner that the plaintiff attacked him, because the plaintiff knew that it was impossible for the defendant properly to defend himself against this character of attack, as it dragged into their plan an innocent woman's name.

Major Hanson said that the astral forms of theosophy first began to take stands between him and the members of his family fourteen years ago. Mrs. Hanson said that her husband had threatened to choke her once, and called her a liar. In his answer he says that he never threatened his wife, nor laid "the weight of a feather" upon any woman.

"Until theosophy came in as an element of discord," his answer goes on, "the defendant had a united and happy family. Defendant's only son first embraced the doctrine of this cult. This son was a man of extraordinary mental force, and soon drew his mother, his youngest sister, and her husband into theosophy. He became the dominant force with the members of the defendant's family."

The aged Major says he held out to this son great opportunities, out of which he could have taken much prosperity if it had not been for this "strange creed." Instead this son, the petition declares, spent most of his time with the Point Loma colony, and was soon asking his aged father for a loan. It was refused. At various times during the last ten years Mrs. Hanson, the Major declares, made visits to Point Loma. For a while, indeed, the Major found himself bereft of his wife and all his children, he says, they all being ardently attached to theosophy and Point Loma at the time, though one or two of them have since fallen away from the teachings of the Purple Mother.

Not only did the members of his family go away from his home to Point Loma, though he told them that if they did he would not render them financial assistance, but they harassed him with their efforts to proselytize him and everybody else around, he declares.

"The theosophists of the defendant's family," the petition goes on, "soon added to the zeal of new converts the arrogance, intolerance, aggression, and bigotry of fanatics, and sought to lead or drive into theosophy every one around them."

His eldest son, the one with the extraordinary mental force, would go to his father's house, and summon by telephone to it all the neighbors around, to the end that he could talk theosophy and the United Brotherhood at Point Loma, all against the wishes of the defendant, who owned the house. This son wanted all the neighbors to send their children to the Purple Mother at Point Loma for instruction.

All the theosophists who went to the Major's house in Macon, Ga., through their talk impressed him with the firm conviction that "they had no patience whatever with any one who refused to join them. Their prejudices against and hatred of any one who made report of what transpired at Point Loma, or criticised in any way the conduct of affairs at Point Loma was beyond belief."

But the Major did oppose the United Brotherhood even on the economic side, because, he says, all the brotherhood schemes he ever knew anything about had always failed after the means of the wealthy brothers had been exhausted.

EXTRA AIR BRAKE DIVIDEND.

Total Disbursements of $560,000 to be Made for the Quarter.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—The Board of Directors of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company met to-day, and, besides declaring the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent., declared an extra dividend of 1½ per cent. on the capital stock of $14,000,000, or a disbursement of $350,000 in regular dividend and $210,000 in extra dividend.

This is the first time since October, 1907, that an extra dividend has been declared, and the news was taken by the stockholders and the 300,000 workmen in the Pittsburg district as evidence that the panic which began two years ago is at last historical.

The increase in business which warranted the extra dividend is attributed by the company to increased activity among the railroads of the country, which for many weeks have been crowding the Wilmerding plant with orders and forcing it to put on the full quota of 3,800 men. Enough orders have come in to insure running the plant at top speed for several months.

The stockholders' meeting will be held on Oct. 5, when it is understood, one of the best reports in years will be made.

McCLELLAN FOR SIMPLE LIFE.

Sees a Chance for the Rich to Minimize Class Feeling.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Greater New York Day drew a big crowd at the State fair to-day. Mayor McClellan of New York was the speaker of the day. He said that wealth had it largely in its power to increase or minimize class feeling, and he asserted that there was a spirit of unrest and discontent sweeping around the world which has only reached America.

He believed that this State had a peculiar duty to perform to the rest of the country. As the richest State, New York should show by example that the possession of wealth entails responsibilities and duties to the community. It should cultivate that impulse toward better things, encourage the desire for sounder thought and simpler life.

The Mayor was dined by the State Fair Commission and prominent Syracusans.

COAL LANDS FRAUD HEARING.

United States Commissioner Hears Evidence in Requisition Proceedings.

A hearing was held yesterday by United States Commissioner Gilchrist in the case of Wilberforce Sully, a Director of the American Malting Corporation of this city; George W. Dally, a former stenographer in the office of the late Alfred Sully, the capitalist; Frank T. Wells, a Justice of the Peace, of Amityville, L. I., and Rufus T. Ireland of Amityville, who are charged with having conspired to defraud the Government out of 1,000 acres of what are known as the "vacant coal lands" at Lander, Wyo. The Federal authorities of Wyoming are seeking to have the four defendants taken to that State for trial. The hearing yesterday was on requisition proceedings.

The indictment against the defendants charges them with having fraudulently arranged to acquire a large slice of the coal lands and turn it over to the Cwl Creek and the Northwestern Coal Companies, which are now in control of the property. The Government permitted individuals to acquire 160 acres of the coal lands at $10 an acre, but there was a stipulation against allowing any group of men to get more than 320 acres, this being done to prevent a monopoly. Mr. Ireland yesterday identified two letters he received from Alfred Sully in November, 1905, in which Sully offered to advance the money to Ireland and any of his friends to each take up 160 acres of the coal lands. Ireland said he got about a dozen of his friends in Amityville to go into the plan, but their application was turned down, so a partnership of two was formed by Ireland and his wife and 320 acres of land were obtained. Ireland disclaimed any knowledge of a plan to turn the land over to the coal companies.

It developed that a Mrs. Michaels, sister of Alfred Sully, had advanced some of the money for the coal lands. The hearing will go on to-day.

AUTO WRECK KILLS WOMAN.

Two Other Persons Hurt In Collision May Not Live.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—In a collision between an automobile and a trolley car this afternoon Mrs. James McKay of Canton, Penn., was killed, Mr. McKay's skull was fractured, and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Conklin of Troy, Penn., were injured seriously.

They were in the automobile on their way to this city from Pennsylvania. The accident occurred four miles south of the city.

The accident was caused, apparently, by the neglect of Mr. McKay, who was driving, to turn out sufficiently to pass the trolley car. The car was proceeding slowly, and the automobile was said to be traveling about thirty miles an hour. The corner of the car crashed into the automobile, tore off a wheel, smashed the hood, and wrenched the front seat from the body of the car.

Mr. McKay was hurled from his seat and fell on the pavement under a wheel of the street car. Mrs. McKay was thrown high in the air and fell on the brick pavement. She was taken into a near-by house, where she died shortly afterward. Mr. and Mrs. Conklin were thrown heavily to the pavement.

Mr. Conklin is believed to have a fracture at the base of the skull, and Mrs. Conklin was badly cut and bruised. It is believed she will live, but the recovery of the others is not expected.

Woman Leaps from Ryndam at Sea.

The Captain of the incoming liner Ryndam reported at Quarantine yesterday the suicide of Mrs. Rebecca Zisel Mendelbaum. She jumped overboard on the morning of Sept. 6 just after the ship left Rotterdam. She was a second-class passenger and was on her way from Lotz, Russia, to join her husband in Chicago. The ship was stopped, a life buoy thrown overboard, and one of the lifeboats vainly pulled about for an hour. Then the Ryndam proceeded.

FAMOUS ART WORKS COMING TO NEW YORK

Benjamin Altman Buys the Dutch Masterpieces of the Maurice Kann Collection.

THREE ARE REMBRANDTS

"Man with a Magnifying Glass" and "Woman with a Red Book" for Hudson-Fulton Loan Collection.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Benjamin Altman, the well-known New York dry goods merchant, has acquired four of the gems of the famous Maurice Kann collection recently purchased by Duveen Brothers. Altman's acquisitions, which New Yorkers will shortly be able to view in the Hudson-Fulton loan collection to be held at the Metropolitan Museum, consist of no less than three of the famous Rembrandts included in the Kann collection. They are a portrait of Oscar Haring, the portrait of "The Man with a Magnifying Glass," and its pendent portrait, "The Woman with a Red Book." There is also the celebrated "Cornfields" of Ruysdael, one of the finest specimens, if not the best, of that master's work.

These treasures are now on their way across the ocean. Mr. Altman is to be congratulated upon having secured for America masterpieces which several European galleries were keenly competing for.

The Kann collection was recently purchased by the Duveens for $2,500,000.

On the same page of the THE SUNDAY TIMES appeared a reproduction of Van Ruysdael's "Break of Day," the subject of which is not unlike the "Cornfields" which Mr. Altman has purchased. In the latter work a marvelous sunlight effect is shown over undulating cornfields. Through their midst, in the middle distance, leading toward the spectator's right, runs a road. A woman and child are seen approaching a man, who is walking toward them. The sea occupies the left distance, with ships upon it.

Rembrandt's "Woman With a Red Book" shows a woman with a red book in her hand seated with a thoughtful expression on her face. Strings of large pearls bind back her fair hair from her forehead, and she has pearl earrings, and valuable chains, brooches, and other jewelry. Her gown is a rich, red-brown, and is cut square in the neck. A picture in a gold frame stands on her right.

At the sale of the collection of Rodolphe Kann, which was bought in 1907 by the Duveen Brothers, Mr. Altman secured some other notable works of art. Of Rembrandts he acquired the "Woman Cutting Her Nails" and "Pilate Washing His Hands." He also purchased by the same artist the portraits of the Dutch poet Pieter Cornelius Hooft and of Titus Van Ryjn, the painter's only surviving son by Saskia Van Uhlenburg, his first wife. Fine specimens of Hobbena and Cuyp were also bought by Mr. Altman.

FROM MR. WU BY WIRELESS.

Chinese Minister Interviewed at Sea—Marvels at Inventive Age.

Wu Ting-fang, Chinese Minister to the United States and Peru, sent out an interview by the United Wireless Telegraph Company from the Royal Mail steam packet Oruba, off Cape Hatteras, last night, while on his way up from Colon.

Mr. Wu said that he had been in Peru three months and had enjoyed his trip thward to New York, via the Isthmus of Panama, very much. Mr. Wu said he saw a great future for all the South American republics on the west coast after the completion of the canal. The Far East, too, he thinks, will be wonderfully benefited by the canal.

"China will be able to get nearer to New York," said Mr. Wu, "and the people of the two countries will get to know each other better.

"I have been interviewed in many parts of the world, but this is the first time by wireless, which, to my mind, is the most wonderful invention of the age. I am beginning to realize that there is nothing impossible in this age of aeroplanes and north pole discoverers. I think that in a few years every one will be flying through the air instead of walking."

Mr. Wu added that he would stay for some months in Washington, awaiting his successor, and then go back to China. The Oruba is expected at noon to-day.

EXONERATES U. S. ATTORNEY.

Attorney General Wickersham Finds Walton Not Guilty of Misconduct.

This statement was given out yesterday by Attorney General Wickersham at his office in the Royalton, next door to the Bar Association in West Forty-third Street:

"During the month of July Stewart Browne, whose chauffeur, Emile Violon, had been arrested for an alleged violation of the immigration laws of the United States, filed charges with the Attorney General of the United States against Daniel Day Walton, Jr., an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, who had charge of the case against the chauffeur.

"These charges contained serious accusations against Mr. Walton, and, in fact, represented that he had browbeaten the United States Grand Jury into returning an indictment on insufficient evidence, and that Mr. Walton had attempted to extort money from Mr. Browne with a view to suppressing the prosecution. These charges were published at large in the press of this community at the instance of Mr. Browne.

"The Attorney General has carefully inquired into all of the facts bearing upon these charges, and after much inquiry has informed Mr. Browne that there is and was no foundation for such charges, and the same have been dismissed."

CHAUFFEURS GO TO SING SING.

Two Get Prison Sentences for Robbing a Woman Fare.

William B. Curzon of 157 West Sixty-sixth Street and William H. Young of 19 West Sixty-fifth Street, chauffeurs, were sentenced yesterday to serve not less than two and a half years and not more than five years in the Sing Sing Prison by Judge Mulqueen, in the Court of General Sessions.

They were arrested over a month ago charged with having attacked and robbed Mrs. Irene Wright of 213 East Sixty-sixth Street, whom they picked up in their automobile as a fare. They took $25 from her.

New Liners to be Named for Cities.

The Ocean Steamship Company announced that the two new steamships now under construction would be named City of St. Louis and City of Montgomery. The first will be delivered on Aug. 1, 1910, and the second on Sept. 1. These vessels will be 6,000 gross tonnage and 403 feet long, the largest steamships ever constructed for the Atlantic Coast trade.

FEAR OF VENGEANCE MAY SHIELD SLAYER

Utica Police Think Parents of Murdered Children Dare Not Reveal What They Know.

CLUES RUN DOWN IN VAIN

Woman Who Discovered Crime Says Girl Told Assassin's Name, but Child Now Denies She Knows It.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The police have run down every possible clue without result in their effort to find the murderer of little Theresa Procopio and Freddy Infusino. They are no nearer a solution of the case to-night than they were when the crime was discovered early yesterday morning. Scores of suspects have been arrested, only to be released after examination. Many theories as to the motive have been advanced, but none of them has taken definite form.

Rewards aggregating $3,250 have been offered here for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

The attitude of Fannie Infusino, who insists that she does not know the name of the man who lured her and the two children who were killed from their homes Sunday evening, together with the statement of Mrs. Gray, who discovered the crime, that the Infusino child told her the name of the man, strengthens the belief that the parents of the children know more of the crime than they have admitted.

Before the authorities arrived, Mrs. Gray says, the child told her the name of the man, saying that she knew him well. It was an Italian name, which, she says, she is unable to remember. A few moments later the child's father arrived, and talked excitedly with the girl in Italian, and from that time on the child has stolidly maintained that she does not know the man, and has supplied only a vague description of him.

The police say that if the parents know who the murderer is they are perhaps afraid to divulge his identity. They have given the authorities no assistance.

A prominent Utica Italian when asked to-night if the rewards would be an inducement for Italians who have information regarding the crime to divulge it, said he was sure they would not. They would be afraid that vengeance would be executed, he said.

TO BURY CASTLES TO-DAY.

Widow of Suicide Trust Co. President Reaches Home—Burton Castles Ill.

Mrs. Elizabeth E. Castles, widow of John W. Castles, the President of the Union Trust Company, who committed suicide in the Grand Union Hotel on Monday evening, reached this city last night. Soon after she arrived at her home at 540 Park Avenue, the Stephen Merrit Burial and Cremation Company at Nineteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, in charge of the body of her husband, received instructions to remove it to the Castles home this morning.

Mrs. Castles had been spending a part of the Summer at the Adirondack League Club at Little Moose Lake in the Adirondacks, and it was from there that she came upon receiving word of her husband's death.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from his late home, 540 Park Avenue, and will be strictly private. The interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery. The precise hour of the funeral had not been set last night.

Burton S. Castles, brother of the dead banker, was prostrated at his home, 27 West Twenty-sixth Street, last evening. The shock incidental to the discovery of the suicide had resulted in illness.

No action was taken by the Union Trust Company yesterday in recognition of the death of President Castles. The Executive Committee will hold its regular meeting to-morrow, and it is thought that a meeting of the full board will then be called to canvass the question of his successor and pass appropriate resolutions.

What Is Wisdom in Women's Shoes?

Adams Building—Second Floor.

It is true, best shoes are not to be got for a trifle. We have roamed the country for shoes good enough for our policy. You can't get good shoes for very little. Neither can we. By and by you'll find out and pay the necessary price and get good shoes.

What is wisdom in shoes? It is to know good shoes when you see them, pay the necessary price and not overpay.

You are at a shoemaker's mercy. He can give you good shoes or bad. Here we are building—living up to unusual standards in the shoes we sell. We want your shoe business, year in year out. To get it we are willing to turn half the shoes made in this country inside out. After we have done that, we choose, and what we choose we sell for as little as leather of the best grade and work to match can be sold for. We will not sell shoes below the useful, no matter what the clamor.

We are building—our shoes are honest. There are only two kinds that we sell—those made with the Goodyear welt and those that are sewed by the McKay Process. The difference is in the making—the Goodyear is made just as a bench-made shoe is, with a welt, but the stitching is done by machine—quicker and so nearly as good that the difference in wear is imperceptible.

The McKay sewed have no welt and are not so comfortable nor so long-wearing as the Goodyear. It pays to buy the Goodyear. Yet we have both—the best and the next best shoes made—and here are the prices:

Women's Goodyear welt	$3 Up
Women's McKay sewed	$2.50
Children's Goodyear, 8 to 11	$1.50
Children's Goodyear, 11 to 2	$2
Children's McKay, 8 to 11	$1 Up
Children's McKay, 11 to 2	$1 Up
Boys' Goodyear, 8 to 11	$1.50
Boys' Goodyear, 11 to 2	$2
Boys' McKay, 8 to 11	$1 Up
Boys' McKay, 11 to 2	$1 Up

The New Autumn Shirt Waists

Both Buildings

Shirt Waists, strictly speaking, are tailored and plain.

It is going to be a suit year and that means that it is also going to be a shirt waist year.

Taking just a few of the newer styles from among many, let us look at a plain little shirt waist for $2 that is going to be more successful and is in very much better taste for town than the "Middy" blouse ever dreamed of being.

It is cut very much as a man's shirt is cut, buttoned down the front with pearl buttons, without any pleats at all, so that there is no line of division except the single line which marks the actual line of one part closing over the other, $2.50.

Some of these have pockets, some are perfectly plain, and in that plainness is the severity of style which nothing can surpass for style.

Another style, of wash flannel, is made extremely plain, cream color on which are stripes of brighter color; the cuffs are plain shirt cuffs. On each side of the box pleat down the centre there are three deep tucks, and this is all there is to that—$2.75.

A third splendid style is made of wash cotton crepe, white, with two colors. For instance, it is closed with a deep pleat to the bust line and this pleat is bound with silk the color of the broad stripe in the crepe; below that the waist fastens UNDER A FLY to the waist line; the cuffs are bound with silk of the same color—that of the broad stripe—in this case it happens to be blue. Between the broad stripes there are two threads of brown about half an inch inward from the blue which is an eighth of an inch wide, $2.50.

For travelling nothing could be better. This shows merely the trend of fashion.

Others include all sorts of styles—for instance, a pleated shirt waist made of madras and embroidered by hand on each side of the pleats in front, at $2.

There are dozens of just such little touches that give individuality and distinction to the plainest shirt in the lot.

But we have splendid shirts for women at $1.

MRS. PERIN DREADED RETURN TO AMERICA

Her Married Life Unhappy, Her Sister Testifies at Inquest Into Her Suicide.

WAS GREATLY DEPRESSED

Letter She Left Gave No Reason for Her Act, but Requested That Husband Be Notified.

HARROW, England, Sept. 14.—The inquest was opened here this afternoon into the suicide last Saturday of Mrs. Lawrence Perin, a young American woman who killed herself with a revolver in the home of Mr. Ackroyd, where she was a guest. After taking the evidence of Mr. and Mrs. Ackroyd the investigation was adjourned until Sept. 22 at the request of the jury in order to permit Mrs. Perin's husband to attend.

Mrs. Ackroyd, a sister of Mrs. Perin, testified that Mrs. Perin was unhappy in her married life. She declared also that the letter left by the suicide was very brief and gave no reason for the tragedy. It asked Mrs. Ackroyd to send cablegrams to Mr. Perin, but not to break the news all at once, and it concluded with the suggestion, "You can say I was looking for burglars."

Mrs. Ackroyd parted from her sister early in the morning of Sept. 11, a few hours before the body was found. She declared that there was nothing in her conversation with her sister that morning suggestive of the tragedy. She did know, however, that her sister was unhappy in her married life, and dreaded going back to America, whither Mr. Perin had preceded her.

Mrs. Perin had never threatened to take her life, but at times she was terribly depressed, and she was in such a condition when Mrs. Ackroyd bade her good night. She told the witness that she dreaded leaving her, and Mrs. Ackroyd thought the immediate cause of her sister's depression was because she was to leave Harrow that day. She had no idea that Mrs. Perin thought of suicide.

Mr. Ackroyd testified that he knew of no trouble in Mrs. Perin's life that would lead her to commit suicide.

The body of Mrs. Perin was buried this afternoon.

WATERWAYS BOARD ON RHINE.

American Commissioners Will Next Visit Holland and Belgium.

COLOGNE, Sept. 14.—The American flag flying from a Prussian Government steamer on the Rhine has created considerable inquiry along the river and brought out the explanation that the Government was thus honoring the members of the American Waterways Commission, who are studying the river improvements with the aid of a body of German engineers assigned to facilitate their work.

The Commissioners spent all of last week on the Rhine, taking up each section of the river in detail. They were received by the Acting Mayor of Düsseldorf at the wharf, where a number of American flags were displayed, and welcomed to the city in an address, to which Senator T. E. Burton of Ohio replied.

To-day the commission is investigating traffic conditions around Duisburg, Dortmund, and the Ems Canal.

The Commissioners will proceed to-night for Holland and then go to Belgium. They are due to arrive in Paris on Sept. 21.

HARDIE EGYPT'S SPOKESMAN.

Will Voice in Parliament Her Protest Against Occupation by Britain.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—The National Egyptian Congress, which is now in session here, renewed its protest to-day against the further "wicked occupation of the country" by Great Britain.

The congress selected Sept. 14, the twenty-seventh anniversary of the entry of the British troops into Cairo, to voice its protest.

James Keir Hardie promised to defend the Egyptian cause in the British Parliament.

TIGRESS AT LARGE IN CITY.

Kills Dog and Wounds a Man—Captured After a Chase.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 14.—A big royal Bengal tigress escaped from her cage today on board a vessel that was to convey her to Oran, Algeria.

A horse on the same vessel became frightened while passing the tigress's cage and rearing, struck the bars of the cage with his forefeet. The blows loosened the bars and the tigress squeezed through to liberty.

She killed a dog with a single stroke of her paw and wounded a deckhand. Then she jumped down to the wharf and made her way into the city.

Policemen and soldiers armed with guns and revolvers pursued the tigress and finally succeeded in capturing her.

OIL WAR ON IN GERMANY.

Standard and the Austro-Hungarian Company Are Cutting Prices.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Two of the German branches of the Standard Oil Company are engaged in a price war with the German wing of the Austro-Hungarian Petroleum Company.

The retail price where there is competition has dropped from the equivalent of 4¼ cents a litre to 3⅝ cents. Prices are unchanged where there is no Austrian competition. The Austrian company has thus far met all cuts.

The newspapers, commenting on the situation, point out that there is sure to be a rise in prices when competition is at an end.

COSSACK RUNS AMUCK.

One of Czar's Bodyguard Wounds Five, Two Probably Mortally.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 14.—A drunken Cossack of Emperor Nicholas's bodyguard, enraged by the teasing of a number of children, ran amuck through the streets of St. Petersburg to-day with a drawn sabre.

Before he was cornered and overpowered by soldiers he had dangerously wounded five persons, two of whom will probably die. He chased a three-year-old boy into the courtyard of a jail, and struck him down with his sabre. He wounded two men who tried to protect the child. He then invaded the laundry of the jail and inflicted a score of frightful wounds upon a laundress.

His fifth victim was a soldier whom he struck down before he was finally disarmed and secured.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—William Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph, sailed for New York to-day on the Caronia.

Hitch in Chinese Railway Loan.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—It was explained at the Foreign Office to-day that the delay in signing the contracts for the Hankow-Sze-chuen Railroad loan of $30,000,000 was due to the negotiations on the question of engineers for the line.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—H. D. Nugent, the British Vice Consul at Galveston, Texas, has been gazetted Consul General at Chicago in succession to Al. Finn. Mr. Finn has been appointed Consul General to Chile. C. A. S. Perceval, the Vice Consul at Pensacola, will succeed Mr. Nugent at Galveston.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 14.—Premier Stolypin has again sent a circular to the Governors General of the districts under martial law, instructing them to restrict the application of the death penalty as much as possible.

JAPAN TO REDUCE TAXES.

Saving of $2,500,000 to be Made in Administrative Departments.

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—In a speech to be delivered before the Bankers' Club to-morrow night, Premier Jutaro Katsura will outline the financial policy of the Government for the coming year in anticipation of the annual budget, which will be adopted soon by the Diet. It is generally understood there will be no increases in the expenditures for the maintenance of the army and navy.

In the adjustment of last year's budget the estimate of actual expenditures over receipts shows that the prediction that the income would be underestimated by 20,000,000 yen ($10,000,000) was realized.

According to the belief prevailing here it is proposed for the coming year to secure greater uniformity of taxation. No taxes will be abolished, but the income tax and those on the textile business will be reduced. The salaries for both the military and civil arms of the Government will be raised. The pay of members of the Diet will be increased to 2,500 yen, ($1,250.)

An annual saving of 5,000,000 yen ($2,500,000) will be effected by a readjustment of the administrative departments, and any surplus that may accrue will be devoted to the redemption of bonds.

TAKAHIRA'S RETURN UNLIKELY

Japanese Ambassador's Health Suffered Under Strain of Recent Agitation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Despite the announcement made by Baron Takahira before leaving the United States for Japan a month ago that he expected to return to this country as Ambassador, the belief is growing that the Japanese Government will send another representative to Washington.

During his second term in a diplomatic capacity in Washington, Baron Takahira's health was severely taxed by the great strain under which he labored in disposing of the important questions between the Japanese and American Governments. It is because of his ill health more than anything else that the belief has become quite general that the Baron will not return.

An important post will probably be found for him in the home office in Tokio where by virtue of his experience in Europe and America Baron Takahira's services will be particularly valuable in the important work of revising treaties of commerce and navigation.

BERNSTORFF EXPLAINS TARIFF

Tells German Officials of Situation Created by New American Law.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States, appeared at the Foreign Office to-day and explained the general situation created by the new American tariff as it relates to Germany to a gathering of representatives of all the Governmental departments interested in the subject.

Those present included delegates from the Foreign Office, the Imperial Ministry of the Interior, and the Prussian Ministers of Commerce and the Interior.

This was the first of a series of conferences which are expected to result in definite suggestions on the part of the German Government to the United States for a fresh tariff agreement. The suggestions to be made will be in form by Oct. 20, when Count von Bernstorff sails for New York.

PAPERS THREATEN TO STRIKE.

Madrid Liberal Organs to Appeal to King Against Censorship.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—The Liberal newspapers of Madrid have published a protest against the continuance of the Government censorship, and they threaten to strike unless this restriction is removed.

The Minister of the Interior defends the censorship on the ground of public welfare. The editors have decided to appeal to King Alfonso.

Señor Rios, a Republican Deputy from Barcelona, said to-day that 120 schools in Barcelona were closed and would not be reopened without the approval of the Mayor and the parish priests. He declared also that there were more than 3,000 persons in custody at Barcelona charged with participation in the recent rioting in that city.

ARMY AIRSHIP NOT CAPTURED.

Gross II. Returns with Valuable Information in German War Game.

MERGENTHEIM, Würtemberg, Sept. 14.—The military dirigible balloon Gross II., which is taking part in the manoeuvres of the imperial army, was not captured yesterday as rumored.

The airship, in making its escape from the machine guns of the enemy, got caught in a tree in the heavy mist, and was slightly damaged. Repairs were effected during the night, and this morning the Gross II. ascended, returning to its shed.

During the return trip valuable observations of the Blue Army's headquarters were made, which were transmitted to the commander of the Reds by wireless telegraph.

ROCKHILL IN ST. PETERSBURG.

New American Ambassador Arrives with His Wife and Daughter.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 14.—W. W. Rockhill, the newly appointed American Ambassador to Russia, arrived here today from Berlin. He was met at the railroad station by the members of the Embassy and escorted by them to the Hotel de France, where he will occupy apartments until the new embassy building is ready for occupancy.

Mr. Rockhill is accompanied by his wife and daughter.

KING MANUEL'S TRIP PLANNED.

Starts Nov. 20 for England, Where Betrothal Will Be Announced.

LISBON, Sept. 14.—King Manuel will leave Portugal for England, where he is to visit King Edward on Nov. 20. He will stop four days in Madrid to return the visit of King Alfonso.

It is generally understood here that King Manuel's betrothal to the daughter of the Duke of Fife will be announced from Windsor Castle, and that King Edward will confer the Order of the Garter on King Manuel in honor of the engagement.

Mulege has a population of 1,200. It is situated on an estuary, with hills on each side.

The pictures include canvases by Leys, Stevens, Courtens, Millet, Turner, Varnet, and Ingres.

C. F. Brown to Prosecute Sugar Trust.

United States District Attorney Henry S. Wise announced yesterday the appointment of Charles F. Brown of Newburg to take charge of the prosecution of the cases started by the Government against the American Sugar Refining Company, eight of its Directors, and Gustav E. Kissel, under the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust act. The defendants were indicted for conspiracy in restraint of trade and have all pleaded not guilty.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS SWEEP FOR AMERICA

British Contestants Outclassed Again by Larned and Clothier.

COULD NOT WIN A MATCH

Larned Steady and Accurate Against Parke, While Clothier Excelled Dixon in Every Style of Play.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—America to-day made a clean sweep of the Davis Cup lawn tennis series at the Germantown Cricket Club, W. A. Larned defeating J. C. Parke by 6—3, 6—2, 6—3, and W. J. Clothier beating C. P. Dixon by 6—3, 6—1, 6—4. These events, together with those of the double matches yesterday and the two other singles last Saturday, give America five wins to none for England. The double was the only hotly contested match, the Englishmen failing to win a set in the singles. A curious feature of the play to-day was the fact that the point, game and set summary of both matches was identical.

In the Parke-Larned match superior steadiness and acuracy of the American champion were noteworthy, in view of the fact that such qualities have not always been his specialties. Parke's service was ineffective, and his backhand was by no means so strong as his forehand.

The Clothier-Dixon match was another one-man affair, the American outplaying the Englishman at every point. Clothier contented himself with remaining in the back court winning his points, seldom coming up to the net, though when he did his smashing was deadly.

The series, while well attended and managed, has been disappointing because of the weak resistance made by the visitors in the singles. Messrs. Dixon and Parke will sail for England to-morrow on the Mauretania, but Crawley will remain in Philadelphia for some time and take part in the Philadelphia championship tournament next week at the Belmont Cricket Club. PENNSY'S CLEAN SWEEP.

Quaker City Collegians Win Doubles as Well as Singles Title.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—The University of Pennsylvania to-day made a clean sweep of the honors in the intercollegiate lawn tennis championship tournament, which has been in progress at the Merion Cricket Club, winning the final doubles match from Harvard by three sets to nothing. Yesterday Wallace F. Johnson of Pennsylvania defeated Melville H. Long of the University of California, the Pacific Coast champion, in two singles final.

Johnson was partnered in two doubles with A. D. Thayer, and this combination proved easily the best in the tournament, defeating two Harvard pairs and one Yale pair without the loss of a set.

In to-day's match they were opposed by G. P. Gardner and E. Sweetser, who made a strong fight in the final set, but failed to maintain the pace.

Pennsylvania has now six points and Harvard four on the championship cup, seven points being necessary for permanent possession. The summary:

Intercollegiate Doubles, Final Round.—W. F. Johnson and A. D. Thayer, Pennsylvania, beat G. P. Gardner and E. Sweetser, Harvard, 7—5, 6—2, 6—3.

BRIDGE JUMPER NOT "MUDD."

Admits His Name Is McCarthy and Says He Didn't Mean Suicide.

It developed in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, that the name of the man who jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge last Wednesday was not "Mudd." He gave that name after being fished out of the river and taken to the Brooklyn Hospital. When arraigned in court yesterday the bridge jumper said he was really Eugene L. McCarthy of 38 Crescent Avenue, Dorchester, Mass.

"The idea that I attempted suicide is punk," said Mr. McCarthy. "I was on my way from Boston to Philadelphia and just dropped off to look this town over. Crossing the bridge on a trolley car, I thought it would be a novel experience and a little fun to jump off the big span. So I got off and took the leap. I don't recall any special incident on the way down. My baggage has gone on to Philadelphia, and, if it's all the same to you, Judge, I'd like to join it there."

"All right," said Magistrate Tighe, "I'll discharge you if you go to Manhattan by way of the tunnel. You might be tempted to have another bit of fun if you crossed on the bridge."

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Eugene L. McCarthy, who was discharged from a police court in New York to-day, after promising not to jump again from the Brooklyn Bridge, a feat which he accomplished last week, is an Inspector at the local Custom House, and was in New York on a vacation. His friends in Dorchester, where he lives, said to-day that they knew of no reason why he should attempt suicide and expressed confidence in his story that he was seized with a desire to jump from the bridge.

NECKLACE LOST IN THE POOL

But It's All Recovered Save One More or Less Valuable Pearl.

Women bathers who went to the Fleischmann Baths, Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street, yesterday, brought out with them a detailed story of an impromptu diving for pearls in the swimming pool.

According to the story she told, a Mrs. Geurin, one of a party of four from Canada, instead of leaving her pearl necklace in the lock-up provided for valuables, left it on, and after a dive in the pool the necklace vanished. Her cries of alarm brought to her assistance Mme. Lucille, one of the attendants, an accomplished diver. With ten or fifteen women watching her anxiously, she dived to the bottom of the pool and, swimming around, gathered ten of the lost pearls. After that everybody who could dive made a try for the bottom for more of the strayed jewels.

After an hour's competition all the lost pearls were found and restored to Mrs. Geurin, except one, it was said—a report confirmed by the management. Hence, there will be more excitement in connection with these undoubted jewels.

The bath management did not know Mrs. Geurin's initials, nor where she lived, nor just how valuable were the pearls.

VANDERBILT CUP PLANS.

Four Classes of Autos Will Compete Simultaneously in Big Race.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., President of the Motor Cups Holding Association, formally announced last night through the Manufacturers' Contest Association that the Vanderbilt Cup race will be held on Saturday, Oct. 30, over a course consisting in part of the Long Island Motor Parkway and existing roads in the highway system of Nassau County. Application for a sanction for the race has been forwarded to the office of the A. A. A. Contest Board at Buffalo, N. Y.

The race this year will be similar to the Motor Parkway sweepstakes held on Long Island on Oct. 10, 1908. Four classes of cars will compete simultaneously, according to classification. The smaller cars will be stopped at different shorter distances, leaving the larger ones competing for the Vanderbilt trophy to hold the stage for the final rounds of the course.

The Vanderbilt Cup will be open to stock chassis in Class 1, (451 to 600 cubic inches piston displacement,) and Class 2, (301 to 450 cubic inches piston displacement,) both running in one class for a distance of approximately 275 miles. The entry fee for Classes 1 and 2 will be $500 for each car.

The course as tentatively selected is triangular in shape, with each side practically straight. The turns can be easily negotiated.

Athletics to Barnstorm in West.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 14.—Frank Bancroft, business manager of the Cincinnati National League team, received a letter to-day from President O'Neill of the Western League saying he was arranging a schedule of post-season games between the Philadelphia American League team and an all-star aggregation to play in the Far West and on the Pacific Coast. If the Philadelphia American League team should win the championship this post-season schedule will be delayed until the world series is finished. Otherwise the post-season series will start immediately after the close of the season.

489 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Special Hudson-Fulton Number of The New York Times.

Next Sunday, Sept. 19.

This will include a handsomely-illustrated supplement, containing photographic reproductions of the features of the celebration, scenes connected with it, and the men who have made it.

Among the most interesting of these will be two pages of pictures, one showing the progress of New York, as illustrated in the evolution of street corners, from Fulton's day to the present. Such famous corners as that of the Post Office Building on Park Row, for instance, will be shown, and the astonishing contrast will give many a New Yorker a more vivid idea than he ever had before of the vast difference between the New York he knows and that which Fulton knew.

An equally significant page is that which will be made up of pictures of New York's sky line and water front from Hudson's time until to-day. Step by step, for two hundred years, the changing of New York is shown, from the site of little New Amsterdam to the skyscraper era of 1909.

Historic scenes in New York from Hudson's day to Fulton's will fill another page, including surveys of what then might have been described, in truth, as "little old New York."

Another page will be taken up with pictures of floats which are to appear in the great parade. Portraits of the leading men engaged in engineering the celebration will be presented elsewhere. There will be pictures of the permanent memorials which will remain; pictures of the Hudson Monument, the Hudson Memorial Bridge, the Fort Tryon tablet, the Stony Point gateway, and others. There will be two pages of pictures, one devoted to the Half Moon and the other to the Clermont. In these many things of interest, such as the steamboats of the times immediately succeeding the Clermont's famous cruise and scenes connected with the building of Hudson's ship, will be shown.

In the Magazine Section there will be articles dealing with the celebration from every point of view.

HOSTILE TONGS PREPARE FOR WAR

Police Guard in Chinatown Increased in the Belief That an Outbreak Is Imminent.

EVERY GATHERING WATCHED

Suspects Halted in the Streets by the Score and Searched for Weapons.

Under the outward calm of everyday life in Chinatown just now there is suppressed excitement, and those Chinamen who are not afraid to talk to an outsider admit that trouble is likely to start at any time. They say that the first gun in a bitter tong war has already been fired and that the "gun men" of two strong factions in the Chinese colony centring around Mott and Pell and Doyers Streets are only waiting to catch the police off guard to strike at each other in the dark

Several members of the Four Brothers Tong and the Hip Sing Tong have been marked for death, it is believed, and during the last few days many of the rival tong men have been laying in arms and ammunition.

The police know of this, and a strong guard is being maintained night and day. Forty-five uniformed men are stationed at points in the heart of Chinatown, where trouble is expected, and a dozen or more detectives in plain clothes are constantly on duty there. Inspector Daley and his right-hand man, Detective Horrigan, are keeping in close touch with the situation and have counseled each policeman to be constantly on the watch.

The whole history of the tong war has been explained to each man on duty there, and the leaders of the tongs as well as several Chinamen who are supposed by the police to be gun men have been pointed out to the members of the uniformed force. Whenever a group of Chinamen are seen together the police have instructions to disperse them.

The fronts and rears of many of Chinatown's old ramshackle buildings are being closely watched, and now and then a raid is made. Two raids occurred just before daylight yesterday morning, and nineteen Chinamen, all of whom are supposed to be gamblers, were arrested. They were turned loose later, however, because of lack of evidence.

All this, however, has tended to increase the suppressed excitement in Chinatown. It has tended also to make the members of the rival tongs even more careful than usual and to bide their time before striking another blow. The raids of yesterday morning were led by Sergt. Cooper of Inspector Daley's staff and Detective Quinn of the Elizabeth Street Station. They were in the rear of 11 Mott Street about 4:30 when they chanced to look down through a grating and saw a large number of Chinamen sitting around tables in the basement. Several games of fan tan were in progress and the players were excited.

In one corner of the room was a group of Celestials, with their heads close together, evidently discussing something of importance. The two policemen pried open the grating, jumped down, and made for a half open door. But the Chinaman on guard saw them coming. He threw his weight against the door, a heavy panel of oak similar to the door of a refrigerating plant.

Sergt. Cooper got his foot in the door jamb and held it there, while he and Quinn whistled for assistance. There was a dumb waiter at one side of the basement room, and up this a large number of the Chinamen escaped before ponce reinforcements arrived and the door was forced open. Thirteen who had been unable to escape by the dumb waiter were arrested.

Just prior to this raid there had been another on the third floor of 10 Chatham Square. Detectives gained entrance by means of the fire escape, and six Chinamen were arrested. No revolvers were found on any of the nineteen men, however, and all were discharged.

A disclosure which has led the police to believe that the tongs are arming themselves in anticipation of trouble came to light on Monday, when detectives went to the On Leong Tong headquarters, at 14 Mott Street. There they found Lee Mon Ying, a member of the On Leong Tong. In his blouse he had a heavy revolver, which, the police learned, he had just purchased from a dealer in arms on Broadway, near Duane Street. Ying had also laid in a store of smokeless cartridges. The detectives arrested him, and he is being held for an examination. Ying told them that he bought the revolver because he anticipated trouble, and because he had learned that most of the other Chinamen were arming themselves.

The police have been instructed to search every Oriental who looks as though he may be carrying a revolver. Yesterday a hundred or more were halted on the streets and the police searched them. Few revolvers were found, however.

Inspector Daley and his men have learned from experience that the gun men of the tongs do not go about armed until the time is ripe for a murder. It is too risky. There are comparatively few gun men in each of the tongs the police say. When the assassination of a rival tong man has been agreed upon and the time and place seem right the gun man is surrounded by members of his own tong; the group of Chinamen moves up close to the victim, a revolver is slipped into the hands of the gun man, a shot is fired, and the revolver is handed back by the gun man and passed along the line until it finds some place of concealment.

This was the case on Sunday night the police say when Gum Kee of the Four Brothers Tong was shot in front of the On Leong Tong headquarters in Mott Street. The Chinaman, Chu Wah, who is now a prisoner accused with having shot Gum Kee, is a member of the On Leong Tong, as is also Wah Ling, who, the police say, pointed out Gum Kee to the man who shot him.

The police say that the next move in the war of the tongs is looked for from the Four Brothers, and that while the Four Brothers men may make a concerted move on the leaders of the On Leong Tong it is more likely they will resort to a guerrilla warfare and take pot shots at their enemies.

It is possible, the police say, that leaders of the Four Brothers and the On Leong Tong may get together and patch up an agreement similar to that entered into between the On Leong Tong and the Hip Sing Tong in 1906, each agreeing to keep within a certain territory.

Tom Lee, commonly called the Mayor of Chinatown, and the real leader of the On Leong Tong faction, has increased his personal body guard to six men, and is never seen on the streets without them. In the days of peace in Chinatown Tom Lee had only one body guard. The men who accompany Tom Lee about the streets do not carry revolvers. They are there to receive any bullet which may be intended for him.

$10,000 FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

Benjamin Ellis Martin, Author, Left That Sum in His Will.

The will of Benjamin Ellis Martin, author and traveler, who died at the Chelsea apartments, 222 West Twenty-third Street, on Aug. 15, was filed for probate yesterday with the Surrogate. The accompanying petition gives the value of the estate as "more than $20,000" in personal property.

All of his estate is left in trust to his wife, Charlotte M. Martin, with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, and the document directs that his wife receive an annuity of $4,000. He also directs the trustees, at the written request of his wife, to pay her $10,000 from the principal of the estate, which amount is to go to the Darrach Home for Crippled Children. Mrs. Martin and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company are made executors and trustees.

RENEWS ATTACK ON BELLEVUE

Bureau of Municipal Research Thinks the Trustees Are Delinquent.

The Bureau of Municipal Research issued another statement yesterday on the budget estimates of the various city departments, in which the recent trouble in the administration of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals was emphasized strongly.

"In estimating $184,000,000 for next year, departments not only ask for an increase over this year's absolute necessities, but an increase over this year's waste," says the bureau. "The new thing requested is very apt to be one which the public wants. To escape the dilemma of overtaxing itself to secure acknowledged good things, the public must locate and eradicate waste.

"Bellevue's Trustees, for example, may reasonably be expected to subtract from next year's estimate one item of $1,700 for which the city obtained this year no return from May 17 except discredit. Thanks to the inability of the Bellevue Trustees to secure a quorum since July 27 and their failure to act two months before upon information of wrongdoing, Assistant Supt. Rickard has had a Summer of full pay and no work. Seven days more he will receive each day as much as twenty office cleaners will earn—$15—for waiting until his Trustees can get together for a meeting.

"The board found time July 27 to dismiss a subordinate of Mr. Rickard's for failing to tell the board about Mr. Rickard's violations of law. Those violations of law were learned May 17. The criminal falsifying of records admitted by Mr. Rickard came to light May 27.

"These are some of the things that the taxpayers' money might have done for taxpayers and their children had the Trustees tried to prevent waste."

CHEAPER BATHING AT CONEY.

Aldermen Pass a Resolution Providing for a City Pavilion There.

Beach bathing and Summer resort matters were the principal topics presented for consideration at the meeting of the Aldermen yesterday, which was their first session since the Summer adjournment.

Alderman Colgan of Brooklyn introduced two resolutions, which were adopted, having to do with these subjects. One was in the nature of a request to the Board of Estimate to provide for the establishment by the city of a bathing pavilion at the foot of the Concourse, Coney Island, "where bathing suits shall be provided to the public at a nominal figure."

The reason for this resolution was given in the document as "the high price for bathing facilities charged at the resort during the season." The Alderman's other resolution, which was also passed, requested the Board of Estimate to take steps for the converting of ground at the foot of Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, on the East River, into a public park.

Alderman Emener of Queens presented a resolution, which was referred to the Law Committee, calling for the regulation of the wearing of bathing suits at Far Rockaway. The proposed ordinance provides for the imposing of a fine of $5 for the wearing of bathing suits "without proper covering" in the streets of the resort. It is clearly explained in the ordinance that there is no intention of shutting off the residents from access to the beach in their bathing costumes, but that they must wear coats or bathrobes over their suits in going to and fro.

WEST SIDE SUBWAY WITH QUEENS BRANCH

Service Board Plans Route from Battery to 59th St., Thence To and Across Bridge.

WILL TAP NEW PENN. DEPOT

Line in Queens to be Elevated and Extend to Flushing and Whitestone—Upper West Side Line, Too.

The Public Service Commission is considering with its engineers a new subway route, which, if eventually approved and built upon, will be the beginning of a north and south west side route under Eighth Avenue and streets below it, connecting with the Pennsylvania station at Thirty-first Street and affording a connection through a crosstown route under Fifty-ninth Street with the Queensboro Bridge and a new elevated line which the commission proposes to authorize for Queens Borough. As the matter stands now, the attention of the commission and its engineers is fastened to that part of the route below Fifty-ninth Street, having in mind also the possibilities of extension northward under Central Park West.

The plans of the commission have gone far enough to make it certain that the section from Fifty-ninth Street down, including the Queensboro Bridge connection, will be submitted to the Board of Estimate at an early date. Beginning at the Battery it is intended that the line shall run under either Washington or Greenwich Street to Hudson Street, under Hudson Street to Eighth Avenue, and thence to Fifty-ninth Street. This part of the route is to be a four-track road, in view of the eventual extension to Harlem and beyond. A connection will be afforded with the westerly end of the Pennsylvania station, which will in no way interfere with a connection on Seventh Avenue at the easterly end should the Seventh Avenue route as planned by the Interborough, the crosstown route suggested by a committee of Twenty-third Street merchants, or any other connecting line be eventually constructed.

Under Fifty-ninth Street the new subway will have two tracks, as planned by the commission, and after crossing the Queensboro Bridge on the elevated tracks, it will run out on an elevated structure in Jackson Avenue, which extends to the Astoria end of the bridge. Beyond the bridge there is a choice of routes which the elevated structure in contemplation might take. One would lead it into Broadway-Flushing, another into Whitestone. That is a phase of the situation which the Public Service Commission has not considered in detail as yet.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the commission, in discussing the new route yesterday afternoon, said:

"Our primary intention is to furnish rapid transit for Queens Borough. The commission has had in mind, of course, the provision of more facilities for the upper west side in Manhattan, and believes that a route up Eighth Avenue will have to be built in the near future. Thus far its plans have not taken such a route north of Fifty-ninth Street, but with the route built as now suggested it would be possible to have the extension made and the traffic accommodated on the four-track subway from Fifty-ninth Street south."

When a question was raised as to the possibility of transferring from the proposed new route to the existing Interborough Subway at Fifty-ninth Street, Mr. Willcox said:

"The commission is not laying out subway routes with reference to the plans of any particular combination of subway builders. It is laying out such routes as it believes will best serve the city. If the Interborough should be a successful bidder on the Eighth Avenue route, it would, no doubt, be possible to work out a transfer of passengers at Fifty-ninth Street. If another company should get the route, the result could not be foreseen, inasmuch as the commission's power to order joint rates between intersecting lines is tied up in the courts."

President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company was in conference with Chairman Willcox yesterday, but it was said after the session that the conversation related only to details of lengthening the station platforms in the existing Subway, and did not touch the matter of building new routes.

POSTUM. POSTUM. POSTUM. POSTUM.

Pass the Word Along

It won't cost you a penny to reach out a helping hand to a great army of honest, hard-working and deserving men and women.

Just your moral support will insure work, a living, and comforts which are now either partly or wholly denied them.

How so?

Come on, let's have a look.

You've often been importuned and many have been commanded by advertisements or otherwise to "refuse to buy anything unless it bears the union label."

Looks harmless on its face, doesn't it?

It really is a "demand" that you boycott the products made by over 80 per cent. of our American workingmen and women who decline to pay fees to, and obey the dictates of the union leaders.

It demands that you ask the merchant for articles with the "union label," thus to impress him with its importance.

It seeks to tell you what to buy and what to refuse. The demands are sometimes most insolent, with a "holier than thou" impudence.

It demands that you take away the living of this 80 per cent. of American workingmen and women.

Is that clear?

Why should a small body of workmen ask you to help starve the larger body?

There must be some reason for the "union label" scheme.

Run over in your mind and remember how they carry on their work.

During a discussion about working or striking in the coal regions, about 25,000 men preferred to work, they had wives and babies to feed. The union men said openly in their convention that if the employers didn't discharge these men they (the union men) would kill them.

So they dynamited about a dozen homes, maimed and crippled women and children and brutally assaulted scores of these independent workers.

The big boys of the union men were taught to pound the school children of the independent men. How would you like to have your little girl, shortly grown from the todding baby who used to sit on your lap and love "Daddy," pounded by some big bullies on her way home from the school where she had gone to try and please Daddy by learning to read?

The little bruised face and body would first need tender care, while you ponder the inscription writ deep in your heart, by that Master and Guide to all human compassion. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Then perhaps you would drop to your knees and pray Almighty God for strength in your right arm to strike one manly and powerful blow for baby's sake, even if you went to death for it.

Helpless children were brought home, with faces black or bleeding from the blows and kicks of these fiends, teaching independent Americans that they must stop work when told and pay fees to the leaders of "labor." Thousands of men, women and children have been treated thus.

From somewhere, Oh, Father of us all, we try to believe that You look with pitying eyes upon these brutal blows, cuts, and scars on the many human bodies made in your likeness and image.

They are beautifully and wonderfully made, each the dwelling place of a Divine Soul.

Is it Your wish that they be crushed by iron-shod heels, cut by knives, or torn asunder by bullets and dynamite?

May we venture to think that a long suffering patience is extended in the hope that the men and women of America may some day awake to a realization of the awful cruelties perpetrated by this spirit of oppression and that they will some time learn the lesson that the "sacred gift of human freedom and liberty" was given by God and must be defended even to death itself.

Our forefathers were used by the Infinite God to establish our freedom in 1776, and our fathers gave freely of their blood and treasure to establish the freedom of the black. Now again it seems we are called upon to protect our brothers and ourselves from that old-time spirit of tyranny which comes up from time to time to force people to obey tyrannous rules and bend the knee of the slave.

In Wellston, Ohio, thirty Americans sought employment in a factory. They were seeking to earn food for their families. They were bombarded by rocks and pounded with clubs in the hands of union men.

One of the injured, John Brannihan, was taken to the city hospital with a broken jaw, crushed skull, and other cuts and bruises. He was the father of two children, and was thought to be dying. Perhaps he did. I don't know, but I sometimes wonder what the children said to Mother when "Papy" didn't come home, and how they and the little woman got any food, and how they could place their wrongs before their own American fellows.

Mayhap some time some kind person will equip a home where the orphans and widows of the victims of the Labor Trust may be cared for and fed.

It would take a big home. It has been said there were 31 Americans, many of them fathers, killed in one strike, (the teamsters in Chicago,) and over 5,000 maimed, many for life. That's only one "lesson" of these bullies. There are literally thousands of cases wherein your fellow-American has been assaulted, maimed, or killed by these men. The same work is going on day by day. Suppose you make a practice of picking out each day from the papers accounts of brutality to American workingmen who prefer to work free from the impudence and tyranny of self-constituted leaders (?) than to be always subject to their beck and call, pay them fees, and be told by them when and where to work, and for whom. You will discover the same general conditions underlying all these daily attacks.

In every case the workingman prefers to be free. He has that right. He then tries to go to work. He and his family sorely need the money for food or he wouldn't run the risk of his life. Many such a man has wiped the tears away and quieted the fears of a loving wife, left with a kiss on her lips, set his manly jaw and walked into a shower of stones and bullets to win food for the loved mother and babies.

A good many have been brought home on stretchers with blood oozing from nose and ears, some cold, while some gradually recover, and carry for life the grim marks of the "union label."

They are your fellows, my friends, and yet you supinely read the accounts and say "too bad."

Have you grown so calloused that you care nothing for the sufferings of these men who need food and these helpless ones who rely on the life and strength of husband and father?

Let us hope that soon you may be moved by a just God to rise in your might and by voice and pen, by vote and right arm, you will do a man's part in protecting yourselves and your brothers from this onslaught on American citizens. This cruel warfare is carried on not always to raise wages, but to establish union control, kick out the independent men and establish the "label."

Unfortunately the "Labor movement," which started many years ago honestly enough, has fallen under control of a lot of tyrannical, vicious "men of violent tendencies."

There are too many to attempt to name. You can recall them. They include men who have planned the murders of miners, teamsters, pressmen and carpenters, shoemakers and independent workmen of all kinds. Many of them have escaped hanging by an outraged public only because juries became terror stricken and dared not convict them.

Some have been punished slightly and some, including the principal officers of this nefarious crew, are now under sentence to imprisonment, but have appealed their cases.

Right here some apologist rises to protest against "speaking thus of laboring men." Bless your dear heart, it isn't the honest and real workman who does these things, it is the excitable ones and the toughs and thugs who don't work, except with their mouths, but have secured control of too many unions. I don't even attempt to specify the criminal acts these persons have assisted or winked at in their plan for destroying free workingmen and forcing men to stay in "the union" and hence under their control. The newspapers for the past 7 years contain almost daily accounts of the criminal, lawless and tyrannical acts against American citizens and haven't told half the tale. Right here it becomes necessary to say for the ten thousandth time that there are scores of honest, lawabiding union men who deplore and are in no way responsible for the long, infamous record of the "Labor Trust" under its present management, but they don't seem to stop it.

The men who manage, who pull the strings and guide the policy have made the record and it stands, as made by them.

Examine, if you please, the record of a string of members of the American Federation of Labor and you will view a list of crimes against Americans, stupendous beyond belief. They defy the laws, sneer at the courts, incite mobs and are avowed enemies of the peaceable citizens of all classes.

This band wields an iron bar over their subjects and drives them to idleness whenever they want to call a strike or exact extra pocket money for themselves.

Men don't want to be thrown out of work and lose their livelihood, but what can they do when the slugging and murdering committee stands always ready to "do them" if they try to work?

The poor women and helpless children suffer and no one dares present their case to the public. They must suffer in silence, for they have no way to right their wrongs, while the notoriety-seeking leaders carry out their work.

These men cannot thus force oppression on the weak and innocent or use them to bring newspaper notice to themselves and money to their pockets unless they can "hold them in line."

Therefore, with the craft of the fox and venom of the serpent they devise the "union label" and tell the public to buy only articles carrying that label.

Smooth scheme, isn't it?

They extract a fee from every union man, and in order to get these monthly fees, they must hold the workers in "the union" and force manufacturers to kick out all independent men.

Can any one devise a more complete and tyrannical trust?

If allowed full sway, no independent man could keep working in a free factory, for the goods wouldn't sell, no matter how perfectly they be made. Then, when the factory has been forced to close and the employes get hungry enough from lack of wages the workers must supplicate the union leaders to be allowed to start they must force the not becoming members before) and pay their monthly fees to the purse-fat managers of the Labor Trust. Thereupon (under orders) before the factory be allowed to start they must force the owners of the business to put on the "union label" or strike, picket the works, and turn themselves into sluggers and criminals towards the independent workers who might still refuse to bend the knee and bow the head.

In the meantime babies and mothers go hungry and shoeless, but who cares. The scheming leaders are trained to talk of the "uplifting of labor," and shed tears when they speak of the "brotherhood of man," meaning the brotherhood of the "Skinny Maddens," "Sheas," "Gompers," et al., always excluding the medium or high-grade independent workers.

Perhaps you have noticed lately that the makers of the finest hats, shoes, and other articles have stopped putting on the union label. Naturally the Labor Trust managers have ordered their dupes to strike, lie idle, scrap, fight, slug, and destroy property to force the makers to again put on "the label." But for some reason the buying public has been aroused to the insults and oppression behind it, and in thousands of cases have refused to buy any article carrying, what some one named the "tag of servitude and oppression."

The bound and gagged union slave is fined from $5.00 to $25.00 if he buys any article not bearing the "union label." Nevertheless, he, time and again, risks the penalty and buys "free" goods simply in order to help the fellow-workingman who is brave enough to work where he pleases without asking permission on bended knees from the bulldozing leaders who seek by every known method of oppression and hate to govern him.

If these poor wageworkers will thus brave fine and slugging to help out other men who seek to live a free life under our laws and Constitution, cannot you, reader, help a little?

Will you reach out a hand to help an independent workman earn food for his wife and babies? Or will you from apathy and carelessness allow him to be thrown out of work and the helpless suffer until they prostrate themselves before this stupendous and tyrannical aggregation of leeches upon honest American labor?

The successor of Henry Ward Beecher in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, says:

"Union labor hatred for labor burns like a flame, eats like nitric acid, is malignant beyond all description. But the other day a woman representing a certain union visited many families in Plymouth Church asking them to boycott a certain institution. * * * Alas, this union woman's hatred for non-union women burned in her like the fires of hell."

She was pitilessly, relentlessly, and tirelessly pursuing the non-union women and men to destroy the market for goods, to ruin their factory, and to starve them out.

In the French Revolution only 2% of the French people believed in violence. The 98 per cent. disclaimed violence, and yet the 98 per cent. allowed the 2 per cent. to fill the streets of Paris with festering corpses, to clog the Seine with dead bodies, to shut up every factory in Paris, until the laboring classes starved by the score.

The small per cent. element in the Labor Trust which hates and seeks to and destroy the large per cent. of independent Americans sends out letters declaring "free" industries unfair and tries to boycott their products. If they could bind everyone it would bring suffering upon hundreds of thousands, immeasurable ruin upon the country, and land it absolutely under control of the men now attempting to dictate the daily acts of our people and extract from each a monthly fee.

There are babies, children, women and honest, hard-working and skillful fathers who rely upon the protection of their fellows, when they seek to sell their labor where they choose, when they choose, and for a sum they believe it to be worth.

Every citizen having the rights, privileges and protection of a citizen has also the responsibility of a citizen.

The Labor Trust leaders may suavely "request" (or order those they can) to buy only "union label" articles, and you can, of course, obey if you are under orders.

Depend upon it, the creatures of the Labor Trust will, upon reading this, visit stores and threaten dire results unless all the things bear "the label."

They go so far as to have their women pretend to buy things, order yards of silk or cloth torn off and various articles wrapped up and then discover "no label," and refuse them. That's been done hundreds of times and is but one of the petty acts of hatred and tyranny.

Let no one who reads this article understand that he or she is asked to boycott any product whether it bears a "union label" or not. One has a constitutional right to examine the article and see whether its makes are Labor Trust contributors' and slaves or are free and independent Americans.

I have tried to tell you something about those who are oppressed, villified, hated, and when opportunity offers are attacked because they prefer to retain their own independent American manhood. These men are in the vast majority and include the most skillful artisans in the known world. They have wives and babes dependent on them.

These men are frequently oppressed and have no way to make their wrongs known. They are worthy of defense. That's the reason for the expenditure of a few thousands of dollars to send this message to the American people. Remember, I didn't say my "excuse" for sending it. The cause needs no "excuse."

N. B.

Some "parlor socialist" who knows nothing of the Russian Czarism of the great Labor Trust will ask right here: "Don't you believe in the right of certain workmen to 'organize'?" Oh, yes, brother, when real workmen manage wisely and peacefully, but I would challenge the right of even a church organization when its affairs had been seized by a motley crew of heartless, vicious men who stopped industries, incited mobs to attack citizens and destroy property in order to establish their control of communities and affairs, and subject every one to their orders and exact the fees. When you see work of this kind being done call on or write the prosecuting officers of your district and demand procedure under the Sherman anti-trust law, and prosecution for conspiracy and restraint of trade. We have the law, but the politicians and many of our officers, even while drawing pay from the people, are afraid to enforce it in protection of our citizens, and now the big Labor Trust is moving heaven and earth to repeal the law so their nefarious work may be more safely carried on.

But You. Why don't you strike out and demand defense for your fellows?

Put your prosecuting officers to the test and insist that they do their sworn duty, and protest to your Congressmen and legislators against the repeal of the Sherman Anti-Trust law. Its repeal is being pushed by the Labor Trust and some big capital trusts in order to give each more power to oppress. Do your duty and protest. In this great American Republic every one must be jealous of the right of individual liberty and always and ever resent the attempts made to gain power for personal aggrandizement.

I didn't intend to speak of my own affairs, but so long as the question is almost sure to be asked, I don't mind telling you.

The Postum workers are about a thousand strong, men and women, and don't belong to labor unions. The Labor Trust has, time without numbers, sent "organizers" with money to give "smokers," etc., and had their "orators" declaim the "brotherhood of man" business, and cry salty tears describing the fearful conditions of the "slaves of capital," and all that. But the "confidence game" never worked, for the decent and high-grade Postum workers receive 10 per cent. over the regular wage scale. They are the highest paid, richest, and best grade of working people in the State of Michigan, and I believe in the United States. They mostly own their own homes, and good ones. Their wages come 52 weeks in a year and are never stopped on the order of a some paid agent of the Labor Trust. They have savings accounts in the banks, houses of their own, and steady work at high wages.

They like their daily occupation in the works (come and ask them) and are not slaves, and yet the Labor Trust leaders have done their best to ruin the sale of their products and force them into idleness and poverty.

It would cost the workingmen of Battle Creek (our people and about 3,000 others) from $1,000.00 to $2,000.00 a month in fees to send out to the leaders of the Labor Trust, if they would allow themselves to become "organized" and join the Trust.

Not for them, they keep the money, school the children, and live "free." That's some comfort for white people.

Once in a while one of the little books "The Road to Wellville" we put in the pkgs. of Postum, Grape-Nuts, and Post Toasties, is sent back to us with a sticker pasted across it saying "Returned because it don't bear the union label."

Then we join hands and sing a hymn of praise for the discovering by some one that our souls are not seared with the guilt of being conspirators to help bind the chains of slavery upon fellow-Americans by placing added power in the hands of the largest, most oppressive and harmful trust the world has ever seen.

When you seek to buy something look for the "union label" and speak your sentiments. That's an opportunity to reach out a helping hand to the countless men and women in all kinds of industry who brave bricks, stones, and bullets, to maintain their American manhood and freedom by making the finest goods in America, and which do not bear the seal of industrial slavery, the "Union Label."

A Novel of Yankee Humor, Pathos, and Love

JOSEPH C. LINCOLN

Quaint illustrations in pen and ink by Wallace Morgan.

A woman reader who saw the announcement of this new book by Mr. Lincoln exclaimed: "Oh, good. I can just smell the salt water in his books—I always expect to see sand and salt drop out from between the pages."

That is only the individual expression of the general and practically unanimous opinion of all who once come under Joe Lincoln's fascinating spell. Public and reviewers join hands in unstinted praise and delight, anticipating hours of the most solid enjoyment in reading one of his truly American and endearingly homely human comedies.

THE FUSION CANDIDATE.

No man who is not already well known in this community, no man who will have to be introduced to the voters, will meet the needs of the Fusion Mayoralty campaign this Fall. Nor will respectable mediocrity at all fill the bill. The candidate must be known, and very favorably known, to the whole body of the voters to the end that they may have confidence in him from the day of his nomination. He must be a man of proved capacity, because the great tasks that will devolve upon the next Mayor will call for a very high order of ability. It would be sheer futility to put forward a candidate with a reputation yet to make.

For that reason it is most gratifying to know that such names as those of ROBERT W. DE FOREST, HENRY L. STIMSON, and WILLIAM M. IVINS are under consideration in Republican circles and among the membership of the Committee of One Hundred. Mr. DE FOREST has already won distinction by his services to the city. His work as Tenement House Commissioner has brought him into prominence, and he has been for many years active in promoting works demanded by the public welfare. Against any candidate Tammany is likely to nominate, a candidate like Mr. DE FOREST would have the very great advantage of being at once accepted by all sensible men, all men having the city's interests at heart, and by all those who have any considerable stake in the result of the election, as incontestably the more fit and worthy to be elected.

United States District Attorney STIMSON has come into prominence through his work as public prosecutor in the Federal courts, and has won a high reputation. Some of his notable successes, like that of the Morse case, have attracted a great deal of attention all over the country. He has long been a student of municipal affairs, and were he nominated the people would feel that he had the qualifications for the office.

When Mr. IVINS was Republican candidate four years ago, THE TIMES said of him that he was not only the best-equipped of the three nominees who ran in that contest, but was doubtless, through his extraordinary and intimate acquaintance with municipal affairs and his ability and experience, the best-equipped man for Mayor in the whole city. THE TIMES is still of that opinion. In that campaign this newspaper did not support Mr. IVINS because it was perfectly well known that his party was not supporting him in good faith, that he could not be elected, and that a heavy vote for him would mean the election of Mr. HEARST. For that reason large numbers of Republicans voted for Mr. MCCLELLAN. If Mr. IVINS should be nominated this year those conditions would not exist. He would have the full support of all the Fusion elements. During the last two years he has given his time without remuneration to the public service as the Chairman of the Charter Revision Commission. He has added largely to his previous knowledge of the affairs and the government of cities—has, in fact, become one of the leading experts, a leading authority, on the organization and operation of city government in the United States. His ability and his qualification for the office are beyond all question.

With such candidates as Mr. DE FOREST or Mr. STIMSON or Mr. IVINS the campaign would begin under the most hopeful auspices.

FIRES IN SUMMER HOTELS.

Fireproof Summer hotels will be the rule, presumably, half a century hence; now they are the exception. The old type of frame hotel prevails at most of the seaside and mountain resorts. For their quick burning qualities they are no more objectionable than easily inflammable buildings in crowded cities. Probably the percentage of loss by fire at Summer resorts is comparatively small, and few lives are ever lost in the burning of Summer hotels, though it is not uncommon for the guests to lose their clothing, as was the case at Edgemere, L. I., Monday. Both of the Long Island hotels destroyed that day burned rapidly. At Point o' Woods the facilities for extinguishing fires were of the most primitive sort, though there is plenty of water all around Fire Island. At Edgemere the first engine, from Far Rockaway, arrived fifteen minutes after the alarm.

Obviously both of these houses should have been better protected against destruction by fire. It is too much to expect the speedy displacement of all the old frame hotels by modern structures of concrete and steel, though when one of the old hotels is removed by fire it would be wise policy to erect a more substantial building in its place. The hotel at Edgemere, which was totally destroyed, was less than a year old, and stood on the site of a house burned last year.

The supplanting of all the inflammable hotels with fireproof structures will come in time, in spite of such occasional errors of judgment as this; but in the meanwhile the means of extinguishing fires should be improved in every possible way. The lesson of the two Long Island fires, which caused a heavy loss to many persons, should be borne in mind by every manager of a Summer hotel.

GIOVANNI DA VERRAZANO.

Rival claims by explorers and their partisans, it seems, extend as far south of the polar regions as the Hudson River. HENRY HUDSON was not the first discoverer of the river, in the opinion of the thousand Italians who witnessed on Monday the breaking of ground in Battery Park for a monument to GIOVANNI DA VERRAZANO.

VERRAZANO'S record of discovery of the Hudson, or of its mouth, in 1524, sixty-five years before the Half Moon's voyage up the river, is not so much disputed as Dr. COOK'S prior claim to discovering the pole. His loyal supporters point to a map drawn by his brother, HIERONIMO, representing the eastern coast of the United States under the name of "Nova Gallia," as the fruit of VERRAZANO'S expedition to America under the auspices of FRANCIS I. of France. His career as a pirate preying upon the commerce of Spain and her new-found possessions seems to have recommended him to the French King, and to have marked him as fit to command a royal expedition to Cathay by a westward route. VERRAZANO followed the American shore northward from the Carolinas to latitude 50 degrees, putting in apparently at New York Harbor, which they believed to be the mouth of a great river. The Italian copy of a letter which VERRAZANO is said to have written to the French sovereign tells strange things about this coast and the people inhabiting it. An American, a citizen of Brooklyn named MURPHY, has challenged them. To this challenge Mr. GEORGE DEXTER replies in JUSTIN WINSOR'S "Narrative and Critical History":

> The Verrazano letter should be regarded, not as an exact, well-digested report of the voyage, (such as a modern explorer might make,) but rather as the first hasty announcement to the King of his return, and of the success of the voyage. It should be remembered also that mention is made in it of a "little book," called by Dr. KOHL "the most precious part of what VERRAZANO wrote respecting his voyage," wherein were noted the observations of longitude and latitude, of the currents, ebb and flood of the sea, and of other matters which he hoped might be serviceable to navigators. These and other notes were doubtless used by his brother, HIERONIMO, in making his map, and the abundance of names displayed on that map is a reply to Mr. MURPHY'S objection that the letter contains but one name—the Island of Louise.

It is fairly well established, we think, that VERRAZANO probably sailed into New York Harbor, and, perhaps, sailed over the site of the future memorial to him at Battery Park, which was then under water. But, for all that, he was not the first navigator of the Hudson River, nor did he know that that river flowed through a new Continent.

STARTING THE TROLLEY TO QUEENS.

After several months have passed without the turning of a railway wheel on the city's $20,000,000 bridge, which was built for the special accommodation of railway traffic, it is discovered that a trolley service between Manhattan and Queens Boroughs can be started with less than a week's preparation. It is a makeshift and temporary arrangement, to be sure, but it is a boon both to the residents of Queens, who have been protesting against "taxation without transportation," and to visitors to the Hudson-Fulton fêtes, who can hardly wish to leave New York without riding across its latest and largest bridge. It is necessary, therefore, to applaud the tardy and inadequate plan, even though the praise of its inventors carries with it a criticism of their previous inaction.

It is worth noting that the plan has unsuspected possibilities of development. There are similar services on the other bridges, but they are managed in a manner adapted if not designed to make them inefficient. Their operation is in the charge of railway companies which regret each collection of a two-and-a-half-cent fare because it hinders the collection of a five-cent fare. The service is none too frequent, and in rush hours these nominally municipal lines are open to criticisms usually addressed to the privately owned railway routes. Under such conditions it can hardly be expected that these shuttle services should show their true capacity. Yet the hearings before the Public Service Commission developed that they are operated at an annual profit of 78 per cent. This suggests an inquiry as to what might be earned by the city from a similar line operated to develop business rather than to give grudging accommodation to a traffic which could not be discommoded entirely without an embarrassing scandal.

Suppose, for example, that the management of this Queensboro service should fall into the hands of a man who should seek to encourage rather than to stifle it. He would probably begin by abandoning the plan on which all the other cross-bridge shuttle services are managed. He would probably remark that the ends of the bridge are located by engineering necessities, and that they are not easy either to reach or to get away from. Fifty-ninth Street and Second or Third Avenues is a busy spot, but not a focus of travel, and few who cross the bridge will wish to be left there. Most of them will wish to reach other routes of travel, and would appreciate the privilege of transfer to them. The same is true of the other end of the bridge. Private enterprise would seek to devise some method of attracting and increasing this traffic. The route would not be confined to the bridge structure, and traffic arrangements with feeders and distributers would be sought for. Instead of proposing to accommodate 10,000 passengers daily, it might grow to multiples of a figure which is the smallest mentioned or known in connection with the travel over any bridge.

With this line in operation the city is evidently in a position to make with any other line an arrangement such as it happens the Third Avenue line is at the moment proposing to make with itself. It is proposing to organize a cross-bridge company and to exchange traffic with it on the basis of a division of the regular five-cent fare. The application for such a franchise is pending with a statement showing how the Third Avenue Company hopes to profit by it. The case is stronger for the city's line, since it could exchange traffic not with one line but with all lines. The city would be in a position to conduct the cross-river traffic for all lines more economically than each could conduct it for itself. Such a combination of all services to the bridge into a single service across the bridge would give a density and balance which would either pile up great profits or would enable the city to foster interchange of traffic by foregoing part of its own fare. Possibly this plan, announced almost apologetically, may give its authors a chance to work out something creditable in connection with bridge administration. That, indeed, would be a welcome innovation.

MR. COLER'S PREDICTION.

Mr. BIRD S. COLER of the Borough of Brooklyn predicts, in a newspaper interview, that after election "there will be more literary studios conducted in Venice and more fishing in the Grand Canal than at present." There seems to be no malice in Mr. COLER'S mind. The multiplication of literary studios in Venice can work no harm either to that city of the sea or the rest of the world, nor can the increase of the supply of fish in the Grand Canal. We have at hand no information touching the fisheries of the main thoroughfare of Venice. Doubtless Mr. COLER knows something about fishing there, including the average number of a catch on a good day for fishing, and how the fish commonly run as to size and quality. His prediction, however, is cryptic if not malicious. It staggers the mind to attempt to understand how the pursuit of literature in Northern Italy, and the fishing thereabout, can be augmented by a municipal election in New York. We vaguely get the idea that COLER fancies somebody will travel for rest and recreation after the battle at the polls has been fought.

The only conspicuous personage in this neighborhood who is known to be greatly interested in Venice is Mayor MCCLELLAN, though we have never heard of his fishing in the Grand Canal, and we do not believe that COLER has. Mayor MCCLELLAN is the author of a sound and interesting book on Venetian history, though we have never heard of him as the conductor of a literary studio. If, after all these years of political turmoil and earnest endeavor in the face of many obstacles, Mayor MCCLELLAN seeks a change of scene and air in a foreign country, the feeling of his fellow-citizens will be that he has earned the right to the enjoyment of a short respite from labor and annoyance. He has performed his thankless task in such a way as to secure a high measure of public esteem. No former Mayor of New York has had quite so many difficulties to contend with. He has been signally successful in many good fights, and it is doubtful if, hampered as he has been, any other man could have filled his second term as Mayor with greater distinction. As a gentleman and a scholar, doubtless, Mayor MCCLELLAN does not appeal to the tastes of COLER.

The nomination and election of Judge GAYNOR Mr. COLER believes to be assured. In case, however, his faith in his skill as political prophet is shown to be ill-founded, he may be looking for relaxation himself after election. We do not know that COLER is fond of travel, though his departure for foreign parts might be cordially approved by many of his constituents. Fishing, however, he can find near at home, and if his recently developed taste for letters should impel him to conduct a literary studio on his own account, probably he would find all the inspiration and material for study needed without going as far as Venice. COLER in Venice would be incongruous.

THE FARMERS AND THE TARIFF.

The Rural New Yorker, which very properly calls itself "the business farmer's paper," has some suggestive comments upon the Republican votes against the tariff:

> Ten Republican members of the United States Senate refused to vote for the Tariff bill. Such a thing never happened before. These ten Senators represented the States of Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Indiana. In all these States except Indiana Senatorial candidates are named by direct vote of the people, and this fact is responsible for the independence of these ten Senators. Their people have told them just what is wanted, and their vote expresses the feeling of the people who elected them. Much the same thing happened in the House. There eighteen Republicans put themselves on record as best they could. Again the protest came from Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Nebraska, and Washington, where direct primaries are held. We venture to say that 70 per cent. of the people of this country are opposed to the Tariff bill as the Senate has left it. If there were a chance to get at all Congressmen as there is in the Western States few men in Congress would have the nerve to suggest such a bill. With a fair system of direct nominations in New York it is doubtful if any Congressman representing a rural county would dare vote for the Senate bill.

In the Democratic Conference at Saratoga on Thursday Mr. EDWARD M. SHEPARD advocated the election of Senators by popular vote, but was somewhat reserved as to the probable practical effect of direct nominations, as most careful observers are. It is interesting, however, to note the estimate, by so good an authority as The Rural New Yorker, of the strength of the opposition to the upward revised tariff among the farmers. If the managers of the Democratic Party are keen, energetic, and faithful, this opposition can be made to influence the result at the polls.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Defense of Cuba's Lottery.

One of our readers, presumably a Cuban, but as he forgot to sign his letter we cannot be sure of that, writes to us in somewhat excited though entirely parliamentary language protesting against our recent remarks about the Havana lottery. He even attempts a defense of that anachronistic device for raising Government revenue. His arguments are decidedly interesting, particularly if our supposition as to his nationality is correct, since in that case he can be taken as speaking for Cubans in general, and of course everybody is curious to know how the Cubans justify this queer lapse of theirs.

In the first place, our correspondent denies that this is a "State" lottery, as we said it was. "It is," he declares, "the lottery of many States and provinces, and you have no more right to criticise it than to dictate what these people shall eat and drink." The correction is minute, and connection between premise and conclusion is hard to see, the right of criticism being vastly broader than that of dictation, very often existing where the other right does not. But let that go and resume quotation from the letter:

> The Cuban lottery was demanded by the people. They have their ideas about sport and games of chance, and this is one of their pets. I once heard a story that fits the case. A prosperous sugar planter was asked what he thought of the lottery. "It's great," he said. "The sea, the land, and the air give the laboring class of Cuba all they want in the way of food, drink, and clothing; but to have money they must work. Every one of them will think it his duty to take a chance in the lottery. That will make them work, and the island will be doubly benefited with increased production and more money in its Government's Treasury."

That, now, is really delightful, viewed in the abstract and as an illustration of naïveté, but it is more than doubtful if the more thoughtful Cubans will be pleased at having themselves and their lottery thus explained. From some points of view it is about the cruelest characterization they ever received, and, if true, those of us who have been hopeful as to the future of the island will have to revise our expectations. If the most important part of its population can be moved to industry only by a yearning for money to invest in lottery tickets, and if its productiveness can only be increased or maintained by providing such a motive for work, its capacity for self-government is small indeed.

Will Charge Only the Regular Rates.

Careful and somewhat extensive inquiries among the larger hotels in this city have brought out earnest and apparently sincere assurances that they are not purposing to make the Hudson-Fulton Celebration an excuse for raising prices to an abnormal height. On the contrary, it is everywhere asserted that, in spite of the certainty that there will be an unprecedented influx of strangers, all of whom must have food and lodging, only regular rates will be charged and there will be no effort to exploit to the utmost the enthusiasm and the necessities of the visitors.

People who have had experience of what almost invariably happens in smaller cities when a convention or some other strong attraction makes the demand for "accommodations" equal or exceed the supply thereof will be inclined to take these statements at something less than their face value. This incredulity, however, is probably unjust in the case of New York. While its hotel keepers do not monopolize all either of the honesty or of the wisdom possessed by their class, large demands upon their resources are no novelty to them and their business arrangements are adjusted to a patronage which in all other than exceptionally "bad" years is about all they can handle.

The Hudson-Fulton Celebration will be a big event, even for New York, but it will not make here anything like the difference from normal times that it would cause anywhere else. We entertain daily, both Summer and Winter, a crowd of strangers that would double the population of not a few cities that consider themselves of no little importance. Fifty or a hundred thousand people are quickly lost to sight in the vastness of the metropolis, and they are to be found only by those who look carefully for them. The coming assemblage will be large enough to make something of an impression, even here, but they can all be taken care of without trouble, and will be, one can confidently believe, without other than rare and sporadic cases of robbery. Intending visitors will do well to secure betimes what rooms they want, if they have any special preferences, but those with a reasonable willingness to take what they can get after they arrive are in no danger of faring at all ill or of paying outrageous prices.

No Chance for a Quarrel.

If the ownership of the pole were the only thing over which the nations were likely to fall out, the prospects for universal peace would be fine indeed. Had land been found there, the possibility of a quarrel, or at least of an acrimonious discussion, would have existed, for then the general right of discovery might have conflicted with Canada's claim to everything as far north as the point where north turns to south, but as it is now known that the pole is at the centre of a sea open except for a layer of ice drifting over deep water there can be no doubt that it is the common property of the world.

Russia could make as good a claim to it as Canada, and Norway, Sweden, and ourselves one as strong as theirs, since all are owners of abutting real estate. If the "big nail" had been driven into land instead of ice, the chances are that no such claim would have been valid, and that it would have been a case of "finders, keepers"—if the finders could and wanted to be keepers.

There is no particular reason for admitting that the rights of any of the nations circling the Arctic Ocean extend to the pole. No such pretension is set up as to the Antarctic Continent by the nations that have land only a little further away. The whole question is settled, however, by the fact that the open sea belongs to everybody, anybody, and nobody.

MILK DEPOTS.

A Protest from the Physicians In Charge Against Closing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Word has been received from Wilbur C. Phillips, Secretary of the New York Milk Committee, that the two infants' milk depots located at 202 Henry Street and 73 Cannon Street must be closed on Sept. 15 because of a lack of funds.

As physicians connected with these stations because of interest and without compensation, we protest against the closing of these depots. The discontinuance of milk distribution will certainly mean death to many infants, and will cause great distress to many others. Because of our personal knowledge of what these depots mean to the mothers and babies of the poor, we appeal to the newspapers and to the public to uphold the hands of the New York Milk Committee, which maintains these depots.

We appeal for an enlargement of this work, instead of curtailment; for more depots instead of the closing of those now in existence. We appeal to the wealthy to remember the weak babies of the tenements, who, deprived of mothers' milk by poverty and sickness, depend wholly upon artificial food. We appeal to business men to provide the machinery and equipment for meeting the commercial difficulties of this task by supporting the model milk company now being organized by the Milk Committee; to philanthropists to provide money for nurses, and free milk; and to all who are interested in education and who believe that social progress depends upon it, to make possible the gift of knowledge to ignorant women, without which their infants will die or will grow up physically handicapped and unfit for active, useful lives.

We do not appeal, but we demand, in the name of justice and humanity, that the depots be not shut down. Yours truly,

HOLE AT THE POLE.

Thinks Peary's Soundings Have Not Disproved This Strange Theory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When I was a boy I had for a neighbor an old man whose creed could be summed up in an unwavering belief in "Symmes's Hole." He held it to be proof of his belief because there were no proofs to the contrary. A few years ago A. P. Sinnett, the noted theosophical writer, claimed he had direct occult information that such a hole existed. As it was situated exactly at the pole in that frigid region where ice eternally prevailed, the implication could not be denied that this alleged hole was a cold, hard fact in nature.

Now, THE TIMES states editorially that Peary, reaching the pole and finding no hole there, explodes this ancient belief. In view of Peary's own record is not this denial somewhat premature?

Peary's record states that soundings were made in which he failed to reach bottom after paying out 9,000 feet of line. So far as anybody knows, he might have sounded several times as far with the same negative results. Is it not fair to assume that this sounding was made in the identical hole that Symmes, Sinnett, et al. have so firmly believed in?

The fact that it was full of water disproves nothing. Since Symmes's time it has had plenty of time to fill up, if that were necessary, and even then it would be none the less a hole on that account. A man digs a hole in the ground for a well. Is it not a fact that hole and well are synonymous terms, even if it is filled to the brim with water? In any case, a hole cannot be an absolute vacuum. It may be filled with air or gas or other fluids of varying densities without impairing its existence as a hole.

With due regard to the facts in the case, and respect for the beliefs of those who hold Summes's theory as something more than unusually holy, I trust you will see that you are wholly wrong in denying the existence of this hole. GEORGE H. HADLEY.

American Orators.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to your editorial on Wendell Phillips in last SATURDAY'S REVIEW OF BOOKS, from your characterization of him, I should think he might be called, not inaptly, the American Mirabeau.

I love to read articles and editorials in praise of great men. I wish more of them were published in all the papers. It would be a fine education for the people, especially the rising generation.

It is a little difficult for me to believe, however, that Phillips was the "greatest of American orators." From what I have read I should say Patrick Henry was more fiery, vehement, and effective; Clay more comprehensive, charming, and persuasive; Webster more majestic and overwhelming, and Beecher more versatile and inspiring.

Arch at Stony Point.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Though I can understand the patriotic fervor of the Daughters of the American Revolution in erecting an arch at Stony Point to commemorate "the assault and capture of a British post" during the war of 1779, I fail utterly to appreciate the taste of unveiling said arch as one of the ceremonies at the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. We have paid the United States the compliment of sending a squadron across the seas to participate in a great naval display, so why reciprocate by offering a gratuitous affront?

Mispronounced Names.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You have done well in calling attention to the pronunciation of Commander Peary's name—and incidentally in pointing out the inadequacy of an unphonetic system of spelling.

Perhaps no other man of modern times has had his name so generally mispronounced as Theodore Roosevelt. A common-sense method of spelling would have spared us the painful spectacle of a great nation calling their President "out of his name." W. F. V.

SUES UNITED WIRELESS.

W. S. Sims Alleges It Is Trying to Put International Co. Out of Business.

Suit was begun yesterday in the United States Circuit Court by W. Scott Sims, the inventor of the Sims torpedo and other electrical devices, against the United Wireless Telegraph Company, the International Telegraph Construction Company, Christopher C. Wilson, President of the United Wireless, and Henry Shoemaker, its chief consulting engineer, alleging a conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act. Mr. Sims asserts the International Telegraph Construction Company has been deprived of all its business and is about to be put out of existence.

Mr. Sims is the holder of 125 shares of the International Company's stock and he sues to recover triple damages in the amount of $31,250, or $93,750. He has also a suit under way in the New Jersey courts, where the United Wireless concern is incorporated, to stop its alleged programme with regard to the International Company. The United on its part has obtained a judgment of $35,043 against the International Company, and has endeavored under this judgment to wind up the affairs of the International. This action is now enjoined by the Vice Chancellor in New Jersey.

In his complaint Mr. Sims, who is represented by George C. Lay of 27 Pine Street as counsel, alleges that the International Company was incorporated in the State of New York in 1904, and that the United Company was doing business in this State as a Maine corporation with a $20,000,000 capitalization at the time. The International Company, says Mr. Sims, had Mr. Shoemaker as its chief consulting engineer and controlled the Shoemaker system of radio telegraphy, which was a patent of great value. It had a factory in Jersey City, had valuable contracts with steamship lines and other corporations, and was earning a substantial surplus.

From that time to July, 1908, the complaint sets forth, the International Company and the United Company were in active competition, but in the month mentioned, Mr. Wilson, President of the United Company, bought the majority stock of the International, got control of a chattel mortgage for $8,500, and another claim for some $10,000. This was done, according to the complaint, "with fraudulent intent to stifle all competition between the two companies and to absorb the contracts and destroy the business of the International Company."

Immediately thereafter, according to the complaint, the United concern took possession of all the patents and properties of the International, and has since been using them as its own, making large sums of money by virtue of the Shoemaker system and the other devices controlled by the International Company. The United Company has also elected its own officers officers of the International Company, the complaint declares.

Boston Passengers Arrive Here Seven Hours Late and Half Famished.

New York-bound passengers in twelve sleepers on the New York, New Haven & Hartford train which had left Boston on Monday at midnight woke up yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, expecting to look out of the windows and see the objects that mark the outer marches of the city. They saw instead the houses and streets in a city not New York.

The Pullman porters, ever-ready depositaries of information, declared the city outside to be Putnam. Putnam what? Putnam, Conn. The railroad maps which were consulted showed that Putnam was some distance from New York.

This train was due in New York at 7 o'clock, so no meal car had been attached to it. The more provident of the twelve carloads of passengers began to plan to eat. The train was on its way down the tracks of the Midland Division to Willimantic. It hesitated there for a few moments, and the hungriest of the passengers rushed out to snatch what they could for breakfast.

The Willimantic station lunchrooms were not prepared for the business offered. The passengers were compelled to divide rations. Some of them arrived in New York at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon without having eaten anything. Those who had eaten most sumptuously had breakfasted on small squares of sponge cakes, attenuated ham sandwiches, or pickles and tarts.

After leaving Willimantic the train had continued westward to Hartford and then southward to New York. The trip that should have been made in seven hours had required fourteen. The passengers arrived in New York at 1 P. M., instead of 7 A. M.

The cause of the delay was the wrecking of a fast freight train on the Shore Line Division, between New Haven and New London, yesterday morning at 3 o'clock. A bolt had dropped from the piston rod, had clogged the machinery, and had thrown the big locomotive over on its side. It pulled seven of the twelve cars off the track with it. They were destroyed. Both tracks were blocked.

The midnight train from Boston had come down on the Shore Line Division to near Clinton, had waited a while, had then gone back to New London, had traveled north to Putnam, and had then started for New York on the Midland Division.

No one on the freight was injured in the wreck, nor was any of a lot of valuable horses on the train injured.

By the time the morning trains began running arrangements had been made to handle all of them expeditiously on other divisions, and none was delayed more than a few minutes. The Shore Line tracks were cleared late in the morning.

Capt. Bartlett.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Peary took Bartlett with him because he was the best lieutenant. On sufferance he allowed him to break all previous records. What a generous, whole-hearted reward for simple devotion! Peary made Bartlett great, and thereby has paid the whole British race an honor which will go down in history. The records of chivalry contain nothing which can match this glorious deed; international courtesy can go no further.

Should Peary and Bartlett arrive in New York together, could not the Canadian residents and the members of the various St. George Societies do them fitting honor in the name of Britons the wide world over?

Let him understand that Great Britain is not England and Scotland, but England, Scotland, and Wales.

If, as stated in to-day's TIMES, Admiral Seymour's flagship, the Inflexible, will endeavor to smash all transatlantic speed records for battleships on her trip to New York, it is a safe bet that her fuel will be a Welsh product, rather than English or Scotch.

THROUGH A HOTEL WINDOW.

The high-pitched clack of hoofs,
In cañons 'tween the roofs;
The snarling of a car;
The stopping's cluck and jar;
A rattle of loose wheels,
Across the flange-worn steels;
A street piano's dirl,
Faint from the sea-voiced whirl;
An auto's nasal snort;
A car bell's quick retort;
A liner's mighty throat
Drowning the noontide note;
A rumble underground;
The "El's" far, rushing sound;
And sighing through it all,
A distant waterfall!

JEWISH NEW YEAR BEGINS AT SUNSET

The Autumn Festival Season Opens with the Observance of Rosh Hashono.

MARKS WORLD'S CREATION

Among Orthodox Jews the Celebration Lasts for Two Days—Closely Followed by Yom Kippur.

The celebration of Rosh Hashono, or the New Year, which begins at sunset this evening, will open the Jewish Autumn festival season. It marks the beginning of the year 5670 of the Jewish calendar, and is simultaneously celebrated by the people of Israel throughout the world. With the single exception of Yom Kippur, or the great fast day, the Day of Atonement, the festival of the New Year is more strictly observed than any other feast day in the calendar. The Reformed Jews, as those who have abandoned the old ritual and many of the older and minor observances are designated, unite with the orthodox Jews in the celebration of this most important holy day.

Of course, in the manner of observance these two divisions into which the Israelitish community of this country has been divided differ in many points of ritual and custom, but in the main, essential points there is really very little divergence.

The festival known more generally as Rosh Hashono, which, literally translated, is "Head of the Year," is also designated "Yom Hazzikaron," or Day of the Memorial, as the annual memorial of the creation of the world. It has still another designation, "Yom Hadin," or Day of the Judgment, from an old belief of the ancient Jews that on "Rosh Hashono" all creatures stand in judgment before the Lord to answer for their transgressions during the year, and that their fate for the ensuing year is recorded on Rosh Hashono, and this judgment is sealed on "Yom Kippur," or the Day of Atonement.

The Biblical command for the celebration of this festival, which occurs on the first day of the Hebrew month Tishri, is found in Leviticus, Chap. 23, v. 23, 24, 25, as follows:

> And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, Speak unto the children of Israel saying: In the seventh month, on the first day of the month shall ye have a Sabbath, a memorial, a day of blowing of trumpets, an holy convocation. Ye shall do no servile work therein, but ye shall make an offering by fire unto the Lord.

The first day of the month Tishri, the seventh month, occurs on Thursday, which is the New Year's Day, but all Jewish holidays begin on the evening of the preceding day, so the celebration of "Rosh Hashono," for the year 5670, will begin this evening.

Among the orthodox Jews the celebration lasts for two days, that is from sunset this evening until sunset on Friday evening. In this period there is among the pious and orthodox Jews an absolute cessation from business and work of all kinds, except such as may come under the head of works of charity and absolute necessity, such as cannot be postponed or dispensed with, until the festival is over. The days are given up to religious observances at the synagogue and rejoicing for benefits received during the year and praying for a continuance of health and prosperity for the coming year. The usual places of worship maintained by the orthodox Jews are by no means adequate for the accommodation of the crowds of worshippers, large numbers of whom flock to the city from the surrounding country towns, where there are no places of worship for them, and to accommodate these people numerous temporary synagogues are fitted up, mainly in halls and other places of public assemblage. These, of course, abound on the east side of the city, but there are many of them to be found in Harlem and in the Borough of the Bronx.

The reform Jews celebrate one day only, that is this evening and to-morrow. Services will be held this evening and to-morrow in all the Jewish houses of worship, and these will be thronged by devout worshippers.

Ten days after Rosh Hashono occurs the most generally observed event in the Jewish calendar, that is, Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, a fast of strict observance, during which the orthodox Jew and many of those designated Reform Jews take no food or drink and spend the day in the synagogue. All business and work is forbidden, and the day is devoted to prayer and repentance.

The Educational Alliance has arranged for eight synagogues seven of which will be free, for the approaching Jewish holy days. It is expected that about 3,000 persons will attend the services. One of the synagogues will accommodate the Syrian, Greek, and Arabian Jews, whose special form of worship has necessitated special arrangements. The Educational Alliance is at East Broadway and Jefferson Street.

GIRLS PREFER FACTORY WORK.

Battery Labor Bureau Finds Immigrants Avoid Domestic Service.

That there is a great demand for good domestic servants was shown by the many inquiries received by THE TIMES after the publication of an article last Wednesday upon an increase in the supply in New York City. To learn if there was a possibility of help in this direction from the direct source of foreign supply, the immigrants, a TIMES reporter visited the Labor Bureau in the United States Barge Office, in Battery Park. There have been but comparatively few servants obtainable from that source for some years, and present conditions are not very different.

The Labor Bureau is maintained jointly by the Irish and German Immigrant Societies, and no fees are charged to employer or employe. While under the auspices of the societies of the two nationalities, immigrants of all countries are received, as are men and women already in the country who wish employment. But the Labor Bureau does not promise much help for the American kitchen.

The greater number of the girls who come over now are Irish and German, most of the former nationality, and the head of the woman's branch of the bureau agreed with the woman of the uptown employment office, previously quoted, in saying that there was an unusually good class of Irish girls now coming to America. They are bright, intelligent, and competent, she says, and of an altogether different stamp from the old-time type of immigrant girl.

But in the present stage of immigration there are few girls coming to the country who have not friends here, and they are immediately taken in hand by them and places obtained for them either through other agencies or otherwise.

One fact revealed at the Labor Bureau which will discourage householders is that the younger girls among the recent immigrants will not take positions as domestic servants, but prefer to go into factories that they may have their Sundays and Saturday afternoons to themselves.

The Irish Emigrant Society publishes, in the report of its President, an account of the statistics of the work done in the Labor Bureau, and the figures are not promising for the housekeeper who would like to find servants. During the year 1908 only 248 women were placed in positions. Of these sixty-four were from Germany, 175 from Ireland, and seven from Scandinavia. The greater number were placed in New York, 207, thirty-nine going to New Jersey.

It is said at the bureau that there are sometimes very good servants who are no immigrants waiting there for positions, and there is always a chance for the needy housewife. As everywhere, the bulk of the business is done in the Spring and Fall, and the greater number of immigrant girls are said to come in in the Spring.

PRINCE KUNI VIEWS FORT ADAMS TROOPS

Salute of 21 Guns Fired as Japanese Arrives for Dress Parade of Artillerymen.

LUNCHEON ON HOUSEBOAT

Reception for Princess, Who Witnesses a Drill by Naval Brigade—Attended by Officers of German Cruisers.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—Prince and Princess Kuni of Japan were busy from morning until late to-night with sightseeing in autos with Col. Robert M. Thompson, a dress parade at Fort Adams in the morning, attended by American and German naval officers, cottagers, and citizens of Newport; a luncheon on board the houseboat Everglades, following a visit to the Naval Training Station, and a dinner given to-night by Gen. and Mrs. J. Fred Pierson.

The Prince, accompanied by Chargé d'Affaires Kuri Matsui, Col. Kurita, Military Aid to the Prince; Col. Thompson, Gen. Pierson, and Lieut. Commander Volgelgesang, U. S. N., motored to Fort Adams, while the Princess and her suite with Mrs. Pierson saw something of Newport in an automobile.

Arriving at Fort Adams, the Prince and his suite were welcomed by Col. Walter Howe, U. S. A., and his officers with a salute of twenty-one guns. Col. Howe detailed Lieut. Otto H. Schraeder as military aid to the Prince for the day.

The troops executed a battalion drill and a passing review. In front of the troops stood the Prince and his suite wearing the conventional dress and high silk hats, Col. Howe, staff officers of Fort Adams, Capt. William W. Fullam of the Naval Training Station, and Lieut. Commander Vogelgesang, U. S. N., and three officers from the German cruisers. Visitors from the cottage colony and others watched the manoeuvres.

After the drills Col. and Mrs. Howe held an informal reception in honor of the Prince, who was escorted to Col. Howe's residence by Mrs. Howe.

The Princess returned to the houseboat, and coming to the dock at Fort Adams the Prince and his party there joined and went to the training station, where the Everglades moored and the additional guests for luncheon came aboard. The guests for the most part were of an official nature, including Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, U. S. N., who commanded the Atlantic fleet in Japanese waters, and there the Admiral had met the Prince.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the Prince, with his suite and the officers and gentlemen guests of Col. Thompson's luncheon, departed from the Everglades. Admiral Merrill, Capt. Fullam, Lieut. Commander W. W. Philips, Capt. Sutherland, Rear Admirals Swinburne and Perry, Col. Howe, Gen. Pierson, Col. Thompson, and Commander Mark L. Bristol, and other army and navy officers, together with some of the officers from the German cruisers, marched up the wharf. The band played the Japanese national air, the Marine Guard on the dock presented arms, and the ship's company of the Reina Mercedes manned the rail, and from the battery on board a salute of twenty-one guns was fired which the three German cruisers also fired, making a salute of eighty-four guns.

From the wharf the Prince, escorted by the officers from the War College, naval training and torpedo station, and Fort Adams, with the German naval officers walked to the reviewing stand. In the rear of the Prince and the officers were many of the members of cottage colony and army and navy officers and their families.

As the Prince departed from the Everglades day fireworks were discharged consisting of balloons bursting high in the air and showing American, Japanese, German, French, and other national flags and the flag of the New York Yacht Club, and last an immense white elephant.

After the Prince had been received officially the Princess and Mme. Nagasaka were driven to the inclosure in front of Capt. Fullam's quarters by Mrs. S. P. P. Pell, where the informal reception was tendered to the Princess. The Princess was prettily gowned in baby-blue satin, a large leghorn hat trimmed with black satin and velvet, and wore a small silk American flag on her breast. The Princess was seated between two rifles, which were captured in the battle of Santiago by the North Atlantic fleet.

The naval brigade executed a splendid passing review and semaphore drill, which the Prince highly commended. Later, he was shown about the War College and station by Admiral Merrill and Capt. Fullam.

Later, the Prince and Princess and their party, with Col. Thompson, boarded the houseboat, to have a few hours' rest before attending the dinner given by Gen. and Mrs. J. Fred Pierson.

The Prince and Princess, with their suite, will sail at daylight on the Everglades for Sag aHrbor, where Col. Thompson will give a garden party in their honor to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The President's yacht Sylph, now at New York, has been ordered to Washington to take the Japanese Prince Kuni and his party on a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon the latter part of the month.

ANTONIO FERRARA TO RESIGN.

Manager of Italian Opera Company Disagrees with Stockholders.

After a meeting held yesterday by the stockholders of the Italian Grand Opera Company, which is appearing at the Academy of Music, it was announced that Antonio Ferrara, the General Manager, would resign. Before evening it was rumored about that he had already resigned, but this was denied.

In the evening Mr. Ferrara said that he had been displeased with some features of the workings of the company and that he thought too much money had been spent in certain directions. He stated that it was probable that some one would relieve him of the small amount of stock which he possesses in the company and that he would retire.

In the event of Mr. Ferrara's retirement James E. Brande, the President of the company, would be in full control. It was said last night that several prominent members of the Italian colony in New York were much interested in this Italian season, and that no internal friction would have any effect upon the continuance of the opera season.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harriman and Miss Alice Harriman will remain some time longer at the Winchester Inn, near Washington, where they have spent most of the Summer.

JERSEY AMENDMENTS BEATEN BY 25,000

Decisive Majorities Almost Everywhere Against Changes—Gov. Fort Wins in His Own Town.

ONE-FIFTH OF VOTE CAST

Hoboken Also Included Among the Few Cities Which Favored the Reforms —Essex 6,600 Against.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Sept. 14.—Indications at a late hour to-night are that the proposed constitutional amendments, which were voted on at a special election throughout the State to-day, have all been lost by something over 25,000 majority on less than one-fifth of the total vote. Later returns may show that the proposed amendment increasing the salaries of Senators and Assemblymen from $500 to $1,000 a year have made a better showing, but they will fall far short of being carried.

A strange feature of the returns, so far in, is that in Atlantic City, the only amendment getting a majority vote is the one for the salary increase, it being carried there by 1,200 majority. In Jersey City this amendment was carried by 3,000 majority, while the others were defeated by about an average of 1,300.

In Hoboken the amendments were all carried by an average of 300 majority. In East Orange they were carried by an average of 370 and in Montclair they received an average of 120. But Essex County as a whole has given 8,000 against the amendments, the City of Newark contributing an average of 6,600 against.

The returns from the populous counties at midnight showed that Hudson had gone against the amendments by 2,000, Mercer 2,000, Atlantic 2,000, Passaic 1,200, and Camden 5,000.

East Orange, the home of Gov. Fort, and occupying an honored place in the "new idea" movement, showed perhaps the greatest vote for the amendments in proportion to the total vote. The amendmnets showed the following majorities in favor: 345 for the first, 374 for the second, 384 for the third, 240 for the fourth, and 348 for the fifth amendments.

In this city there was but one place where any amendment received a majority vote, the first amendment getting in the Third District of the Second Ward a majority of 9, the second amendment a majority of 4, and the third amendment a majority of 5.

In Essex County the Democrats made a dead set against all of the amendments and won with the greatest majority of any county in the State. The election was conducted in a loose manner, in many places huge soap boxes taking the place of the ballot boxes because of the great size of the ballots, which were two-thirds the size of a newspaper page.

The first amendment strikes from the Circuit Courts its chancery powers in foreclosure suits, second reorganized the Court of Pardons, third reorganizes the higher courts, fourth increases the pay of Senators and Assemblymen, and the fifth increases the terms of Governor, Senators, Assemblymen, and Sheriffs.

The election results in Newark, with all the returns in late last night, were as follows:

FIRST AMENDMENT.

For	1,467

SECOND AMENDMENT.

For	1,606

THIRD AMENDMENT.

FOURTH AMENDMENT.

PLAINFIELD, Sept. 14.—Returns of the vote on the constitutional amendments in this city show that about 8 per cent. of the total vote was polled. The vote was almost equally divided, the plurality in favor of the amendments being nineteen. The total vote cast was 350, 184 for and 175 against. In the Borough of North Plainfield, 10 per cent. voted, and the vote was overwhelmingly against the amendments in the proportions of about two to one.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, Sept. 14.—About 2,000 votes were cast in this city, of which 1,300 were against the 700 for the judiciary amendments, and the vote for the Assembly district amendment was about 1,200 against and 800 for. The total vote in the county is estimated at 3,000, and the judiciary amendments are apparently beaten five to three, and the Assembly districts amendments three to two.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, Sept. 14.—Asbury Park and the resorts adjacent thereto—Ocean Grove, Bradley Beach, Avon, Neptune City, Belmar, Neptune Township, Allenhurst, and Deal Beach—voted in favor of all of the constitutional amendments in to-day's special election. The vote was very light, but little interest was manifested. In Deal Beach the vote was practically unanimous in favor of the amendments.

Keen Play in New Jersey Tennis.

The New Jersey State championship was continued yesterday on the courts of the Morristown Field Club, and along with a number of matches in the men's singles the men's doubles was begun. In the remaining match of the first round of singles there was a lively contest between E. B. Hilliard and Edgar F. Leo, the verdict going to the former by 2 sets to 1. Hilliard met Dr. Ewing Taylor in the second round, and the doctor disposed of his opponent easily in straight sets. There was some disappointment when Frederick C. Inman defaulted to Otto H. Hinck.

In the doubles Wylie C. Grant was paired with Otto H. Hinck, and they won easily in the preliminary round from H. P. Smith and E. Prendergast. An unfinished match between Dr. William I. Rosenbaum and Henry J. Mollenhauer against E. F. Anderson and A. Stevens produced some keen work, but after each team had won a set the match was postponed till to-day on account of darkness. The summary:

Men's Singles.—First Round—E. P. Hilliard defeated E. F. Leo, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2.

Second Round—C. Dubosbie defeated F. A. Fall, 6—1, 7—5; Otto H. Hinck defeated Frederick C. Inman by default; R. P. Bennett defeated R. Martin by default; A. Stevens defeated P. Martin, 6—3, 6—2; Dr. Ewing Taylor defeated E. P. Hilliard, 6—3, 6—0; F. Anderson defeated K. M. Boorman, 6—2, 6—1.

Men's Doubles.—Preliminary Round—F. C. Anderson and A. Stevens defeated J. Van Vechten and H. Hoskier, 6—0, 6—1; Otto H. Hinck and Wylie C. Grant defeated H. P. Smith and E. Prendergast, 6—1, 6—3.

First Round—F. H. and A. McKay Gravebrook defeated C. and S. Dubosbie, 6—3, 6—3; H. M. Balch and P. Martin defeated P. Watson and F. Richardson, 6—2, 6—4.

The Stuyvesant's Mural Decorations.

Additions to the Stuyvesant Theatre's mural decorations are being prepared by two protegees of David Belasco, Arthur Crisp, a young American artist, and a Russian painter. Panels over the entrance are to be filled with representations of scenes from Shakespeare's plays, and the walls of the stairway leading to the smoking room are to be decorated with two pictures representing knights going to war and their return from battle. Of the Shakespearean panels a scene from "The Taming of the Shrew" has already been put in place.

—BABIES' LIVES AT STAKE—

$25,000 must be raised to guarantee the continuance of this work. Of this amount $16,750 is assured, leaving $8,250 which must be pledged Wednesday night, September 15th, by 12 o'clock, or the work will be seriously curtailed. This money will not be used for relief. It will merely make possible the work of producing, modifying, handling and distributing the milk. There is so much capital in New York City for other purposes it seems impossible that this small amount cannot be obtained for a work which means life to hundreds of babies. Any man or woman interested in the lives of infants, especially among the poor, is urged to communicate at once with WILBUR C. PHILLIPS, Secy., N. Y. Milk Committee, Room 216, 105 E. 22d St., N. Y. Tel. 348 Gramercy.

JAMES DAVID SMILLIE DEAD.

Noted Artist and Engraver Dies in His Seventy-seventh Year.

James David Smillie, N. A., the artist and engraver, died yesterday in his seventy-seventh year. He was the son of the late James S. Smillie, N. A., and Catherine Van Valkenburgh Smillie. He was educated to be an engraver in steel, a profession to which he devoted all his time until 1864. In that year he turned his attnetion to drawing and painting, and undertook to school himself in these branches of art without the benefit of a master. Since then he had spent his professional life in the State, but pursued his studies at leisure among the great mountain ranges of the United States, including the Sierras, Adirondacks, Rocky, White, and Catskill Mountains.

In 1868 he was elected an associate of the National Academy, in 1876 an Academician, and in 1877 a member of the council. He was one of the artists who founded the American Society of Painters in Water Colors in 1866, was the first Treasurer of the society, and its President from 1873 to 1878, and contributed regularly to its exhibitions, as well as to those of the Academy of Design. Among the better known of Mr. Smillie's works in oil are "Evening Among the Sierras of California," "The Lifting of the Clouds, White Mountains," and "Dark Against Day's Golden Death."

Among his more important works in water color are "A Scrub Race on the Western Prairies" and "A Study from Nature, Au Sable River," both of which were exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial, and "The Track of the Torrent, Adirondacks."

During the recent controversy in connection with the proposal to erect the National Academy of Design's gallery in Central Park Mr. Smillie was one of the most earnest of the opponents of the scheme. He believed that it would have been a great mistake for the institution to sacrifice the splendid site, with the obtaining of which he had a good deal to do, on Cathedral Heights. Mr. Smillie's studio was at 110 East Thirty-eighth Street, and he lived at the Wellesley apartments, 410 West End Avenue.

ITALIANS SING "TRAVIATA."

Mme. Makaroff Appears as Violetta and Signor Armanini as Alfredo.

Violetta Valery	Signora Makaroff
Flora Bervoix	Signora Del Campo
Annina	Signora Tanfani
Alfredo Germont	Signor Armanini
Giorgio Germont	Signor Caronna
Gastone	Signor Maini
Barone Douphol	Signor Sampieri
Marchese D'Obigny	Signor de Carli
Dottore Grenvil	Signor Sampieri

Conductor, Signor Jacchia.

There are certain operas which every season of lyric drama, preliminary, popular, or grand, is sure to bring forth, and "Traviata" is one of these. The Italian Grand Opera Company, which is appearing at the Academy of Music, deferred its presentation of the Verdi opera until last night, when it was presented before an audience which was not very large.

The presentation did not differ in many marked particulars from those of other operas which have preceded it at this theatre. Mme. Makaroff was the Violetta, and she is better suited in this rôle than in that of Gilda, in which she made her first appearance. Signor Armanini sang the part of Alfredo, and Signor Caronna was a father, who watched the hand of the conductor very closely. The hand of Signor Jacchia is a good one to watch. It is one of the best points of the Academy season.

The costuming was according to the way of "Traviata" some years ago before Mme. Melba made it an 1830 opera, and Mme. Tetrazzini made it contemporary. The principal women singers wore gowns which were more or less of this period, and the men singers and chorus were dressed as if they would prefer to sit in Louis XIV. chairs.

'LOUISE' FOR THE MANHATTAN.

Opera to be Presented Next Week with Mme. Baron in Title Role.

Next week's bills at the Manhattan Opera House include the first performance in New York of "Louise" at popular prices. The title rôle will be sung by Mme. Alice Baron and Mme. Soyer will sing the part of the mother. Mr. Duffault will sing the part of Julien.

"Trovatore" is to have its first performance of the season on Saturday evening, when it will be sung by Mmes. Grippon and d'Alvarez. The tenor for this opera is not yet announced.

On Thursday evening Mme. Baron will sing Aïda, and the tenor for this opera is not announced etiher. "Rigoletto," with Mme. Miranda and Messrs. Beck and Carasa, will be the bill on Monday evening and at the Saturday matinee. "Tosca" will be sung on Wednesday night, with Mme. Sylva and Messrs. Carasa and Beck. As Mr. Hammerstein has said to have Signor Zerola, the tenor of the Academy of Music, under contract, it was thought that he might be going to sing one of the two tenor parts left open for next week. When asked who would sing in "Aïda" and "Trovatore," Mr. Hammerstein said: "It might be Zenatello and it might be Carasa. They both know the part." Then he shrugged his shoulders and smiled.

Another concert will be given next Sunday evening, and it is announced that the subscription books for Mr. Hammerstein's regular season of opera reopen this morning at 9 o'clock.

TREE SCORES IN 'FALSE GODS.'

Mrs. Patrick Campbell Also Has Leading Part in Problem Play.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree scored another triumph at His Majesty's Theatre to-night in the production of "False Gods," a translation by J. B. Fagin of the Egyptian play, "La Foi," by Brieux.

"False Gods" is a problem play, which preaches the hopelessness that follows the loss of faith. Henry Ainley, as a young Egyptian, who after traveling in the West returns home and induces his people temporarily to abandon their gods, has a strong part and made a big hit. Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Beerbohm Tree, and William Haviland took the other leading parts.

The play was beautifully staged and there were many novel and spectacular effects.

Crowd at Coney Island Has Fun A-Plenty Without Any Rowdyism.

The second day of the Coney Island Mardi Gras brought more than 300,000 people to the island. It was an orderly, good-natured crowd, and even the careless ones who had worn straw hats and had to stand meekly by while the laughing crowd tore them off and tossed them about the street did not lose their tempers.

The police arrangements were similar to those of the opening night, and firemen were posted at frequent intervals along the streets.

Up to a late hour there had not been a single arrest for disorderly conduct, and there was no evidence of rowdyism.

Charlotte Walker Operated Upon.

An operation for appendicitis was performed upon Charlotte Walker, the actress, yesterday at the private hospital of Dr. John F. Erdmann. Dr. Erdmann, who had charge of the operation, said that no complications were found, and that Miss Walker should be out in about four days. The actress, who is the wife of Eugene Walter, the playwright, had suffered a mild attack of appendicitis before, but no operation was deemed necessary until this week, when she had a sudden severe seizure at her country home in Greenport, L. I.

Rehearse "The Commanding Officer."

Rehearsals have begun for Daniel Frohman's first production of the season, "The Commanding Officer," by Theodore Burt Sayre. The play is an American military drama, with a story about the officers and families of a Western army post. The cast includes Bruce McRae, Isabelle Irving, Rosa Rand, Frank Carlyle, Edward Martindel, Charles Lane, Frederick Watson, John Gunion, George Riddell, George C. Staley, Gertrude Dallas, and Phyllis Sherwood. The first representation will be in Baltimore on Oct. 12.

CAPT. THOMAS PHELAN DEAD.

Irish-American Patriot Was Almost Killed by Short in 1883.

Capt. Thomas Phelan, the Irish-American patriot, soldier of fortune, and duelist, who issued a challenge to fight Major Esterhazy in 1899 for the part he played in the Dreyfus case, died a few days ago in Bremerton, Wash. His body will be buried in the Soldiers and Sailors' Cemetery at that place at Capt. Phelan's own request.

Capt. Phelan has often been in the public eye. He was born in Ireland in 1835 and traveled extensively, winning reputation with broadsword and pistol. He served in the Union Army during the civil war and won promotion for gallantry.

Phelan first became identified with the Irish cause in 1883, when he was attacked and almost killed here by Richard Short. It came out that Capt. Phelan had gone to England from this country about the same time that ten men were sent from here by leaders in the Fenian cause for the purpose of killing Carey, who had turned informer against O'Donnell, who had been accused of murdering Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke. After Phelan had been stabbed by Short and when Short was taken to him to be identified Phelan drew a revolver and fired at Short. The bullet glanced off a metal badge on Short's coat.

At that time it came out that Phelan had previously given an interview in The Kansas City Journal in which he told of many Fenian plots for dynamiting outrages on English vessels. This aroused intense wrath among the Irish sympathizers in this country as well as in England. Capt. Phelan received many letters of denunciation. He started from Kansas City to explain his position and was attacked by Short just after he arrived here.

In 1899 he came out as a stanch champion of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus and challenged Major Esterhazy to a duel. It received no attention from Major Esterhazy.

GIANTS WEAK WITH BAT IN PINCHES

Marquard Spoils His Good Pitching by Making Bungle at the Wrong Time.

BOSTON SCORES SHUT-OUT

Two Double Plays and a Sensational Catch by Beaumont Help to Smother the New Yorkers on Bases.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—Boston's so-called Doves again proved a thorn in the flesh to the New York Giants in the epilogue to the season at the South End grounds. There were signs now and then of inertia that marks the waning of the baseball year, but there was plenty of good playing with which to discount the poor. The score was 3 to 0, but the New Yorks had several good opportunities to make more runs than the Bostons.

Brown was batted a little harder than "Rube" Marquard, and was much more liberal in bestowing bases on balls, but the Giants' hits did not come in good run-getting sequence, and twice fast double plays swept them off the bases. Moreover, the Bostons most of the time presented a very light defense. The odd thing was that the Bostons in every inning except the two in which they scored went out in one, two, three order. The Bostons would have won the game on straight hitting in the seventh inning, but errors by Marquard and Myers gave them their two tallies in the third.

"Ginger" Beaumont reasserted his right to his nick-name by robbing Jack Murray of a two-bagger early in the game. He covered fully 100 feet to his right, and developed an abnormal reach besides. It was the best play of the game. Bridwell and Doyle executed smooth infield plays, and Myers gobbled five foul flies.

Shaw opened the way for Boston's brace of runs in the third inning with a clean hit past Devlin. Sweeney dumped a sacrifice in front of the plate, and Marquard made such a mess of it, trying to pick up the ball that Fred Tenney so far forgot himself that he administered a harsh reprimand on the field.

Brown tried to sacrifice, but fouled to Myers. Becker also fouled out, and then Beck drove a hit to right. Shaw should have been out on Snodgrass's throw, but Myers dropped the ball in tagging his man. Bill Sweeney, who had whirled around to third, took a chance to score on the error, and he got in by a wonderful slide, though Marquard stood waiting for him with the ball in hand. Beck went all the way around to third while this was going on, but Shean's fly to Seymour ended the inning.

Brown gave three passes in the Giants' fourth, and Devlin got a hit besides, and yet there was no score just because Snodgrass ran wild on the bases when the hit was made.

A double to right by Getz, an infield play, and Sweeney's single to left gave the Bostons their run in the seventh.

The New Yorks woke up too late in the ninth. With two out Bridwell hit for two bases to left, and was safe on third on Tenney's single to Sweeney. It was a hard grounder, but there was a chance to cut off "Brid" at third. Myers was presented with his base, and in this interesting situation Harry McCormick batted for Marquard, and Devore was sent out to run for the Indian. He was not fast enough, however, to prevent a force out when McCormick hit to Sweeney. The score:

Miss Bejington Leads Swimmers.

The swimming races for what was billed as the woman's championship of the world resolved itself into one contest in the seventy-yard pool at Steeplechase Park, Coney Island, last night. There were in all twenty entries for the three events, but owing to illness only six competed in the only event that was decided, 210 yards. Among the starters was Elaine Golding of Bath Beach, who is called one of the best women swimmers in America. Miss Golding led for two laps. On the third lap Miss Bejington, with a strong overhand stroke, overtook Miss Golding, with Miss Porray close up. Near the finish both Miss Bejington and Miss Porray passed Miss Golding, Miss Bejington finally winning a splendidly contested race by a yard, with Miss Porray two feet in front of Miss Golding. The winner's time was 3:41 4-5.

There's no question about it.

He wants good clothes—stylish clothes, but the style of Fifth Avenue and not of the musical comedy stage.

The college papers themselves are full of jokes on fellows who "look like the back of a magazine."

We realize that after all these years of making fine clothing, a large proportion of our customers, young and old, depend on us to keep their style up-to-date, without exposing them to the quiet smiles of the knowing.

So this Fall, as always, our suits and overcoats for college men, as for business men, are cut on most "genteel" lines—if we may use a much abused word.

Do we sell mortar boards and academic gowns?

Sure!

YANKEES BEATEN TWICE BY ATHLETICS

"Connie" Mack's Youngsters Gain Several Points on Detroit in Flag Race.

STRONG STAND BY QUAKERS

Champion Tigers Take a Tumble Through Their Own Poor Baserunning—Boston Downs Senators.

The Athletics, by capturing both ends of a double-header, yesterday made it three straight from the Yankees in the present series on the Hilltop, and if they win the last of the series from Stallings's boys this afternoon, they will be in fine position for the four-day tussle with Hughey Jennings's Royal Bengals, to be begun in the Quaker City to-morrow. They defeated the Hilltoppers yesterday by scores of 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, holding the first game safe in spite of a homeric batting rally by the Stallingsites in the ninth inning. As, in each of the three battles they have fought in American League Park this trip, they have worked only one pitcher to a game, their box staff is in good shape for the grueling contest with the league leaders that lies just ahead. Manager Mack has nursed his twirlers carefully, and it would not astonish keen observers of the pennant struggle to see him reap the benefit of his generalship in the Detroit series on his own grounds.

Philadelphia's first run was made when two were out. Collins, the third man up, got a base on balls, and stole second, going to third on Sweeney's wild throw and coming in on Demmitt's erratic return of the ball to the infield. Warhop saved himself in the fourth inning by starting a snappy double play. Baker began the round with a double to right, and went to third on Davis's out. Murphy drove a low line fly to Warhop, who caught it and doubled, Baker to Austin, when the runner was almost on the plate. That liner went so close to the ground that many spectators thought Warhop picked it out of the grass.

In the fifth the Athletics scored again on Thomas's base on balls with one out, Bender's single that carromed off Austin's arm, and Heitmuller's sacrifice fly. It was in the eighth inning that the Macklans clinched their victory. Heitmuller opened with a two-bagger to extreme left and went to third on Warhop's wild throw to catch him off second. Barry and Collins went to first on balls. Baker forced Heitmuller at the plate, Gardner making a gingery throw to Sweeney. Barry and Collins galloped home on Davis's single to right, but Baker was caught at third by Keeler's beautiful throw across the diamond to Austin. Harry taking second on the play. Davis got a run on Murphy's hit to left, after which Warhop threw out Oldring.

The remainder of the eighth and the first half of the ninth were featureless, save that Thomas was hit by a pitched ball. In the latter half of the final, however, Manager Stallings marshaled his forces for a dash for the eighty-ninth parallel, Hemphill batting for Warhop, laid down a delicate bunt, Demmitt drew a pass. Keeler singled to left, filling the bases. Charlie and Ray scored on Chase's one-bagger to sharp left, brisk fielding by Heitmuller, restricting Willie to second. Engle's out at first advanced Willie and Hal. Keeler came in and Chase took third on Gardner's single along the foul line. Chase scored when Elberfeld forced Gardner at second, and there was New York lacking only one of a tie, with two out and a man on first.

Knight went in to run for Elberfeld and Cree batted in Austin's place. Burdie achieved a short infield hit that was just a trifle too close to the plate for Collins to get, Long Jack going to third on the safety. That stirred the onlookers to fever heat, and loud was the cheering when Stallings sent Orth to bat for Sweeney. But it wasn't Smiling Al's day, for his warm grounder went little too close to Collins for comfort, and Eddie threw him out to Davis, ending the game.

The second contest was closer almost all the way. New York was the first to score, making two runs in the second on Kleinow's base on balls and doubles by Demmitt and Keeler. Philadelphia began crawling up in the fourth, getting a run on Murphy's single, and with one down and Oldring's long two-bagger toward the scoreboard. The Athletics tied in the sixth, owing to an error by Demmitt. Collins went to first on balls, and to third on Baker's hit. Davis dropped a fly to short left centre. Demmitt, in a fine dash, cupped his hands under the ball, but permitted it to bounce out. Collins scoring. Then Murphy forced Baker at third, Oldring's foul was captured by Kleinow after a gallant spurt to the stand, and Livingstone flied to Demmitt.

Again, it was in the eighth inning that the visitors won. Baker tripled to far right. Davis died, Elberfeld to Chase, the Kid's crafty fielding holding Baker on third. Murphy got a base on balls. Baker came in on Oldring's out at first, the ball being so hot that Austin could not handle it quickly enough to throw the forward runner out at the plate, and Jimmy barely got the batter. Murphy advanced from second to third on Livingstone's single, well stopped by Elberfeld. With Coombs at bat, he moved too far toward the plate and was caught off, Kleinow to Austin to Kleinow.

This time there was no rally in New York's bat bag, Chase, Engle, and Gardner getting out in short order. Umpire Connolly called the game on account of darkness at the end of that round.

Frank Laporte rejoined the Hilltop team yesterday, but his right ankle is in such bad shape as the result of its recent wrench that it is doubtful if he'll play again this season. The scores:

HARVARD AND YALE WIN.

They Will Decide Intercollegiate Golf Team Championship To-day.

Harvard and Yale will play in the final match to-day for the intercollegiate golf team championship for the coming year. Yale is the present holder, but the deciding contest is not likely to be any one-sided affair, for the Cambridge players are on top of their game, and their New Haven rivals will have to fight hard to keep the title another year. Harvard, owing to the unavoidable absence of two Williams College golfers, had a comparatively easy time of it in the semi-final round yesterday on the Apawamis Club links, beating the Williams team by 7 points to 2. Princeton gave Yale a stiffer fight, the latter winning by 4 points to 2.

In the individual team play against Williams Harvard won five matches, R. L. Jackson capturing the only point for Williams, and Jackson, who teamed with Falsh in the afternoon, was the only foursome victor. The teams and scores:

FAVORITES SWEPT RACES ON THE FLAT

FITZHERBERT WON SPECIAL

Champion Three-Year-Old Led All the Way with High Weight for the Mile and a Quarter Stakes.

Public favorites won straight through the programme of flat races at the opening of the Brooklyn Jockey Club's Fall meeting on the Gravesend track yesterday. Even in the one steeplechase of the card, it was a rather close thing at post time between Bobbin Around and Andrew Summers, and though Bobbin Around started as favorite Andrew Summers, the winner, seemed to be the better backed horse, and the result was hardly an upset, as the two choices finished first and second.

Andrew Summers led from start to finish through two rounds of the field, and though he jumped badly and sprawled in landing several times, he still was good enough to hold Bobbin Around safe at the run in and won, hustled along, by three lengths. In this race, the cross-country jockey, Huppe, riding Sir Bedivere, received a hard and dangerous fall, when Sir Bedivere plunged into the Liverpool jump, hardly making an effort to rise. The horse turned a half somersault on Huppe, Sir Bedivere getting up and galloping off unhurt, while Huppe, unconscious, when the ambulance arrived to remove him, bled at the mouth and seemed badly hurt. He was treated in the emergency hospital at the track, and late in the afternoon was permitted to go to his home.

The programme offered for the opening was modest, but the quality of the racing had less to do with the light attendance than the transportation facilities, for many prospective racegoers turned back when it was announced at Brooklyn Bridge that there would be no special train service. The summaries:

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Chinese Slippers Held Not to be "Wearing Apparel"—Other Decisions.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has reduced the assessment of duty made by Collector Loeb on Chinese slippers. The articles were imported by Kwong Tai Cheng and were returned for duty as "cotton wearing apparel" with a tax of 50 per cent. ad valorem. The importer, on the other hand, alleged that the slippers fall within the tariff provision for "shoes of leather." The tax under the latter paragraph is only 25 per cent.

In an official report the slippers are described as having one layer of leather extending the entire length of the sole and another layer on the ball of the foot and the heel. The evidence submitted by the importer convinced the board that the Collector's classification is erroneous. Collector Loeb is reversed and directed to reliquidate the entries on the basis of the lower duty.

Judge Waite, in a decision for the board, overrules a claim filed by Park & Tilford regarding the classification under the tariff of guava peel preserved in syrup. The importers objected to the classification of the article as a sweetmeat or fruit preserved in sugar, with a tax of 1 cent per pound and 35 per cent. ad valorem.

It was claimed to be dutiable as "prepared fruit" and at other rates lower than assessed by the Collector, but none of the claims are held by the board to be applicable. The Government's assessment will stand.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

ABRAHAM LEVINSON.—Judge Holt has appointed Joseph S. Wood of Mount Vernon receiver in bankruptcy for Abraham Levinson, doing business as M. S. Levinson, dealer in hardware and paint supplies in New Rochelle, with a bond of $600. The assets are $1,200 in stock.

OVINGTON MOTOR COMPANY.—Judge Holt has appointed Arthur Patterson receiver in bankruptcy for the Ovington Motor Company, 2,234 Broadway, and authorized him to continue business twenty days. The assets consist of motor cycles and supplies, $1,000, and accounts, $2,500

LOUIS SOLNIKER.—Louis Solniker, wholesale dealer in woolens of 225 Greene Street, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on July 27, has made a settlement with creditors at 25 cents on the dollar, and Judge Holt has dismissed the petition. The creditors are David Forst, $750; Agnes E. Williamson, $640; Henry Benton Harward, $500; Cora Poe Hopper, $410, and Margaret Concannon, $300.

E. WILLARD JONES.—Judge Holt has appointed Carleton S. Cooke receiver in bankruptcy for E. Willard Jones, hatter of 40 Nassau Street. The stock on hand is estimated at $1,000. It was stated that a letter sent out by his son gave information to creditors that Mr. Jones had departed from the city. It was also alleged that he has left unpaid debts of $15,000, and has collected within a few weeks a large sum of money in rents of property for which he acted as agent.

ALOIS FINK.—Alois Fink, baker, of 438 East Seventy-second Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $16,947, and no assets. He has some stock in the Standard Bread Company, of which he was a Director, but it is of no value, as the company is in bankruptcy. Among the creditors are Samuel Fink, $4,500; Rudolph Fink, $900; Alexander Fink, $650; Mrs. Caroline Fink, $1,300; Louisa Fink, unknown; Duhrshop Oven Company, $2,400, and New York City Milling Company, $1,200. STEPHEN J. SCHERER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Stephen J. Scherer, photographer, of 1,100 Broadway, by Charles W. Osborn, a creditor, for $1,800, money loaned on Jan. 18 last. It was alleged that while insolvent on Aug. 22 he transferred the stock and fixtures of studios at 1,100 and 1,269 Broadway and 22 West Twenty-third Street, valued at over $5,000, to persons unknown to the petitioner, without consideration. Mr. Scherer was formerly in the same line of business in Buffalo, and began here in 1898. In July, 1908, he had six studios and claimed to be worth over $43,000. Besides the photo business he was also interested in several moving picture concerns.

SCHWARTZ & CO.—Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday against Schwartz & Co., cabinet makers and office furniture, at 177 Prince Street and 62 Centre Street, and Judge Holt appointed James O. Tryon receiver, with a bond of $1,500. The creditors in one of the petitions are Sigmund Baumoehl, $353; Abraham Emmerman, $150, and William B. Maywood, $181. The creditors in the other petition are Meyer Pinkus, $248; Joseph Levitan, $200, and Lazar Lashansky, $130. It was alleged that they were insolvent, made preferential payments, and removed part of their stock. It was stated in the application for the receiver that for a week frequent calls had been made at their place of business, but none of the partners was in, and on Monday business appeared to be at a standstill. The business was started in 1897, and since then has been slightly damaged by fire five times. There are three partners in the firm—Messrs. Schwartz, Horowitz, and Helfand.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

COAL ROAD STOCKS FEATURE

Rise in General Market Substantial Under Their Leadership — Demand Rate Highest Since February Last.

A rise in call money rates to 3 per cent. was the most interesting development on financial markets yesterday. This is the first time the quotation for demand loans has touched this figure since the second week in February of the present year. A 3 per cent. rate in itself is of no great consequence, but it marks the passing of the money market from what may be termed post-panic conditions. In the best-informed banking quarters the belief exists that nothing above a 5 per cent. rate for call loans will be secured as an average through the remaining months of the present year. This opinion is based very largely upon the moderate requirements in sight in our own market and the promise of ease in foreign financial centres. Yesterday's upturn in quotations follows very naturally upon the showing of the banks on Saturday last, and the money movements since. The loss to the Sub-Treasury alone since Friday last has amounted to practically the actual surplus disclosed in the bank statement.

On the Stock Exchange the rise in money was without effect, the causes and probable extent of the movements being well understood. Securities were strong throughout the day, without spectacular features, but with substantial advances in many directions. Railroads and industrials were equally favored in the buying which was still very largely professional. The anthracite group was plainly influenced again by the persistent reports of dividend increases, this being notably the case in Jersey Central and Reading in this market and in Lehigh Valley in Philadelphia. Chesapeake & Ohio moved forward sharply in connection with the report that the negotiations under way some time ago for the acquisition by this road of the Hocking Valley had been successful. Union Pacific shares reflected the continued discussion of the "segregation plan," the preferred stock in particular responding to such comment by an advance of nearly 2 points. Actual news was largely of a routine character, but special interest attached to the excellent conditions noted in the Government weekly weather report and to the favorable crop forecasts in the customary weekly reviews of crop conditions by several of the more important granger roads.

Asks Receiver for Railway Equipment Company.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Appointment of a receiver for the Chicago Railway Equipment Company, a $2,500,000 corporation, is sought in a bill filed here to-day by Henry D. Laughlin, who says he is a heavy stockholder. In the bill E. B. Leigh, President of the company, is accused of having made personal use of money belonging to the company. It is alleged that the present rate of dividends and salaries if continued will drive the company into bankruptcy.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Melon Prospects in Hard Coalers.

The "Hard Coalers" were the centre of attraction on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The continuous rise of Jersey Central and Reading here and the remarkable advance of Lehigh Valley on the Philadelphia Exchange have served to stimulate the interest always manifested in these stocks on the slightest of excuses. Various explanations, of course, are offered in different quarters for the movements of the shares involved, but the underlying suggestion in all of them is a larger distribution in some form to stockholders. The Jersey Central Directors' meeting for dividend purposes is close at hand. If the rate is advanced, the Reading, of course, shares in the increase. A theory advanced yesterday was that the Lehigh & Susquehanna, which is leased from the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company on a basis of 33 1-3 per cent. of gross earnings, had accumulated a large surplus, and that in cutting it up the Reading would benefit substantially. In Philadelphia, Lehigh Valley rose to 100. Inasmuch as the stock is dealt in there in dollars and the shares are fifty-dollar shares, this is equal to a quotation of 200.

Westinghouse Prosperity.

Another bit of dividend news which came in for comment yesterday was that relating to the restoration of the extra 1½ per cent. payment by the Westinghouse Air Brake Company. This is the first time the extra disbursement has been made by the Air Brake Company for more than a year, and its payment naturally directed attention to the position of Westinghouse Manufacturing shares. It is understood that the manufacturing company is doing a business as large as at any time in its history, but so far, at least, no intimation has been given of a resumption of dividends, and the stock itself, which has been quiet and steady around 85, has held out little encouragement for such expectations.

D., L. & W. Coal Dividend.

When the Delaware and Lackawanna Coal Company was formed several months ago and the shares offered for subscription to the stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, it was intimated that stockholders might expect dividends at the rate of about 10 per cent. on their holdings. Since its organization the company, it is understood, has been earning enough to pay a dividend at the rate, but the Directors have considered it wiser to put off any distribution until the company's business has been tried out for six months at least. No better indication of the way in which Delaware, Lackawanna & Western stock is held could be asked than that contained in the statement made yesterday that only 5 per cent. of the coal company's stock had gone into the market through the failure of railroad stockholders to subscribe or through sales of their holdings in the open market.

Linseed Oil Publicity.

The American Linseed Oil Company, controlled by the Rockefeller interests, is the latest convert to the policy of publicity. The company has been controlled by the Standard Oil folks for years, and during all this time its affairs have been so closely guarded as to leave the general public with very little insight into the company's standing. After the annual meeting of the stockholders yesterday, however, the Directors of the company went into session to debate whether application should be made to list the stock in the regular way on the Stock Exchange. It has rested in the unlisted department, which has now come under the ban of the Exchange authorities. No decision was reached, but the fact that the company thought it expedient to make a full report on its business for the year has induced the belief that its shares will soon be offered for listing in the regular way.

Union Pacific Stock Borrowings.

In the loan crowd yesterday brokers reported that a good deal of borrowed Union Pacific stock had been returned and that larger amounts were expected before the opening of business to-day. Estimates of the total of such borrowings varied, but a fair average was 200,000 shares, all of this presumably having been obtained for voting purposes in the last two months. When the demand for the stock was first noticed many people on the floor were certain that important interests in the company were selling long stock and borrowing certificates for delivery. The course of prices, however, led to the abandonment of this theory, and it was finally concluded that the desire on the part of the borrowers was simply to make a substantial showing at the annual meeting. The transfer books have now been closed for the meeting, and no reason exists for retaining the stock. It takes a good deal of money to carry 200,000 shares of stock like Union Pacific, and it was thought possible that the shifting of loans involved might affect the money market. Yesterday's rise in rates to 3 per cent., however, seemed more directly traceable to the small surplus of the banks as reported on Saturday and the heavy drain to the Sub-Treasury since that time.

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

Americans Irregular, but Harder at Close in London.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Money was in quiet request on the market to-day, and discounts hardened.

Trading on the Stock Exchange is still quiet, and business was of small dimensions. Consols and gilt-edged securities were steady and home rails were dull. Kaffirs hardened on Paris support. Diamond shares were held up on dividend expectations and copper shares were steadier.

American securities, after a quiet opening, became irregular. Union Pacific started weak, but rallied later, and at noon the market was steady, from ⅜ below to 1⅛ above yesterday's New York closing. The market in this section ruled irregular, particularly in the case of Union Pacific, which was active in the afternoon. The New York opening had a steadying effect, and prices gradually hardened and were maintained at the close.

Money, ¾@1 per cent.
The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills, 1½ per cent.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The tendency on the Bourse to-day was generally heavy.
Three per cent. rentes, 98f. 42½c. for the account.
Exchange on London, 25f. 14½c. for checks.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were weaker on local realizations, being also under the influence of advices from New York and London.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Trading in the local market to-day was generally confined to specialties, among which Allouez, Centennial, La Salle, and Isle Royale were particular features. Allouez advanced over 5 points, to 58; Centennial three points, to 43; La Salle sold up to 15⅜, and Lake to 36. Among the miscellaneous issues, American Telephone and United Fruit came in for the largest share of attention, the former advancing to 143⅜ and United Fruit to 157, the buying in both issues being considered of excellent character. The general market closed strong and at about best prices for the day.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—All markets were in a very strong position for a time yesterday, the Northwest leading at noon, with an advance of 2c in cash wheat. Late in the day, a message was received crediting a former bull leader with the statement that he had not personally bought any wheat, leading to the conclusion that the buying was for customers of his house. This immediately started a selling movement, and prices dropped about a cent per bushel in the West. Receipts at all interior points were 1,875,000 bushels, against 1,846,000 bushels last week, and 2,198,000 bushels this day last year. Foreign markets were all firmer, especially Berlin and Budapest, which were up 1½c. Rains in the Southwest were favorable for Fall plowing. Export business of eight loads was reported, and cash wheat in New York closed: No. 2 red, $1.09⅝ elevator and $1.12½ free on board afloat, both nominal; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.10½, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.13⅝ free on board, afloat, nominal.

CORN—Between favorable weather news, a slight decline in cables, and larger receipts at Chicago than expected, together with further country selling, the market sold off a little yesterday, but soon rallied, only to ease off again in the late afternoon. Primary receipts were 933,000 bushels against 945,000 bushels the previous week, and 562,000 bushels last year. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted at 79c elevator, 80c delivered, and 65¾c free on board, afloat, all nominal.

"The score is one of the best that has been heard on Broadway for several seasons, and possesses more charm than the 'Merry Widow.'"—William Bullock in The Press.
